WALLACEBURG, Ont. — Prime Minister Lester Pearson was cheered all along the way Tuesday as he carried the Liberal banner of prosperity into Southwestern Ontario.

He drew big crowds and good responses in a hectic 16-hour campaign day—one of his busiest of the election—in predominantly Tory country.

Pearson tied his plea for a majority Liberal government to the continuation and expansion of Canada's current prosperity.

He was in good form and clicked at three speaking engagements during the day, particularly at a night rally in Wallaceburg, a largely rural area about 50 miles north of Windsor.

The meeting drew an enthusiastic, Maple Leaf-flag waving capacity crowd of more than 1,400.

Pearson praised the achievements of the Canada-U.S. auto pact—which he said the Tories no longer criticize because of increased production and jobs and lower prices—and fanned speculation of impending major industrial announcements in this part of Ontario.

EXCITING NEWS

The prime minister said some pretty exciting happenings are due in the near future because of the pact.

There are strong rumors that one of the big three manufacturers is planning a $75 million plant near London.

But he also drew rounds of applause as he touched on a wide range of topics—nationalism, unity, agricultural policies, industrial expansion, and the need for more trade.

30 RIDINGS

Pearson's reception raised high hopes of Liberal organizers that they can cut into Tory strength in the area. There are 30 ridings in the region west of Toronto bounded by Lake Erie and Lake Huron, and the split in the last election was Conservatives 20, Liberals 10.

The prime minister drew 600 people to a stand-up, lunch-time speech in London, and then visited Sarnia.

Wallaceburg is in Lambton-Kent riding, won by the Tories by a slim 24-vote margin in 1963, and the Liberals are hopeful that Jack Beatty can win it this time.

KEY FACTOR

'Fight for Unity, Based on Equality'

By STAN McDOWELL

QUEBEC CITY—An enthusiastic crowd of about 1,100 Tuesday night applauded Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker's "appeal to the heart of Quebec" in its ancient capital.

The crowd, larger by about 200 than the one drawn by Prime Minister Pearson when he spoke here two weeks ago, twice gave Mr. Diefenbaker the traditional French-Canadian salute: A chorus of "Il a Gagne ses Epaulettes."

"I have always fought for the constitutional rights of the minority," the Conservative leader said. "I fight now for unity based on equality."

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke in French for 15 minutes from a prepared text and then switched to English for the benefit "of those who are not completely bilingual."

WORKING-CLASS DISTRICT

"They said I didn't dare to come into this province," Mr. Diefenbaker told the audience in Durocher Centre in a working-class district of Quebec. "I was to be welcomed as the pestilence.

"There was none of that."

Mr. Diefenbaker cited, as among the services done French Canada by his government:

- Simultaneous translation in the House of Commons;
- Appointment of the first French-speaking governor-general;
- Appointment of outstanding French-speaking Canadians to senior posts in the public service.

He said that these steps had met opposition but he took them because "they were right."

'DEAD AS A DODO'

The Conservative leader said that thanks to him the Fulton-Favreau formula for amending the constitution was "dead as a dodo."

He said that under the formula the French-speaking citizens of Canada would never have been able to improve their position and increase their

N.S. Demonstrators Ask for More Aid

HALIFAX (CP)—An orderly crowd of more than 1,000 students representing six Nova Scotia universities marched on the legislative buildings today with a seven-page brief asking more government aid to higher education.

They were met on the steps by Finance Minister G. I. Smith and Attorney-General Richard A. Donahoe, representing Premier and Education Minister Stanfield, as well as Liberal Leader Gerald A. Regan and Acting New Democratic Party Leader J. H. Aitchison.

Key recommendations called for increased federal and provincial financial aid, including increased per capita grants to $5 from the current $2, more assistance in the form of scholarships and bursaries and "a corresponding, immediate reduction of fees."

The brief also asked for a federal-provincial conference on higher education, immediately after the Nov. 8 federal election "to delineate federal-provincial responsibilities in higher education."

Finance Minister Smith told the students, "We'd be delighted to attend if it can be arranged."

Service Retirements Hit By Dief

FREDERICTON, N.B. (UPI) — Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker said today that if elected his party will discontinue the current forced retirements in the armed forces and give a bonus to servicemen who re-enlist.

Diefenbaker was commenting here on a letter sent to the forces by Lester B. Pearson, in which the prime minister set out Liberal achievements.

Diefenbaker said that instead of boasting, the Liberal government should be doing something to raise the morale of the forces now "at its lowest level in history."

"We intend to do away with the rule of forced retirement," said Diefenbaker. "Those who have retired should be given the opportunity to re-enlist."

Highway Workers Killed In Canyon

BOSTOR BAR (CP) — Two men were killed and two injured today when a platform on which they were standing while they worked on a highway rock face collapsed.

Police said the platform was being held up by a crane. The crane collapsed and the platform followed it.

Brazil President Grabs New Powers

Decree Abolishes Political Parties

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Balked by Congress, the Brazilian government abolished all political parties today and gave military courts sweeping new powers.

Under a new Institutional Act superseding portions of the constitution, President Humberto Castello Branco has power to declare a state of siege and to rule by decree for up to 180 days and grant military courts jurisdiction over cases heretofore limited to the supreme court.

Castello Branco came out of the army leadership in April, 1964, to take over the government after the military overthrew leftist Joao Goulart as president.

The president is empowered to close Congress during the state of siege and purge public officials elected or appointed at all levels — federal, state and municipal.

Despite the abolition of political parties and their membership registries, the present congress remains open.

SPOKE ON TV

In a brief address on television before the new act was read by an aide, Castello Branco said the step was necessary because "we need tranquillity for the nation's economic development."

Castello Branco said the revolutionary regime in power since Goulart's overthrow faces danger from supporters of the deposed president who "threaten and dare revolutionary action."

"Revolution is alive and does not retreat."

The other measures in the new act include expansion of the supreme court to 16 members from 11 and indirect election of the next president by Congress.

The document said the president would decide the date for the next presidential election, which must be held no later than Oct. 3, 1966.

The announcement followed a week of political tension climaxed by marathon congressional sessions Tuesday night debating government - backed constitutional changes.

SUPPORTED GOULART

Resistance revolved around the Social Democratic party and the Brazilian Labor party, both strong supporters of Goulart.

One provision of the new act says future constitutional amendments proposed by the government will go into effect automatically if they are not acted upon by congress within 30 days of their submission.

Kubitschek, whose return from self-exile Oct. 4 helped precipitate the crisis, is under medical care, reported suffering from high blood pressure after nearly two weeks of questioning by military inquiry boards. The boards are investigating charges of corruption and Communist infiltration during the regime.

CREW SAFE

Freighter Ripped By Rocks

Injured Seamen Rescued By 'Copter

By JIM HUME

A gale-battered Sudbury II sailed into Adak Harbor late Tuesday night several hours after the freighter she was going to help slammed ashore on the barren coast of Great Sitkin Island.

For 2,500 gale-tossed miles the Sudbury had driven north to take in tow the propellerless Greek ship Ekaterini G.

But early Tuesday morning (7:30 Alaska time, 11:30 a.m. here) the tow cable, which a United States navy tug got aboard the vessel eight days before, snapped in a 70-mile-an-hour gale and rising seas off Great Sitkin.

Before another line could be fired the wind and sea had rammed the Ekaterini G. high on the rocks ripping her hull from bow to midships.

WAVES BATTER SHIP

Half of the 40-man crew was ordered to abandon ship as crashing waves battered the stricken ship and threatened to grind her to pieces on the rocks.

They scrambled ashore taking with them two injured crew members, one with a broken neck and the other with undetermined injuries, to huddle around driftwood fires until aid came.

In an exclusive telephone interview this morning Captain J. W. Bartol, officer commanding the United States navy base at Adak a few miles away, filled in the details for The Times.

INJURED RESCUED

He told the story of two young navy pilots, Lieut.-Commander Joseph Kneily and Lieut. (JG) Robert Hamel, who flew helicopters in the teeth of treacherously gusting 50-mile-an-hour winds and driving rain to pluck the two injured men from the gale-swept barren island.

"It was pretty rough flying weather with driving rain showers and winds steady at 45 but gusting to 50 and more," Capt. Bartol said.

"But they managed to get in and out with the injured men without further mishap. Lieut.-Commander Kneily flew the

Africans Herded By Dogs

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Police today used snarling and biting dogs to control excited crowds of Negroes who gathered in the centre of Salisbury while British Prime Minister Wilson met an African nationalist leader.

Newspaper men saw a Negro policeman with a vicious-looking black dog give the animal a free leash to jump at groups of persons who refused to move on.

The scenes took place as Wilson, who flew to Salisbury Monday in a last-ditch bid to keep this self-governing white-ruled British colony from seizing independence, met with restricted nationalist leader Joshua Nkomo.

The arrest for incitement of a colored (mixed race) family—a middle-aged man, his wife and teen - age son — nearly sparked a full-scale riot.

PUSHED INTO WAGON

They were pushed into a paddy wagon shouting: "Give us back our country, we kill you all if you don't!"

Reporters saw at least four persons arrested and several others mauled by dogs as police dispersed the crowd of several hundred Africans outside Government House.

Some of the demonstrators held crudely-painted signs with slogans including "Africans must rule now," "We want our country—take away (Prime Minister Ian) Smith now and suspend the constitution" and "Wilson: One man, one vote in Zimbabwe (Rhodesia)."

About half the police handling the crowd were white and half Negroes.

Half an hour later only a few persons remained in the area of Government House and police guarded approach roads over a diameter of about a quarter of a mile to prevent a recurrence of the demonstrations.

Cong Invade, Blast Two U.S. Bases

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (UPI) — Viet Cong commandos slipped into two major U.S. Marine Corps air bases today in simultaneous midnight attacks 60 miles apart. The infiltrators blasted the bases with hand grenades and mortar fire.

A U.S. military spokesman said the guerrillas destroyed a number of planes at the Chu Lai air strip for jet fighters and a number of helicopters at the marine air installation just east of Da Nang.

Bomb Blasts Home of MP

SMETHWICK (Reuters) — An explosion early today that wrecked the hall in the home of Smethwick's controversial MP, Peter Griffiths, was caused by a time bomb, police said.

Griffiths, 37-year-old Conservative member, took the seat last year by defeating former foreign secretary Patrick Gordon Walker in a campaign marked by racial issues. This industrial town has a large Negro and Asian population.

Love-Struck Charles Sent Into Exile?

PARIS (Reuters) — The weekly newspaper France Dimanche says Prince Charles is being exiled to school in Australia because he has fallen in love with a Scottish farmer's daughter.

The paper, which specializes in sensational stories about persons in high society, says the 17-year-old British prince met the girl, Juliette, in a cafe at Elgin, near his school at Gordonstoun in Northern Scotland.

(In London, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said today: "The prince is going to Australia to study in the normal course of his education and for no other reason.")

It was officially announced earlier this month that Charles would become a pupil for 3½ months at Geelong grammar school, one of Australia's leading academies.

AMERICANS EYEING CHURCHILL MANSION

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill's famous London home, 28 Hyde Park Gate, will be sold at auction here Thursday.

The buyer could be an American. "There have been many inquiries from potential American buyers and we expect them here in force," said an official of the auctions—Knight, Frank and Rutley.

The house—really two houses, because it includes No. 2 Hyde Park Gate next door—is expected to bring between £80,000 and £100,000 ($240,000 to $300,000).

The auctioneers have imposed no condition of sale concerning the use of the house or who buys it. But a move is under way to have it declared an historic building. If the could not be moved or substantially altered without official approval.

MOST AFFLUENT COUNTRY BRITISH SURVEYS SHOW

'World Champion in High Living'—That's Canada

LONDON (CP) — Canada is the Western world's most affluent country and enjoys a moderate cost of living compared with other industrial nations, two British newspaper surveys indicate.

A "table of affluence" published today by The Daily Express rates Canada "the world champion in high living." The rating is based on a system that relates good living to the percentage of households possessing central heating, refrigerators, cars, telephones, washing machines and television.

A Financial Times survey on the cost of living in 23 major world cities, also published today, shows Montreal is a place of moderate costs compared with Tokyo, New York, Paris and London.

The international affluence table in The Express, based on statistics from eight countries, shows Canada top in all six categories—75 per cent of Canadian homes with central heating, 96 per cent with refrigerators, 75 per cent with cars, 89 per cent telephones, 86 per cent washing machines and 93 per cent television.

The United States is second to Canada in all categories but central heating, where Sweden is second. Other countries in the survey are Britain, Italy, France, West Germany and Switzerland.

Britain ranks third in possession of television sets and washing machines, fifth in telephones and seventh in central heating, refrigerators and cars.

Italy ranks last of the eight countries in all but the television and washing machines categories, where France is bottom of the league.

The Financial Times table, an annual survey designed as a "rough guide" for British businessmen travelling or posted abroad, compares prices for set commodities and services.

It compares the monthly rent for three-room furnished apartment; the cost of a designated shopping list of groceries; the price of a top-rated hotel room; the bill for an evening of specified activities on the town; the price of a designated man's wardrobe, and the bill for a week's service — a charwoman for 20 hours, the weekly laundry and dry - cleaning one suit.

Of eight directly comparable items, the cost in Montreal is in the lower half of the 23-city table for all but clothing and service.

Only Paris and Brussels price a normal weight lounge suit, good - quality shoes and shirt higher than the $126 listed for Montreal, London and New York. The weekly bill for charwoman and laundry service in Montreal is given as $33, with only New York and Stockholm more expensive.

In the key categories of rent, food and clothing, the most expensive cities are Tokyo, Paris, New York, Mexico City, Stockholm, Rome, Helsinki and London. Comparable figures for Montreal are about one-third of Tokyo's cost rating and two-thirds of London's.

A night on the town for four persons — pre-dinner drinks, orchestra theatre sets, dinner at a fashionable restaurant, champagne at a night club and 15 miles in a taxi—is less expensive in Montreal at $81 than in almost any other major city, the survey indicates.

A similar night out in Tokyo would cost $270, in New York $265, in Paris $215 and in London $150, the survey shows.

Students here are purty orderly. Some places, they hurry t' clashes instead o' classes.

"I took the stand alone," he declared.

"Finally the Conservative party followed me."

His views on the constitution were:

'FOR, BY CANADIANS'

"Let us have a constitution made in Canada for Canadians and by Canadians."

To accomplish this he favored a constitutional conference in the spirit of the first Fathers of Confederation who, despite suspicions and fears, "were able to join together."

Such a conference would have been held if his government had not been defeated by a vote of the House in 1963 and would be held if he were returned to offic.

"Nobody can deny," he said, that such a conference to gauge the spirit of Canada as a whole would be a success."

Of the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism, Mr. Diefenbaker said that he and his party took the position that "a lot would be said but no action taken."

FORMER MINISTERS

Conservative candidates from the Quebec City district shared the platform with Mr. Diefenbaker. Among them were two formet ministers, Raymond O'Hurley, defence production, and Martial Asselin, forestry, both seeking re-election Nov. 8.

Mr. O'Hurley scoffed at charges that Mr. Diefenbaker was a "mange-Canayen" (literally an eater of French-Canadians).

Andre Asselin, 25-year-old law student who is PC candidate in Quebec-Montmorency, accused Lean Balcer, former Quebec leader of the Conservatives, who said there was no place for a French-Canadian in the Diefenbaker party, of having received "thirty pieces of silver from the Liberals."

PARTY PROGRAM

Mr. Diefenbaker devoted much of the French portion of his speech to an outline of his party's program:

- Aid to Eastern Canadian farmers;
- A guaranteed price of $4 a hundred pounds for industrial milk;
- Grants, in agreement with the provinces, of 75 per cent of the cost of schools for retraining those who wished to get into other lines of work;
- Removal of the "unjustifiable" tax of 11 per cent on construction materials;
- Restoration of federal subsidies of 35 per cent on shipbuilding in Canada;
- Increase of old age pension from $75 to $100.
- Establishment of a health program according to the report of the royal commission on health services.

lead helicopter. Lieut. Hamel followed a few minutes later."

CONDITION FAIR

Both injured men are in the U.S. navy base hospital at Adak and are reported in fair condition.

Their names have not yet been released by the shipping company.

"She must have had a terrible trip up here," Capt. Bartol said. "She came in late last night and is tied up here right now with the crew taking it easy."

SEA SUBSIDING

"She's standing by in case the weather deteriorates and the Ekaterini starts to break up," Capt. Bartol said. "There is no immediate danger of that and the sea is subsiding a little. The men still on board are quite safe at present. But she will stay out there with her 80-man crew just in case."

Capt. Bartol said it was impossible to say at this time whether the Ekaterini — bound for Japan to Vancouver in ballast to pick up a grain cargo when disaster overtook her — will be a total loss.

'DOESN'T LOOK GOOD'

"It's difficult to say just how badly damaged she is," Capt. Bartol said. "But it doesn't look good. She has a slash from bows to midship and she's high and dry on the rocks. But we shall have to make a closer examination before any decision can be made."

If the Ekaterini is a total loss her crew will be ferried first to Adak and then to Anchorage before being returned to Vancouver to await shipping company instructions.

The saga of the Ekaterini began nine days ago when heaving seas lifted her stern out of the water and she threw her propeller.

For almost 24 hours she was at the mercy of pounding seas until the Adak-based tug reached her and began the long tow to the Aleutians.

The two vessels fought continuous gales until Tuesday morning when the tug pulled the Ekaterini into the lee of Great Sitkine a few miles from safe water.

LAST PUNCH

And there, with the Sudbury II still pounding towards the rendezvous point, the ocean threw its last punch, the cable snapped and the freighter drove ashore.

This morning Capt. Bartol said the weather was "pretty good for up here. Heavy rain showers, winds still gusting to 50 miles an hour but with the sea subsiding."

When it subsides enough the last chapter of the drama will be enacted. The navy tug will move in and take the cold and wet seamen off the beach and the Sudbury will start its long, tow-less journey home.

band and led inside by pipers. A responsive crowd gave him a long standing ovation.

The prime minister said things can be done by a minority government and he was proud of the achievements of the last 2½ years—but said a majority is desirable for long-term planning, and to give the central government a strong voice when dealing with the provinces and foreign governments.

Pearson said farm export throughout Canada has increased during the Liberal rule, and he was applauded again when he cited the latest $400 million wheat sale to China.

VIGOROUS DRIVE

But he said there must be a vigorous export drive for other specialized farm products of Canada.

Pearson also said the family farm must produce a living comparable to that provided by the average annual industrial wage, which he said was about $4,200 across Canada.

Pearson also announced that $4 million in support prices will be going out to Canada's sugar-beet farmers for the 1966 season. Lambton-Kent is a beet-producing area.

SHARP REDUCTION

He said that unemployment had come down in the Liberal era to 2.5 per cent, a sharp reduction from the 750,000 unemployed in the John Diefenbaker years.

His remarks on unity drew cheers, applause, and the waving of Maple Leaf flags.

Pearson said the French-speaking people in Canada have guaranteed rights under the constitution that must be respected.

"They must feel they are partners in Canada as well as Canadians in Quebec," Pearson said.

HOME GARDEN

Cuttings Now Assured Head Start

By HILDA BEASTALL

Although it is possible to take cuttings from the zonal geraniums (pelargoniums) at practically any time during the next five months, the ones taken and rooted now will certainly have a head start on those taken later.

Hilda

Fluorescent lighting can be employed with advantage, and the individual can experiment on the positioning of a tube to give the desired results.

Many gardeners use fluorescent lighting successfully for growing all manner of plants in an otherwise dark basement.

There are books on the subject in the public libraries.

ON DRY SIDE

If neither a greenhouse nor artificial lighting is available, it is better to keep geranium cuttings very much on the dry side until about Christmas or the new year.

They may even be left in the rooting pots until then, which will successfully inhibit their growth if kept dry.

Pot into three-inch or three-and-a-half-inch pots at that time, and gradually give a little more water as the sunlight becomes stronger and growth more active.

Before the roots reach the sides of the pots transfer the plants into four-inch pots where they may stay until planted out into the garden or planter-box.

In a basement or storage room where the winter temperature remains around 50 deg. F. or a little less, the old geraniums may be hung by the roots from the rafters.

Cut back severely in late March and repotted, these will make large plants again for spring bedding.

Abolition of Fees Sought In Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — University of Alberta students today asked the provincial government to abolish university tuition fees in Alberta.

A brief to Education Minister R. H. McKinnon, said tuition free education "should at least be provided for first year students who suffer most acutely from the financial and social barriers to post-secondary education."

The brief, presented by the students' union on both Edmonton and Calgary campuses, coincided with National Student Day, celebrated by most Canadian universities.

All-Candidate Event Off; Socred Rally Same Night

The meeting was planned some time ago for next Wednesday night, but recently the Social Credit party arranged a public rally with Premier Bennett speaking for the same night at the Royal Theatre.

Ralph Pettie, president of the Political Science Forum at the University of Victoria, said the absence of Social Credit candidates means it no longer would be an all-candidates' meeting.

He said he will will contact candidates to get their thoughts before making a decision to go ahead again with the meeting. The playhouse still is booked for that night.

But a Liberal party spokesman said there has been too much "shilly-shallying" about the meeting before now, and both local candidates have arranged other meetings after being told the all-candidates' meeting is off.

An all-candidates' meeting in Esquimalt-Saanich will be held in—Sidney Elementary School Monday at 8 p.m.

Taking part will be James Gorst (Liberal), Len Stephenson (NDP), Mrs. Vera Pipes (Social Credit) and a representative of George Chatterton (Conservative), who has another engagement that night.

The meeting is sponsored by the Sidney Junior Chamber of Commerce, whose president, W. J. Knowles, will be in the chair.

Nature wouldn't replant this timberland for at least 5 years.

Our foresters already have.

It takes Nature five years or more to reseed many forest areas after they have been logged. But in the timberlands we manage, trained foresters start planting almost on the heels of departing loggers. We have other ways of nudging Nature, too. Careful spacing of new plantings is one example. Selective thinning of trees for a healthier crop is another. As a result of these and other forestry measures, the timber crop will be ready for harvesting about ten years earlier than "natural" forests. And they'll eventually yield as much as 40% more wood per acre. In your great-grandchildren's world, where forest products will be more important than ever – that's going to make a fine legacy.

'END GOVERNMENT INTERFERENCE'

Unity, Common Good of All Major Issues in Campaign

By ROGER STONEBANKS
(Fifth in a Series)

National unity and the common good of all Canadians are the important issues facing the country Nov. 8, says the Progressive Conservative candidate in Victoria.

"The Liberals want majority government to override Parliament and gloss over moral terpitude," said Rev. Clifford Waite.

One of the main issues is social justice in terms of decent pensions for retired persons, the veterans, disabled and blind, he said.

"I think (Prime Minister) Pearson is sincere when he wants unity in the nation but I don't see him accomplishing this by pandering to Quebec."

He called for a confederation of persons from all phases of life to deal with the problem on the basis of equality.

Mr. Waite, who is bilingual, said the main problem in Quebec is economic. "They are looking for a place in the sun."

It was necessary to put aside "personalities and petty parochialism" because the future of the nation was at stake.

★ ★ ★

He also stressed the need for greater university and vocational training to offset loss through automation.

WAITE
. . . Conservative candidate

The former navy chaplain, who resigned his commission to contest and win the Conservative nomination, said he is a reluctant candidate.

"I didn't want to be, I liked the navy," he said.

"I have always lived by faith and when asked to run felt a coward to turn it down."

Mr. Waite, 44, was born near Toronto and came to Victoria 2½ years ago with the navy.

I asked him why a Victoria voter should cast a ballot for Rev. Waite and the Conservatives.

"The only reason to vote for me is that I'd like government to be the instrument for the betterment of the ordinary homeowner and the average businessman.

"I'd like to create legislation to free us from unnecessary government interference, to make a better life for ourselves with our own initiative and own personal freedom.

"I want you to be able to be you; not a puppet pulled by all these strings."

PRINCESS JOINS UNION TO START NEW PRESS

BIRMINGHAM (Reuters) — Princess Margaret joined a labor union to press a button and start a newspaper rotary press here Tuesday.

She was handed a gold-lettered union card giving her honorary membership in the National Society of Operative Printers and Assistants.

The princess' union membership drew a protest from an another union, the National Graphical Union, which said only its members have the right to start a rotary press. But a spokesman said they will not press the issue.

Calculated Chaos

TO PREMIER BENNETT'S APparent obsession that Canada is a malignant power against which British Columbia must be doggedly defended—with himself as first man at the barricade — has now been added a sinister spoiling tactic.

He seeks to shackle Canada with a parliament which would find both of the main political parties without a majority and contesting for the support of a handful of Social Credit members from this province whose sole preoccupation, according to the formula, would be to exact from the nation everything that British Columbia (Mr. Bennett) wished to demand.

It is difficult to believe that so shrewd a politician as Mr. Bennett could seriously offer such an incredible proposition to any body of Canadian voters. On the basis which he presents, Canada's government would become hostage to a small group of members with but a single principle: My province, right or wrong.

Nothing could more quickly imperil the institution of our national parliament, nothing could more quickly destroy Confederation, than such a ruthless program of separatism. British Columbia, under such a plan, would deserve nothing but the retaliation which the nine other provinces would inevitably impose. But Canada itself would be the chief sufferer: the Canadian identity could disappear in a chaotic welter of cross purposes and sectional selfishness.

It ill becomes the head of one of Canada's most prosperous provinces to take the attitude that the nation's elected law-making body is merely a means to a provincial end, that the historic House of Commons is nothing more than a bargain counter at which a splinter group can force the country to its will on threat of stalemate of the law-making function or defeat of the administration.

Yet what other meaning can we take from Mr. Bennett's recent campaign utterances? "Diefenbaker was bad enough—Pearson is worse." "Nobody, but nobody, should vote Liberal!" "The old-line parties take your money to spend on politics—not progress." All these point to a determination to break down the organization of the political forces of this country on a national basis and establish a system of contending regional blocks.

Mr. Bennett recognizes that the group for which he speaks has proved unable to achieve a national following. This being the case he is prepared to destroy the very basis of national polity in the hope he may achieve his ends through opportunistic manoeuvre in a chaos of regional minorities.

What the premier of this province proposes is nothing less than a formula for national dissolution. It is a formula which would wreck parliamentary government and the constitutional intent of this nation.

Once again Mr. Bennett's political acumen, so effective in the provincial field, has forsaken him when he plunges into national politics.

Over the Border

AFTER MORE THAN 4½ YEARS of almost constant economic expansion in both Canada and the United States there is an understandable tendency on the part of some financial experts to say that it is time, perhaps, to blow the whistle and call for a slowdown.

This has already happened in Canada. It is several months now since Prime Minister Pearson noted that there was a danger of the boom over-heating and that expansion which could be delayed should be. Meanwhile, interest rates have been moving upward in Canada, partly in response to heavy demands for investment funds, and partly as a result of a slowing down in American money coming into Canada.

A question which economists both in Canada and the United States are beginning to ask is whether the higher cost of money in itself will tend to brake the boom, hold it down to reasonable levels, and spread economic growth over a longer period.

According to theory, what John Maynard Keynes called the "marginal efficiency of capital" phenomenon should appear as interest rates rise. This means that business will find that the returns on investment will not be high enough to justify raising capital, or borrowing, when money is dear. Governments, however, can defeat this self-correcting tendency in the economy simply by increasing the money supply, although this can be a dangerously inflationary move.

In Canada the money supply was increased considerably several months ago to meet the emergency situation in the short-term borrowing market created by the failure of Atlantic Acceptance Corporation and other firms connected with it. The money supply has slowly been contracted since then, however, and interest rates are hitting peaks not seen for more than three years.

American monetary authorities, on the other hand have been steadily increasing the supply of money, up by $6 billions in the past nine months, in an evident attempt to hold down rising interest rates. The result is beginning to show up in price increases along a broad front of basic materials, to say nothing of a highly speculative splurge in the stock market.

One of the prime factors operating in the U.S. economy at the present time is that the government is increasing its military commitment in Viet Nam at heavy cost at the same time that it is carrying out an extensive domestic social welfare program. The two are combined with what seems to be the Johnson administration's determination to keep the boom rolling.

With an economic mix like this there are bound to be heavy pressures on monetary resources. Given the strong inter-dependency of the Canadian and American economies, it is almost impossible that these pressures will not spill over the border into this country in the coming months and make inflation once more a popular—or rather, unpopular—topic of conversation.

The Safer Car

THE VOICES OF INFLUENtial Americans who believe that the automobile industry is not producing a safe enough car have caught the ear of President Johnson.

He has called on the Department of Commerce to prepare a detailed proposal to remedy the situation for presentation to the next session of Congress.

Such Democratic Senators as Gaylord A. Nelson, Wisconsin; Abraham A. Ribicoff, Connecticut, and Robert A. Kennedy, New York, have lent their support to the campaign for a more crash-resistant automobile.

They want laws to establish safety standards for cars and tires and the establishment of a $150 million federal highway safety research centre to take the place of a research program now costing $4 million.

And they also apparently want the initiative in this safety campaign, specifically in car designing, to come from the government, not from the industry which has been widely criticized in hearings before the United States Federal Transport Commission.

Advocates of the safer car have grim and imposing evidence to support them — 50,000 fatalities annually in the United States, 4 million injuries and accident costs running to $15 billions, which is more than 2 per cent of the gross national product.

Developments in the campaign will be closely watched in Canada, where auto safety and the highway accident toll are closely parallel to the United States experience.

"Give me one good reason why the kids shouldn't have a bit of fun and be allowed to have fire crackers . . . !"

FROM OTTAWA — By MAURICE WESTERN

Mr. Diefenbaker and the Letter

MR. DIEFENBAKER has challenged the prime minister to produce a letter on the subject of Viet Nam addressed to the Canadian government last summer by President Johnson. The Conservative leader is reported to have said at Renfrew: "I say to the prime minister, let's have an answer. I know I won't get one. I know that." This is a strange development for two reasons. In the first place Mr. Diefenbaker has already had his answer. The letter has not been published because Mr. Johnson, who addressed similar letters to about 20 countries, decided that the correspondence should not be made public.

Western

Mr. Diefenbaker's interest in this matter was apparently rekindled by remarks of Mr. Walter Gordon at a press conference the other day. Had he confined himself to Mr. Gordon's comments, the Conservative leader would have had a fair debating point because the minister of finance, wandering into another minister's territory, placed an interpretation upon the Johnson letter different from that which had been offered last summer by Mr. Martin.

The difference was, however, of somewhat academic importance. Whether the president sought or did not seek military assistance from Canada in Viet Nam, it has been made clear (and even more clear by Mr. Gordon) that there will be no such Canadian intervention.

Demanded Impossible

Instead of making this valid, if not very important, point, Mr. Diefenbaker chose to demand the impossible. "It is," he said, "a matter of national urgency to know what happened." If he had substituted the word "political" for "national," this would have made sense because "hidden" documents are apparently indispensable to Diefenbaker campaigns.

"The government," asserted the Conservative leader, "hasn't the right to keep the people in the dark. No matter what the prime minister says, that letter must be produced."

This means, presumably, that Mr. Pearson should make public the Johnson letter, whether the president agrees or not. But it is quite clear from the authorities that Mr. Pearson should do nothing of the kind. Two of the best witnesses here are Mr. Fleming and Mr. Howard Green, both having long experience of Parliament, both former ministers of eminence in the Diefenbaker government.

On March 14, 1960 Mr. Hazen Argue, then the CCF leader, sought the production of certain documents recording the views of provincial governments on trade with Japan. In the course of discussion Mr. Pickersgill took mild objection to the ministerial formula, "subject to the usual reservations concerning the consent of the provincial governments"—his point being that it would be more sensible to obtain consent before proceeding with the motion. In dealing with this objection, Mr. Fleming took much wider ground. He said:

Consent Essential

"This practice took very firm root in the time of the former government. As a matter of fact, it goes back to the time of Mr. Mackenzie King. I well recall Mr. King taking the position quite firmly in the House with respect to such motions; that they should not pass unless there was reservation making allowance for the necessity of obtaining the consent of the provincial government, if one were concerned, or, when it was something affecting external affairs, the consent of the government of the other country concerned. He stated the reason very clearly, namely, that there could not be frank exchanges between governments unless there were some such reservation concerning the tabling of correspondence."

Is it unreasonable that a government (in the present case the U.S. government) should decline to permit publication in certain circumstances? Not, according to Mr. Green, who, as Mr. Diefenbaker will remember was minister of external affairs in the Conservative government.

On April 21, 1961, Mr. Herridge brought up the question of possible American intervention in Cuba. Mr. Argue, following up, asked: "Would the minister say whether any representations on this situation have been made by Canada to the president of the United States?

To this Mr. Green replied: "Mr. Speaker, if we were to walk in to the House and, in answer to questions, explain all the representations that are made to the United States or other countries, it would not be very long before our representations would simply have no value."

Diefenbaker Example

Thus the Diefenbaker government held that it was perfectly proper to decline publication of representations made to other countries on such dangerous subjects. It must be equally proper for Mr. Johnson to take the same position.

Furthermore, the Diefenbaker government held that it was wrong to make public communications from other governments without their consent for this would destroy the possibility of "frank exchanges." But Mr. Diefenbaker, repudiating his old colleagues, now maintains the opposite. Indeed, he finds it a matter of "national urgency" that Mr. Pearson should produce an American document which the American president has declined to make public.

Mr. Diefenbaker's relations with the United States were, of course, singularly unhappy; indeed, in the end, two ministers left his cabinet because, according to their own accounts, they were not prepared to participate in an anti-American campaign. But the Conservative leader had not, at that time, reached the point of asserting that correspondence should be public regardless of the wishes of the other party.

It seems unlikely that, with such a rule, any responsible person could be found to serve as foreign minister and certain that, if he did, the result would be utterly disastrous.

The very injection of such an issue into the election campaign is an ominous development. For the reasons well stated by Mr. Fleming and Mr. Green, Mr. Pearson cannot possibly comply with such a demand. Is Mr. Johnson then to be the whipping boy? if so we will be back to the dismal point which matters had reached under the Diefenbaker administration in February 1963.

Looking Back

From The Times of October 27, 1905

Victoria's tourist season for 1905 is at an end. During the past few weeks, in fact ever since the closing of the Lewis and Clark exposition at Portland, travel has fallen off. As many as 100,000 people have visited Victoria this summer and $750,000 have been spent here. H. Cuthbert, secretary of the Tourist Association, compared Victoria to a department store, its feature being the tourist trade. Mr. Cuthbert says that though the Crystal Palace proposition has fallen through, there are a number of enterprises that might be considered.

Letters

Why No Questions?

On Friday, Oct. 15, 1965, I arrived at the Armories at 6:10 p.m., the first person to be seated in the cold building. The meeting finished about 10:10 p.m. and not one question was allowed.

I visited backstage and spoke to Mr. Chatterton and then on to Rev. Waite to whom I had sent a personal letter over a week previously with my two questions for him to answer.

He said he received my letter. The answers given by both these gentlemen why there was no question period would be sure to make any schoolboy smile.—David Sadler, 1033 Queens.

Excellent Show

"An excellent dog show at Sidney, on a very hospitable and scenic island" is our impression of these beautiful fall days in Victoria.

Thank Heaven, the dog- and cat-nappers have not yet hit this area!—Mrs. G. Owens, Modesto, Calif.

Please Call Your Kitten

Is this cat yours?

It is about four or five months old, with a ginger and black back, white chest and front, and white feet.

It was found lost and wandering, and very wet, for it was raining at the time, in the grounds of the Margaret Jenkins School. A young pupil, unable to endure the thought of its remaining there, uncared for and unfed, asked if she might take it home, and was allowed to do so. However, home is a small upstairs apartment, shared by the little girl's mother and younger brother—and, another cat. And please be assured there are difficulties.

It cannot remain longer where it is. Please, if it is yours, collect it, and take it home. And cherish it.—H. Blundell Walsh, 2479 McNeill.

Only Joking

I am greatly disturbed at the manner in which you have censored my letter which you have captioned "Gas Up on Ferries."

As printed it gives the distinct impression that I am serious in suggesting that service stations be installed on the ferries. This is entirely wrong. To date all my letters have been written with the intention of introducing something of a humorous nature amongst the news which seems presently to consist mostly of wars, rumors of wars, murder and scandal.—George Johnson, 3939 Cumberland.

Age and the Poll

Why not take a look at our present 69-year-old aging prime minister?

The perfect and honest man or men to represent all of Canada should have picked his cabinet members from all across Canada, say one from each province. In this manner we would have had a united Canada, or a chance for same.—R. Skuce, 1512 Bay.

FROM LONDON — By MARTIN DEWEY

Talking Beats Shooting

IF jaw, jaw is better than war, war, it is also much better than a unilateral declaration of independence by Rhodesia's white minority government. This is all that can be said in defence of much of the futile diplomatic tail-chasing that has taken place since the collapse of the Rhodesian independence talks here two weeks ago. It has become heartily clear that Ian Smith, the Rhodesian prime minister, is a sadder and wiser man since his return from the London conference. Here, far from the cries of "good old Smithy," and exposed for the first time to the drafts of contrary opinion, he felt the full weight of world disapproval and saw the depth of the chasm that lay before his country.

Dewey

He is still a prisoner of his earlier belligerence, of course. After all, his white countrymen didn't come to London and they presumably still feel the way Mr. Smith encouraged them to feel before he left. In short, the Rhodesian leader may still be called upon to make good his promises to seize independence at an early date if he is to save his own skin.

Wants Delay

But everything that has happened there in the past two weeks—or more accurately that has not happened—leads inevitably to the conclusion that Mr. Smith is now as eager as anyone in London to find a creditable excuse to delay the day of reckoning.

This presumption alone justifies the strange suggestions that have lately been masquerading as diplomatic initiatives. Chief among these was the idea of sending a team of Commonwealth prime ministers to see Mr. Smith. Little matter that the Commonwealth has no competence in a dispute between Britain and one of her colonies. Little matter that a Commonwealth mission could be given no brief to dicker with Mr. Smith or that no Commonwealth prime minister could say anything that hadn't already been said more forcibly and authoritatively by Mr. Wilson.

It was enough that the suggestion itself might have bought a little time, much as the answer to a pressing domestic problem is often to appoint a royal commission until the heat is off. Had the proposal been just a little less flimsy, moreover, Mr. Smith in his need might well have bitten.

Not Very Astute

As it was, his contemptuous dismissal of the idea on the ground that a mission would contain unfriendly elements proved once again—as did the restriction of Garfield Todd, the former Rhodesian prime minister — that Mr. Smith is not the world's most astute statesman.

Even his most ambitious thrust to date seems to have been turned back on him. The "eleventh-hour" proposal that an independent Rhodesia would guarantee the existing 1961 constitution by means of an international treaty was clearly an attempt to enlarge a crack that opens between the British government and the Conservative party and to place the onus of the consequences on the shoulders of Mr. Wilson.

The opening was provided for Mr. Smith during the London talks, when Conservative leaders placed the treaty proposal before both negotiating parties. At the time Mr. Smith was not very taken with it and refused the opportunity of discussing it with Mr. Wilson. Presumably his decision to make the idea the basis of a last-ditch appeal to the British government arose from a belated appreciation of its tactical possibilities.

The manoeuvre has worked in that it has broken the united front between the British government and the opposition—as it was bound to do since the treaty proposal was a Conservative initiative and since it was at the same time a patently unacceptable one to the government. Indeed, the idea of a post-independent treaty makes a mockery of all that the British negotiators have been trying to do.

Prior Promise

For a start, no treaty could diminish the fact that Britain would have reneged on her promise to grant Rhodesian independence on a majority rule basis. For Britain to accept a treaty guaranteeing the 1961 constitution would be to abandon the position that this constitution does not provide an adequate framework for African advance.

Finally, for the British government to grant Rhodesian independence on this basis would mean accepting a solution that was democratically acceptable to ALL Rhodesians—and this provision is the key to five principles which Britain feels must be satisfied before independence can be granted.

With regard to enforcement of a treaty, it is being argued that Britain would always remain free to adopt what ever measures are open to her now. But there can be no denying that Britain is now in a much better position, morally and legally, to safeguard the rights of Rhodesia's African majority than she ever would be under the strongest post-independence treaties.

Topping Smith

Of course, the very fact that such things are now being argued about here means that the proposal has already partly paid off for Mr. Smith. But the Rhodesian leader was wrong if he expected that Mr. Wilson would be placed on the spot by his appeal. The British prime minister has, in fact, gone Mr. Smith one better.

Accepting the treaty idea as a talking point, he has used it as a chance to regain the initiative from the Rhodesians.

Mr. Wilson's decision to fly to Rhodesia, announced in a tough letter to Mr. Smith, contained the assertion that he "will naturally expect to have an opportunity of meeting anyone whose views I feel to be relevant." This means, in fact, that Mr. Smith has been dislodged as sole spokesman for Rhodesia and it is a development, moreover, that neither he nor his government colleagues can have foreseen or welcomed.

It is, of course, hard to say what may come of Mr. Wilson's visit. But whatever the result, this new development means that there is to be more jaw, jaw. There will be more time for second thoughts and for the reaction that seems to be setting in among Mr. Smith's white supporters. And this, it must be conceded, is no small gain.

Ignorance, Naivete Entwined In Case of the Creditiste Six

By DOUGLAS FISHER
Former NDP MP for Port Arthur

The allegations of Dr. Guy Marcoux do not seem to have become a major issue to the electors I meet. Instead the curious see it as another example piling up to show that politicians are a slippery lot.

Fisher

People do not ask me "Is it true?" They say, "what kind of a duck is Marcoux?" or "Why would Pickersgill do something stupid like this?"

It seems that a law of diminishing returns has taken effect when it comes to the impact on the voter of scandals and deals—as if they are becoming the norm in politics.

Mr. Marcoux never talked around the Commons corridors about the attempt to line up the six Quebec Creditistes to support the Liberals after the 1963 election. I did not hear about it from him but from the Creditistes. The story has been current as part of the chat since early in '64. Most of us who heard it shrugged it off because it seemed so purposeless.

Why bother to line up this margin to ensure Mr. Pearson would form the government when it was so obvious there wasn't any alternative? It takes a remarkably naive or an exceptionally clever kind of person or a combination of both to come up with these sub-plots in the aftermath of the '63 election.

On balance, the scheme to have the six vouch that they would support Mr. Pearson is a bit less preposterous than Dr. Marcoux's own scheme to have a Conservative-Social Credit-NDP coalition form the government.

To be fair to these French Canadian MPs who entertained the two fantasies, it is impossible to believe that they themselves thought there was anything underhand or nefarious about the arrangements they either planned or went along with.

In the whole crew of Thompsonites and Caouetteists there were only three sophisticated, urbane, well-educated men, Gilles Gregoire, Gerard Girouard, and Gerard Chapdelaine. None of the three seems to have been involved in either scheme. Gregoire has had to rush into the fray at this late date with the threat to sue Dr. Marcoux in order to counter the black mark put on the six, all of whom are now in his camp.

The common quality of the six is simplicity and ignorance entwined. They know little about constitutional requirements and practices which hedge on the whole question of who will form a government after an election.

With their simplicity and naivete the Creditistes see things in black and white. For example, on their arrival in '63 they came convinced that those of us who were New Democrats were extremely dangerous men, Socialists and even worse. They tended to walk around us and stare as if we were likely to pull a bomb out at any moment.

You may ask how such an attitude squares with these two plots of 1963. Firstly, it is human nature, if you know you are above reproach, to be certain that what you plan to do is fine. Secondly, each plot was designed to foil what each group felt would be dastardly politics, i.e., the possibility that John Diefenbaker might hang on to power or that the wicked Liberals would go in.

The Marcoux affair has produced what I consider the worst compliment paid in recent years to a major politician. One of those vague fellows, "a spokesman in the Prime Minister's office" let it be known after the Marcoux story broke that Jack Pickersgill was too experienced a politician to offer a bribe.

One supposes that this was meant to cause us to reflect that an old pro would be too careful to ever commit himself to such an offer. The trouble is that such an argument completely misses the more fundamental question as to whether Mr. Pickersgill is too honest a man to ever get mixed up in any such deal.

Almost everyone, particularly Mr. Diefenbaker, has noted that Mr. Pickersgill's statement was spare and precise, yet it nowhere denied that he knew the proposal was undertak to have the six extend their backing to Mr. Pearson for his formation of the government.

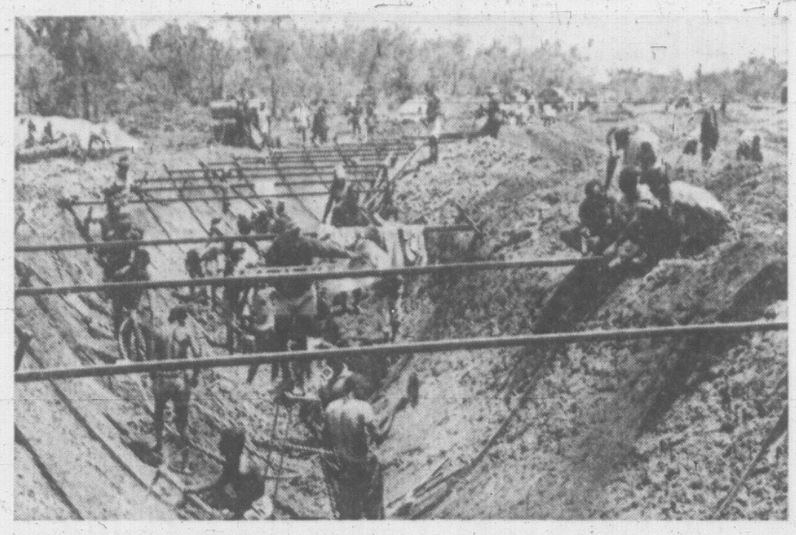
The true story of Jack Pickersgill's role in the affair and that of his friends Joey Smallwood and John Doyle may not be known for a generation if the Liberals sweep back in power.

Mr. Pickersgill is the proven superior of anyone in politics today at gamey, exciting, political writing. In its way, his book on the Mackenzie King diaries is a greater tour-de-force then was Peter Newman's Renegade In Power. It is a great pity that such superb skill will not be used to throw the answer into Dr. Marcoux's teeth.

But Mr. Pickersgill may be taking the high road in the best interests of the nation.

He may be wise in his decision not to contribute, as he says, to political gossip at this time.



Concrete-lined canals such as this are part of a 25-year project to reclaim 35,000 square miles of southeast Rhodesian semi-desert country. The reclamation program, rated one of the biggest in Africa and nearly as expensive as Egypt's High Aswan Dam, would be endangered if a unilateral declaration of independence brought economic and financial sanctions on Rhodesia.

South African Financial Gazette

SALISBURY — Nobody, not even the British and Rhodesian governments, has a clear idea of the consequences of a unilateral declaration of independence which will depend on the range of actions and sanctions not only by the British government but other world powers, by the United Nations or by the Commonwealth.

How effective economic sanctions are will depend upon the reaction of those countries — South Africa, Portugal, Spain and perhaps France— which do not use sanctions at all. It is almost anybody's guess.

The question that Rhodesian businessmen are asking themselves is whether Mr. Wilson will implement the toughest measures he has at his command or whether he will prefer merely to make a token protest—such as denying Rhodesia Commonwealth preference.

In Salisbury it is believed that British business is strongly opposed to any economic sanctions and that the Conservative Party is not united on the question.

At the same time it is recognized that the U.S., the Commonwealth, especially Canada and Afro-Asian members, and the vast majority of the member countries of the UN will exert powerful pressure on Britain to take the harshest possible line.

Tough Line

Some British businessmen believe that it is preferable for Britain to take a tough economic line rather than refer the matter to the United Nations. It seems probable that the Republic of South Africa would prefer economic sanctions to any kind of United Nations participation.

The most punitive sanctions would include an embargo on Rhodesian exports. The two most vulnerable sectors of the economy would then be the sugar and tobacco industries.

With tobacco the effect might be at least partially overcome by devaluation as it seems probable that there would still be a market for Rhodesian leaf though at a much reduced price.

But for sugar the impact would be disastrous because Rhodesian exports as much as 80 per cent of its total crop—most of these exports being sold to Britain and Canada.

At a time when there is world surplus of sugar the Rhodesian industry could not hope to dispose of its crop at anything like an economic price.

Banking System

The other important threats to the Rhodesian economy are both related to the banking system.

It seems likely that Britain would act to prevent the flow of short-term working capital from London to Rhodesia.

There is each year a seasonal flow of working capital between London and Salisbury needed in Rhodesia to finance the season's tobacco crop.

This flow of credit reaches a peak between November and March when tobacco farmers are drawing upon their overdrafts.

If this flow is interfered with then the impact upon the whole of the economy—and not just upon the tobacco community — might be severe.

Also on the banking side is the question of Rhodesia's foreign exchange reserves which are held in London. Observers believe that Britain might freeze these reserves and expel Rhodesia from the sterling area.

Other difficulties include communications and insurance. British vessels might be forbidden to carry Rhodesian goods and British airlines—BOAC and BUA — might be prevented from landing at Salisbury, leaving Rhodesia dependent on the twice-weekly SAA flight to London.

Devaluation

Experts disagree about the effects of sanctions. Some say that Rhodesia might be forced to devalue her currency and to introduce harsh exchange control conditions, including the sales of foreign securities held by residents.

All agreed that Rhodesia would be desperately short of development capital and would need to borrow heavily from South Africa and perhaps Portugal.

Industry and commerce are in the main strongly opposed to UDI largely because they believe it to be unnecessary at the present time.

Most economists are saying that UDI certainly cannot be an economic success.

Not even the staunchest protagonist of UDI now seems to believe that it will lead to immediate prosperity, increased investments and the removal of uncertainties.

UDI is now portrayed as the only course for survival—as a last-ditch stand—and no longer as a means of prosperity, development and growth.

The Gallup Poll

Liberals Stay High In Voters' Favor

By The Canadian Institute of Pubic Opinion

The first week of election campaigning did little to change party favors across the nation. Today's semi-final political rating, based on interviewing in the first week of October, varies only one or two percentage points from party standings established in early September—a day or so before the election announcement.

Liberals have dropped one point; Conservatives have gained two points; NDP is up one point, and Social Credit forces down two.

In the same period of time, the undecided segment, as is normal following an election announcement, dropped considerably. However, as the poll reported earlier this year, undecided voters, in making up their minds, followed closely the decided vote, resulting in little change.

The question: "If a federal election were held today, which party's candidate do you think you would favor?"

The table below compares other 1965 party standings as reported by the Gallup Poll, with the actual vote in April, 1963.

Election Standing—	Conservatives	Liberals	NDP	Soc. Credit And Other
April, 1963	33%	42%	13%	12%
January, 1965	32	47	12	9
March	29	45	15	11
May	29	45	15	11
July	29	45	15	11
Early Sept.	28	48	15	9
Early October	30	47	16	7

A check on voter interest in the forthcoming election reveals a lower level than that for the same period in the 1963 election. This year there is about the same degree of interest as that shown in the '58 and '62 elections. Unless something happens to increase voter interest, there will be a smaller turnout at the polls than there was at the last election.

The undecided vote has dropped since early September in this way:

	Early Sept.	Early Oct.
National	36%	11%
Maritimes	46	8
Quebec	42	19
Ontario	30	9
The West	35	9

Hindu-Moslem Tensions Kept In Check In India

NEW DELHI—One of the biggest surprises of the continuing India-Pakistan confrontation comes not from the battlefield but from the cities and villages of India.

No significant communal rioting has erupted between India's Hindus and the Moslem minority.

There have been minor skirmishes in a few cities and many Moslem quarters have been filled with tension—illustrating vividly that the threat of bloody religious rioting will hang over India for many years yet.

There had been fears that the Hindus, the overwhelming majority of India's 480,000,000 people, would seek vengeance on the country's 50,000,000 Moslems.

The government prepared to prevent a replay of past riots that took at least 50,000 lives in 1947 and 1948.

Police were ordered to crush troublemakers. Though in the thick of frontline combat, the Indian army prepared to quell riots in rear areas.

It still is not clear why these emergency plans were not needed.

But the explosion which was expected to follow the outbreak of hostilities with Pakistan did not come.

For one thing, it appears Indian leaders have had more success than even they dared believe with a nationalistic "Think Indian" campaign designed to bury old religious hatreds that divided the nation.

This campaign was stepped up during the war. India's Moslems and their Hindu neighbors were reminded constantly that Moslems, were among the Indian army's front line fighters and heroes.

Vice-President Zakir Hussain and Education Minister M. C. Chagla, both Moslems, made many public appearances to show the secular nature of India's war effort.

Earnest Women Brought Love To Indian Waifs in Wilderness

By ELIZABETH FORBES

In her book "The New North," written after an epic journey down the Mackenzie River to the Arctic Ocean, more than 57 years ago, Victoria's Agnes Deans Cameron spoke of visiting St. Peter's Anglican Mission, at the mouth of Hay River on Great Slave Lake.

Forbes

Miss Cameron wrote: "Life is quaint at the Hay River Mission. The impression we carry away is of earnest and sweet-hearted women bringing mother-love to the waifs of the wilderness, letting their light shine where few there are to see it."

Now well over a half century away from her experiences on the Great Slave, Mrs. A. L. Carruthers still vividly recalls those mission days and her youthful enthusiasm to help Indians.

It was no whim that set this interesting woman's feet on the trek northward.

★ ★ ★

Born Winona Orr on the Red Pheasant Stoney Indian Reservation, near Battleford, Saskatchewan, where her father was Indian agent, she played with Indian children, until she was sent away to school.

In her formative years she saw her parents work long and faithfully, especially during the Riel Rebellion, to improve conditions for Indians and the Metis.

It was natural, when she received her teacher's certificate that she should apply for work in the mission field.

Winona Orr was till in her teens in 1903, when she joined a group going to Hay River with Rev. Thomas J. Marsh, to establish a mission church and school.

She remembers the journey by train, stage and then, from Athabaska Landing by flat-bottomed river scow with 20-foot oars.

Children came to the school for a three-year period. They learned practical handicrafts as well as other subjects. Many tribes were represented. Mrs. Carruthers remembers five different languages were spoken along with English—Cree, Eskimo, Loucheux, Dog Rib and Carrier.

★ ★ ★

Eskimos, she says, had the most intelligent approach and were able to adapt easier. The Indians were "intellectually cramped" by old and unsavory superstitions. It was hard for them to accept new ideas.

Regular menu was fish, "served 365 days a year, three times a day," with the addition of rabbit during the winter season.

"We bought those rabbits by the cord," Mrs. Carruthers explains. "They were stacked in frozen lots, outside the door. We'd chip them off and bring them in and thaw them, when they were needed for the cook pot."

In the six years she was at Hay River, Winona Carruthers "never set foot in a white person's hut" and she only saw 21 white women.

"The loneliness was beyond description," this "sweet-hearted" woman remembers. "At night there was nothing . . . but nothing . . . to see except the stars and the Northern Lights.

"I didn't seem to mind then, for I was imbued with the idea of service. In my youthful fervor, I believed I was helping to hold up the arms of the missionary in the far North."

Soviet Literary Freedom Has a Tentative Quality

By CHARLES BARTLETT

WASHINGTON — The Soviets' arrest of Andrei Sinyavski, who shows signs at 40 of becoming the greatest writer to emerge in Russia since the war, is an unhappy setback to the gathering assurance of the Communist intellectuals.

The irony is that Sinyavski is accused of publishing views abroad, under the pseudonym of Abram Tertz, which are barely bolder than views which are beginning to see print within the Soviet Union. Sinyavski himself recently published in Moscow an attack on reactionary poets which was so stinging that it may have been a factor in his imprisonment.

Not Liberators

The arrest denotes the tentative quality of the tolerance which has developed in Moscow since Nikita Khrushchev's ouster. No one imagines that the new leaders are intent upon liberating the arts from the old shackles. They are primarily anxious to put off the distractions and bruises of a skirmish with the intellectuals while they come to grips with their country's more fundamental problems.

Working for 12 months under this pragmatic licence, the writers have scored some impressive gains in their pursuit of objectivity. One of the more startling was a book on the United States which punctured some classic Soviet dogmas. The author, a Communist party member named Evgenia Popova, wrote: "The view that the American government is the servant of Wall Street monopolists in many respects hampers an understanding of the important role of public opinion in the United States."

Another surprise was a sociological study of workers in Leninsk which reported that more than one-third of their apartments have ikons, that their opportunities for entertainment are limited, and that they show declining interest in Communist party work. All of this, supported by statistics, appeared in a philosophy journal with 24,000 readers.

In a similar spirit the poetry of Boris Pasternak has been published (with a preface by Sinyavski). Pravda praised a play about a 1921 mutiny that it had condemned while Khrushchev held office. Leonard Ilyichev, Khrushchev's agent in the 1962 attack upon artistic freedom, has been demoted. Most significantly an effort to disparage the new literature has roused vehement attacks upon the tenet that socialist realism does not permit the portrayal of evils within the socialist state.

Sinyavski's arrest is tied to this crucial struggle over socialist realism. One work which he is accused of having smuggled to France for publication over the name of Tertz is a brilliant analysis of the burden that socialist realism imposes upon the Soviet artist. The difficulty stems from a 1934 edict that artistic representation of reality must be linked with the "education of workers in the spirit of socialism."

Marking Time

Tertz argued that art cannot at once be purposeful and realistic. It is too late to renounce the realism for the sake of the purpose because the latter has been confused by disillusionment and uncertainty since the death and denunciation of Stalin. "Our art is marking time," he wrote, "between an insufficient realism and an insufficient classicism."

"We don't know where to go," Tertz concluded, "but realizing that there is nothing to be done about it, we start to think, to set riddles, to make assumptions. May we thus invent something marvelous? Perhaps, but it will no longer be socialist realism."

Chinese Leaders See Shortage Of Revolutionary Ardor in Ranks

By RICHARD HALLORAN
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The top leaders of Communist China have just finished an unpublicized meeting in Peking at which they decided to put some spirit into the flagging revolutionary ardor of lower Communist Party echelons.

The conference, led by Chairman Mao Tse-tung, included the government's politburo, the party's secretariat, heads of the party's regional bureaus, and two senior military marshals.

Sessions began several days before the National Day celebration on Oct. 1 and lasted at least 10 days after, according to evidence compiled from press and radio reports.

Threat Dismissed

The outburst of Foreign Minister Chen Yi at his Sept. 29 press conference, when he "invited" the United States to invade China and be wiped out, appears to have been discussed at the meeting.

Chen's subsequent statements, which may also have come from the leadership meeting, have been somewhat less belligerent. But Chen has chided the Soviet Union for its unwillingness "to take risks" in challenging American power.

Clues to the leadership's decisions on internal problems are beginning to appear in press campaigns.

The People's Daily, published by the party, has begun a series of special columns on the question of revolutionizing the leadership of county party committees.

The paper, in a doctrinaire self-criticism, acknowledges that it has not given sufficient coverage to county problems and has done a poor job of propagating methods of improving party leadership at that level.

If revolutionary consciousness has not been carried forward, the paper says, "it is the spiritual status of the leadership that accounts for the lack of progress.

The paper also criticizes Commune leaders for spending too much time filling out forms and talking on the telephone with higher organizations.

The Worker's Daily, put out by the Communist Trade Union Federation, echoes the party paper. It has started discussion of the proper revolutionary attitude for workers.

"One must establish the revolutionary outlook," the paper says, "and clearly understand that all our work is for the revolution."

Five-Year Plan

Observers in Washington speculate that the Peking conference also discussed the third five-year plan, scheduled to begin in early 1966. A national people's conference, a gathering of key party members from all over China, may be held to usher in the plan.

Analysts here also note that Tao Chu, vice-premier in the government and head of the party's central-south bureau, has moved up several pegs in the hierarchy's pecking order.

Tao has been the leading advocate of getting county party officials out of their offices and into the fields and shops. He is also a main figure in propagating the "socialist education campaign" and a proponent of the new "soaring leap forward."

IRON LUNG WOULDN'T HELP

Pneumonia Claimed Boy, 11

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — For six of his 11 years, Audie Barrett of Nashville had suffered from polio. Late Monday, he complained of pains in his heart, so his 28-year-old mother placed him in his iron lung and began hand-pumping the apparatus, because electric service to the home had been discontinued.

Four hours later, he died, not of the polio which first struck him the day after his father died in 1959, but of lumbar pneumonia, authorities claimed.

"The lung would have made no difference whatever," said medical examiner Dr. W. J. Core after an autopsy.

Core said the youth had a "well - established" case of pneumonia in the right lung and a lesser case in the left. He estimated that the pneumonia was contracted several days ago.

$10 MILLION PLANT CLOSED BY CARLINGS

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Carling Brewing Co. has announced the closing of its new $10,000,000 continuous brewing plant in Fort Worth, Tex., because of poor sales in the southwestern United States.

The company announced the closing in Fort Worth, but a spokesman at Carling headquarters in Cleveland said Tuesday the firm will continue to market its beer from breweries in Atlanta, Ga., and Belleville, Ill.

B.C. TEL HEARING

Board Rules Out Combines Query

VANCOUVER (CP) — An attempt to bring the combines commission into a public hearing on B.C. Telephone Company's financial operations was stopped Tuesday by the Board of Tranport Commissioners.

Gordon MacFarlane, B.C. Tel's director of plant and engineering services, in detailing the company's purchasing policies, said only two firms in Canada made telephone sets and they charged identical prices for almost all items.

Lawyer Alex MacDonald, counsel for the B.C. Federation of Labor, asked Mr. MacFarlane whether he had brought this to the attention of the combines commission and Mr. MacFarlane said he had not.

He told Mr. MacDonald he had no knowledge of the reasons the two suppliers charged the same prices.

H. H. Griffin, assistant chief commissioner, halted this line of questioning at this point. He said the commission is not concerned with combines matters and it would be unfair to ask Mr. MacFarlane to express an opinion on a subject about which he had not knowledge.

The two companies making telephone sets are Automatic Electric Company of Canada and Northern Electric Company.

ALLOWS BULK BUYING

Mr. MacFarlane said B.C. Tels buys virtually all of its automatic switching equipment and telephone sets from Automatic Electric—chiefly because this permits a bulk-buying technique that means lower prices

Automatic Electric is a subsidiary of General Telephone and Electronics Corp., which holds controlling interest in B.C. Tel.

Mr. Macfarlane said both the Automatic Electric and Northern Electric (part of the Bell Telephone system) charge $18.30 for a black desk phone and $19.45 for a colored set.

Wall sets are $17.90 for black, $19.05 for colored.

He said Automatic Electric charges $30.45 for a bedside set with luminous front, one cent more than Northern Electric's $30.44.

In the field of radio and microwave equipment, Mr. Macfarlane said, B.C. Tel buys virtually all of its equipment from Lenkurt Electric of Canada, another subsidiary of General Telephone and Electronics Corp.

He told the board that about 10 per cent of the $24,900,000 B.C. Tel spent on supplies and equipment in 1964 went for such items as cable, poles, wire and vehicles, on which tenders were called and the low bidder given the order.

Earlier H. F. Urquhart, B.C. Tel's vice-president of operations, told the board that the company plans to provide automatic number identification equipment for about 20 per cent of its subscribers by 1970.

This equipment records automatically the number from which a long-distance call dialed directly by the customer originates, the number to which the call is made and the time of the call.

Mr. Urquhart said direct-distance dialing facilities, already available to more than 70 per cent of the company's subscribers will be available to about 89 per cent by 1969.

AFTER FOUR-MONTH CRISIS

ECM Seeks France's Return

BRUSSELS (AP) — After a four-month crisis, France will be invited to take its seat at the negotiating table of the six Common Market partners before the French presidential elections Dec. 5.

Italy's Treasury Minister Emilio Colombo presided at a two-day meeting of France's five partners in the Common Market that ended Tuesday night.

He will either present the invitation today to the French deputy representative in Brussels, Maurice Ullrich, or invite French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville to Rome. This would be after Couve de Murville returns from his forthcoming visit to Moscow.

After the meeting, Colombo told a press conference Tuesday night that the five had reached a "large agreement" on financing farm exports which was the immediate cause of the crisis.

Sicco Mansholt, vice-president of the market's executive commission, said: "The five have reached agreement on four-fifths of the issues. The remaining fifth can only be agreed in negotiations with the sixth partner."

PARIS (CP) — President de Gaulle's government will lay aside the Common Market's appeal for France to end its boycott of the organization until after the presidential election Dec. 5, French sources say.

De Gaulle will announce his decision whether or not to run again Nov. 4, Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte told a press conference after today's cabinet meeting.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath". Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere. Advt.

Reluctant Candidate Adds Spice To Close War in Cariboo Riding

By STEPHEN SCOTT

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Whatever the outcome of the Nov. 8 federal election, the Cariboo constituency probably will be remembered best for the Affair of the Reluctant Candidate.

Not that other things haven't happened in the vast riding that covers northeastern British Columbia—it has hit newspages regularly since Prime Minister Pearson visited it on his pulse-taking western tour before announcing the election.

But Fred Atkinson's New Democratic Party nomination, his withdrawal, disappearance and eventual acceptance is the most novel.

Next to it is the timely story of the harassed returning officer.

This boom city is the population centre of a riding into which thousands of workers are pouring to work on construction of everything from pulp mills to the gigantic $700,000,000 Peace River Dam near Hudson Hope, 170 miles north of here.

The riding extends about 500 miles south from the Yukon border and is 28 mlies across at its widest point. The number of eligible voters has jumped to about 48,000 from 43,000. Most of these are in the Prince George area where three pulp mills are being constructed within 10 miles of the city. But there also is lumbering throughout the riding and considerable farming and oil and gas production in the Peace River.

LEBOE VETERAN MP

Social Crediter Bert Leboe has held the seat since 1953, with the exception of four years when a Conservative was carried in on the Diefenbaker sweep of 1958.

His opponents all feel they have excellent chances to upset him.

They are: Mr. Atkinson, 53, of Prince George, business agent for the Beverage Dispensers and Culinary Workers Union (CLC); Peter Runkle, 39, Conservative, chartered accountant from Pouce Coupe and candidate last election; Arthur McClellan, 53, Liberal, Dawson Creek lawyer.

In the 1963 election Mr. Leboe defeated the Liberal candidate 9,335 to 8,543. Mr. Runkle had 8,304 and the NDP candidate 4,461.

Mr. Atkinson was nominated early i nthe campaign. He withdrew after receiving telephone calls complaining he had been a party member for less than a year and should not accept the nomination.

He disappeared—he said later he was visiting union members at construction camps — when national leader T. C Douglas. visited Prince George. Members of Mr. Douglas's staff spent much of the day fruitlessly looking for him.

He reappeared again some days later, said the matter was cleared up, and the NDP had a candidate again.

TIMES CONFUSE

Returning officer Holger Enemark got more publicity for the area over his riding's confused voting times. Chife electroal officer Nelson Castonguay helped straighten out the situation.

Two times are used in the constituency, Mountain and Pacific. To add to the confusion, the Pacific zone changed to standard from daylight time in the middle of two days set aside for advance polls. The Mountain zone never left standard time.

To make sure all persons vote within the same period Nov. 8, the Pacific zone goes to the polls between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. while voters in the Mountain zone will vote between 9 a.m. and 8 p.m.

The Liberals say Cariboo is one of their four "high-priority" ridings in the province. They imported economist Russel Brink, successful provincial election campaign manager in Vancouver, to run the campaign here. Mr. Brink says most Social Credit support is in the rural areas while the Liberals are strong in the urban areas.

THANT URGES

Bring China Into UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—UN Secretary-General U Thant called again Tuesday for the entry of Communist China into the United Nations, saying this alone would enable the world body to contribute significantly to progress towards disarmament.

Conclusion of a nuclear non-proliferation treaty is "the most urgent problem" facing the UN, he said. Thant warned that the nuclear club—the United States, Britain, France, Russia and China—could grow to 10 or 15 members in the next few years.

"At that time, the world will have to face the grim prospect of possible annihilation," Thant said in an interview recorded for the Japan Broadcasting Corporation.

The UN would "be able to contribute significantly towards the progress of disarmament" only when "the one nuclear power . . . outside the United Nations . . . can be involved in discussions on disarmament."

Basic Ingredients	Preparation
8 large outer cabbage leaves 1 cup cooked Delta Long Grain White Rice 1 lb. ground round steak 2 teaspoons salt ½ teaspoon pepper 2 tablespoons chopped onion 1 cup tomato juice 2 tablespoons sugar 2 tablespoons vinegar	Wilt the cabbage leaves in boiling water. Combine meat, onion, rice and half of the salt and pepper. Form into 8 portions. Place one on each cabbage leaf, roll securely and fasten with toothpicks. Place in heavy skillet. Add tomato juice, sugar, vinegar and remainder of salt and pepper. Cover and simmer about one hour.

The seasoning may be salt and pepper or you can add cayenne, paprika or a dash of nutmeg or 2 tablespoons of cream of mushroom soup mix (dry) or ½ teaspoon poultry seasoning. For the liquid use tomato juice, or combine 2 cans tomato sauce with one of water, or one cup tomato soup with ½ cup of milk. Use brown sugar instead of white. Try adding ½ cup of cottage cheese and ¼ cup minced celery to meat mixture. Or combine ½ cup dairy sour cream to the cup of tomato soup to make the liquid. All variations can be baked at 350 degrees or simmered in a covered skillet for about an hour. But for best results always use Delta Long Grain Rice. These recipes are not suitable for instant pre-cooked rice.

NO DIFFICULTY in establishing quick rapport with some 75 students at University of Victoria was experienced by Defence Minister Paul Hellyer, centre, Tuesday when he told them about his armed forces integration program. He came by his campus ease naturally, having entered the Commons straight out of university at the age of 25—after previous war service and business experience—and became a cabinet member at 33 in 1957, youngest since the turn of the century. He is shown with Brian Smith (right), president of the campus Liberal Club who arranged meeting, and other unidentified greeters.

FUND TRANSFER KEPT ALIVE HYDROFOIL PROGRAM

Integration Saved Day—Hellyer

The Royal Canadian Navy's research program for a fast hydrofoil subchaser was saved from going on to financial rocks by the new integration of service chiefs, Defence Minister Paul Helyer said here Tuesday.

He told a press conference, following a short speech and question-answer period at the University of Victoria, that the $36 million development of a hydrofoil prototype is running into higher costs than expected.

"Under the old system, it would have been inevitable that the navy's development program would have had to be 'stretched out' to meet the rising costs," he said.

"The ultimate cost would have risen as a result and it might have been overtaken by time and suffered the same fate as the Avro Arrow and the Bobcat programs."

TRANSFER FUNDS

But, with a single commander in chief of the armed forces, it was possible to make a decision to transfer funds from less urgent projects to keep the hydrofoil program proceeding on schedule.

Mr. Hellyer said that the navy must know by the end of 1967 whether the hydrofoil and its special armaments system will work satisfactorily in order to be able to have new units in service for the 1970s when they would be needed.

He said the Canadian experimental craft is different from hydrofoil research by other navies in that it involves a fixed foil. The weapons system being designed for the craft also is a venture into new fields, he said without elaborating.

Mr. Hellyer said if the Canadian development is successful there is a possibility that sales of the craft or some of its components could be made to other countries.

The defence minister outlined to about 75 students the reasons for his decision 2½ years ago to integrate the three armed forces, pointing out that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Lord Mountbatten and commanders of all combined operations during the Second World War recommended post-war unification of services.

ECONOMIES

He enumerated the economies resulting from integration of staff headquarters, intelligence, information, and communication services so far in the phased program.

"These things are just scratching the surface," he added.

"At the same time, our forces have never been as completely operational in peace time as they are right now.

"It is a great experiment and Canada is just the right size of a laboratory to undertake it.

"Integration is going to work, and work well, and I have no doubt that other countries will follow."

Mr. Hellyer pointed out at the press conference that the U.S. Marine Corps is a larger force than Canada's military establishment which combines under a single command, air, sea and land operations.

He also added that one of the principal reasons for integration—release of funds for purchase of new equipment — is being met.

The declining percentage of the $1.5 billion defence budget devoted to purchase of new equipment—which fell from 43 to 13 per cent—has been reversed this year and "we now expect it to reach 20 per cent in about three years and certainly by 1970," he said.

LAING LEAVES NO DOUBT ON STAND

Water Export Out at This Time

OTTAWA (CP). — Resources Minister Laing told a group of water pollution control experts Tuesday Canada now is in no position to negotiate with anybody about export of Canadian water.

He said at the annual banquet of the Canadian Institute on Polluiton Control Canadians should make sure they have enough water for all their own future needs before they think about exporting it to other countries.

"Export of water is not negotiable at this time and I don't know when we will arrive at a time when we can say we have enough water for all time to come."

Mr. Laing's speech, the highlight of the institute's three-day conference here, was heard by more than 500 engineers, scientists and elected officials from all levels of government.

It was his strongest statement to date on the water export question, which has become an issue in the federal election campaign.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Oct. 12 the Liberals appear to be willing to "pull the plug on one of our most vital resources" and promised a Conservative government would propose a national water resources program.

TALKS PLANNED

Prime Minister Pearson said in a television broadcast Oct. 15 his government is planning talks with the United States on the possibility of exporting or diverting Canadian water south of the border.

Meanwhile, Mr. Laing had expressed criticism of an American proposal, the North American Water and Power Alliance, which would provide the western United States with Canadian water.

Three days after his television appearance, on Oct. 18, Mr. Pearson said there was no difference between statements he and Mr. Laing had made about possible export of Canadian water.

The prime minister said he had been talking about long range possibilities of exporting water, while Mr. Laing was criticizing a project being proposed for the immediate future of one U.S. group.

Mr. Pearson added that there would be no export of water in the immediate future—at least not until Canada's short and long - term water needs were provided for.

Mr. Laing made no direct reference Tuesday night to the $100,000,000,000 scheme, which was originated by the Ralph M. Parsons Co. of Los Angeles and New York.

LEFT NO DOUBT

But he left no doubt in the minds of his water-conscious listeners he believes Canada's water needs must come first.

"There are no such things as continental resources," he said.

He suggested the United States might not need to consider importing water if it starts using its own resources properly.

'Sheet of Flame' Follows Air Crash

LONDON (CP) — A British domestic airliner exploded in flames on its third attempt to land in shifting fog at London Airport early today, killing all 36 persons aboard.

"We could see a sheet of flame which seemed to stretch the length of the runway," said one airport employee. "We could see people among the flames but they were obviously dead."

The plane, a four - engined Vanguard turboprop designed to carry 139 passengers, was landing at 1:23 a.m. after a flight from Edinburgh. Operated by British European Airways it carried 30 passengers, one a child, and a crew of six.

A spokesman for BEA said most of the passengers and crew were Scots. No overseas visitors were aboard. Four hours after the crash all the bodies were recovered.

The plane, on a cheap night tourist flight, circled over the shifting fog for an hour before the pilot tried for a landing through one of the clear patches.

Twice he almost landed but both times he had to lift off again. Two minutes after another plane landed safely, a third attempt was made to "talk down" the turboprop.

HIT THE CONCRETE

But eyewitnesses said the fog closed in again. The plane's engines were heard revving up just before touchdown, but instead of lifting off again it hit the concrete, burst into a mushroom of flames, skidded nearly a mile, broke in two and hit a workshop at the end of the runway.

Airport driver Kenneth Plessey said the airliner split in two with the halves going in opposite directions. "The people in it didn't stand a chance," he said.

Airport officials said visibility on the runway at the time of the crash was 500 yards. But as fire engines and ambulances raced out, it quickly closed into less than 100 yards and sometimes to zero as fog patches rolled over No. 1 runway.

A fire department spokesman said the wreckage was strewn from one end of the runway to the other.

Sixteen bodies were scattered between the point of impact and the main wreckage. The charred bodies of the other victims were found in the front half of the plane.

It was the first fatal crash for a passenger - carrying Vanguard, which since 1961 has been BEA's workhorse on domestic routes.

It also was the worst in the history of London Airport, regarded as one of the world's safest. The last fatal civil aviation crash there was 15 years ago, Oct. 31, 1950, when a BEA twin-engined Viking from Paris crashed in fog and killed 28 persons.

COUNCIL PROMOTES FITNESS

It is the B.C. Physical Education Council, chaired by Gary Pennington, president of the Vancouver and District branch of the Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

No Action Planned Against Three Drugs

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Drugs sold over the counter in the United States for morning sickness for pregnant women, which have alarmed the U.S. food and drug directorate, are sold in Canada only on prescription, officials said here today.

No reports have been received by the Canadian food and drug directorate of fetal malformations or abnormalities resulting from these drugs in Canada, said Dr. R. man, director of the division.

The directorate held a meeting this morning as a result of the warnings issued in United States. They studied the situation as it applied to Canada and decided to take no additional action at this time.

The U.S. has issued a warning on possible injuries to unborn babies when pregnant women use over-the-counter drugs containing drugs of the generic names of meclizine, cyclizine or chlorcyclizine for morning sickness.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1965—PAGE 13

Arthur Mayse

What the devil are the blue stockings trying to do to this generation of children . . . scare them to death?

The firecracker, executed by Greater Victoria's moguls, was scarce cold before in charged the National Safety League from Ottawa with a frontal attack on the Halloween mask.

Dangerous, was the solemn verdict. Masks obscure the child's vision, and should be replaced by makeup.

I have every respect for the safety league spokesmen when they talk sense; but this, I suggest is arrant twaddle. It is based on imagination rather than firm evidence, and deserves no attention beyond a snort of derisive laughter.

Why not go whole hog and take the broomsticks away from junior witches for fear they may trip over them? And how about the pirates with the wooden swords?

We have gone a long way toward removing the authentic hazards from Halloween. The community celebrations with their supervised bonfires and fireworks shoots have done much to tame what used to be a busy night for the firemen and the police.

Now, I think it's high time the folk who have forgotten they ever were young quit their whittling at this and at least one other of childhood's festivals.

★ ★ ★

Except for a few mumblings about the harm done to little teeth by chocolate bunnies and such, I don't recall that they've yet infiltrated Easter.

However, they are working on the kids' summer vacation—much too long—and their big push of the year is only a couple of months distant.

This is aimed at Christmas. It is then that the blue stocking brigade gets in its most vigorous licks.

They'll have no truck with Santa Claus. Feed your little ones that myth, and you guarantee their future distrust of their parents.

Toys, they insist, should be educational. If you wish to get them fighting mad, hint that war toys can be a source of harmless fun to the male child.

Once in this corner, I stated that viewpoint, and became the target for a salvo of harsh letters and phone calls. One irate gun-hater, I remember, even suggested that I like to wear a trenchcoat because it reminds me of blood.

There is, I suppose, a use for such earnest, humorless people, if only to serve as skeletons at the feast for those who take life lightly.

But I think they can be more dangerous to the child's well-being than the bogeys they persist in seeing behind every bush.

There are, of course, big black dangers of which the youngster should be reminded over and over again.

Of these, traffic is the worst, and we could guard him from it better than we do. The bicycle safety campaign, a life-saver while it was being pressed, is badly in need of reviving.

We have a wicked crosswalk situation; not at the patrolled crossings but at the more distant ones, where twice each day, kids in two and threes and little groups wait hopefully for the driver in the passing stream who will take pity on them and give them a break.

Protect them we must—but where does protection end and stupid curtailment of freedom begin?

The plain fact is that for every trifling, inconsequential risk we insist on removing from the human path, we are likely to add a worse one. Crackers, for instance, are much less lethal than basement-concocted bombs.

Moreover, an accident looking for a victim has a way of landing on the over-protected. The boy who was never allowed to sample the coves in a rowboat may find himself afloat some later day, with trouble blowing up, and no seamanship to avert it.

But it's time we got back to Halloween, which has been pegged by everyone with any say in the matter for Saturday night, not Sunday.

Service Building Open Soon

The latest completed addition to the University of Victoria scene is a $326,000 campus services building.

The building, to be officially opened a week from Saturday, is located west of Finnerty Road opposite the Student's Union Building.

It will house a bank, a beauty salon, a barbershop, a drugstore, bookstore and clothing shop.

Also under construction and scheduled for use in September, 1966, is an education and arts complex and a social sciences complex.

Each of these buildings will cost over $2,000,000 unfurnished.

Underground services to connect the buildings will cost more than $300,000 and a ring road which will circle the centre of the university will cost $160,000.

University developers are now making plans for buildings to accommodate about 10,000 students by 1980. Present population is 3,000 and rising by about 500 each year.

When the campus is fully developed it will be possible to reach any part of it within eight minutes walking time.

'ROUGH RIDE' FORECAST

High-Rise Rerun For Cadboro Bay

By ROGER STONEBANKS

An application for a change of zoning to allow for high-rises has been made to Saanich by Sherwood Oaks Estates and Bay Meadows Estates.

The applicants want a change of zoning from residential to "high-rise apartments and cluster-type apartments" on a 13-acre property at the edge of the University of Victoria's Gordon Head campus.

CLOSE VOTE

Two years ago, council defeated in a close vote a similar application for high-rise development on Haro Road.

At that time, the Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association was vocal in its opposition.

The application was also opposed by those who felt the university might want to acquire the land in the future for expansion.

The latest application now is in the hands of the municipal planning department.

From there, it can go either directly to council or—more likely—to the Advisory Planning Commission, which makes recommendations to area councils.

PUBLIC HEARING

Council can then make a decision, or more likely refer it to a public hearing.

Reeve Hugh Curtis said this morning there is "no doubt" any new application "will be in for a very rough ride."

"I have not sensed any change in the attitude on the part of property owners in the university, Cadboro Bay and Ten Mile Point area."

Prairie Man To Head Prosecutors

The move was confirmed today by Mayor R. B. Wilson, who said city council would ratify the appointment Thursday. Other local councils were expected to make similar endorsement.

Now in private practice, Mr. Anderson was formerly assistant to the deputy attorney-general of Alberta.

THREE MEN

The new head will be senior to what is planned to be a three-man corps of prosecutors. Other appointments are expected to be made shortly.

"We feel very fortunate in getting a man of his calibre to head up the prosecuting department," Mayor Wilson said.

Mr. Anderson is expected to take up his new post Nov. 15.

The mayor said qualifications for the senior job were special.

STRIKE RESULT?

'Vindicated' Says Gaglardi As Toll Drops

A dramatic across-the-board decrease in all traffic accident statistics for September was hailed today by Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi as proof of his contention that liquor and not speed is the main cause of road deaths and injuries.

Motor Vehicle Superintendent Ray Hadfield, who issued the monthly count this morning, did not go that far but admitted the reductions "may be more than just a passing co-incidence" with the beer parlor closures that began after the first week of September.

He also said he will investigate the possibility of making a day-by-day analysis of the September-October figures, when they are available next month, to see if there is a firm co-relation between the days the beer parlors were closed by the recently-settled brewery strike and lower accident rates.

334 FEWER

Total number of accidents drop by 334 (10 per cent) to 2,860;

Fatal accidents drop by two (6 per cent) to a total of 30 killing 11 fewer (26 per cent) with a total of 31 deaths;

Injury accidents drop by 66 (7 per cent) to a total of 889 resulting in fewer persons injured (6 per cent) at the new level of 1,364 injured;

Property damage drop by $75,666 (4 per cent) to a total of $1,692,692.

Mr. Gaglardi, who has fought a running feud with the Motor Vehicle Branch for years over the main cause of the mounting highway toll, was contacted in Vancouver.

'PROOF'

"This goes to prove exactly what I have been saying," he claimed.

"We not only had smaller statistics in all categories during the beer strike, but last Saturday when the beer parlors reopened all heck broke loose again with accidents, killings and everything else under the sun increasing again.

"I think it is significant that this accident reduction came while people could still drink (liquor and wine) and were barred only from the beer parlors.

Mr. Gaglardi said the monthly report made it clear "what can be done if the people really want to curb the accident rate.

"These figures go to show that what the others have been saying (about higher speed limits) is not right and that my arguments and statistics against liquor are borne out and I have been vindicated."

Mr. Hadfield said that there had been reductions in some categories of accident statistics over the past few months but it had been a long time since there was a reduction in all categories the same month.

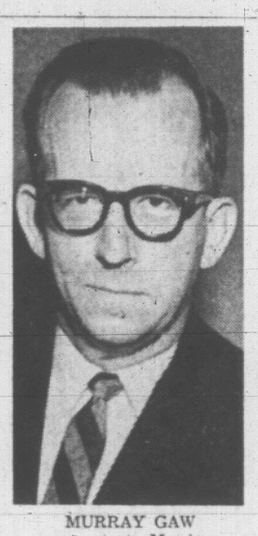
WILL IT CONTINUE?

He said it was still too early to say that the September figures were seriously affected by the beer parlor closure "and the proof is whether it will continue" only over the next month or whether the trend will span a longer period.

He pointed out that there has been a downward trend overall during this year because the number of accidents had increased only 3 per cent between January and September while the number of driver and motor vehicle registrations had increased 1 per cent.

"This is a joyful tread," which may be due to heightened public consciousness of traffic hazards as a result of repeated publicity," he said.

Parents Protest Wild Shooting



MURRAY GAW
. . . starts Monday.

Stray Shot Wounds Ladysmith Student

By TERRY IZZARD

Ladysmith high school students live in daily fear of being shot.

The youngster, of 565 High Street, was still off school today.

Said his mother, Mrs. Pat Miller: "It could just as easily have been his face.

"It's time something was done to control shooting in the area. Someone's likely to get killed."

Police are not sure whether the shot was fired by a careless hunter or by a trigger-happy youth.

But Mrs. Miller, mother of three, said shots can be heard in the bushes outside their home most nights.

"There have been cases of shooting during the day as well. It's just lucky no one has been hit before now."

Neighbor Mrs. Jessie Lambertson came close to being shot herself.

NEAR MISS

She said: "I was hanging out the washing in the back yard when this bullet suddenly thunked into the ground right by my foot."

Mrs. Lambertson didn't wait to see who was doing the shooting. She scuttled indoors.

Ladysmith RCMP are investigating the shooting of the Miller boy.

Hunting is not allowed in the area around the school which is only six blocks from the Trans-Canada Highway.

Said mother of five Mrs. Iris Temple of Fourth Avenue: "It isn't safe to let the kiddies out in the bushes."

Her order includes the area behind the house.

"If the children want to play they have to go across to the playground.

"It's the only place I can keep an eye on them," she said.

.22 RIFLES

Mrs. Temple said she has seen youngsters with .22 rifles shooting on the railroad tracks only 300 yards away.

"Young children shouldn't be allowed to have such lethal weapons," she said. "Maybe after this incident parents will take them away."

Her son John, 13, will be attending high school next year.

Mrs. Debbie Hunter of High Street is afraid for her 14-year-old son Frank's safety.

She said: "I think it's awful. The end of the school playground is right near the bushes. Just one careless shot and a youngster could be killed."

Asked why residents hadn't done anything about the shooting, Mrs. Lambertson said they were afraid.

BEATEN UP

She said there had been cases of children being "beaten up" in the past after parents "squealed" to the police.

"These youngsters have their own code. If you squeal to the police they get their own back."

City Man Appointed As Parole Board Expands Services

An expanding jail population on Vancouver Island has caused an expansion of the federal parole service to Victoria.

The new region has been placed under authority of a man experienced in similar work in the Victoria area, Murray B. Gaw, executive director of the John Howard Society here for the past six years.

Announcement of the expansion of the federal service and Mr. Gaw's appointment was made today at Ottawa by T. G. Street, chairman of the National Parole Board.

Mr. Gaw said in an interview today that his new duties commence Monday in offices in the Belmont Building.

He explained that the National Parole Board maintains 12 regional offices in larger cities across Canada. He said a Vancouver Island office is a natural outgrowth of expansion of federal and provincial prison facilities on the Island in recent years.

These include the provincial jail on Wilkinson Road, the William Head minimum security and two forest camps near Campbell River, Snowdon and Lakeview.

Parole, the completion of a sentence while living in a community rather than in jail, is largely the responsibility of the federal service. Only those prisoners serving the "indefinite" portion of a jail term fall within jurisdiction of the five-man provincial parole board.

ASSESS PROSPECTS

Mr. Gaw's duties will involve interviewing inmates of Vancouver Island to assess their prospects for rehabilitation.

He will arrange community investigations on home conditions and employment prospects and supervise the reporting procedures for parolees. Mr. Gaw will also issue warrants when a parolee violates his parole and must be returned to jail.

"In Canada, only 12 per cent of those on parole fall into this category," he said.

In the United States the figure is about 30 per cent.

He said all inmates become eligible for parole when they have served one-third of their sentence. A person sentenced to life on a non-capital murder charge is eligible after seven years.

OPPOSITION

Mr. Gaw said there is opposition to parole by some police authorities.

"But this opposition will melt away as more confidence is built in intelligent, realistic supervision (by parole authorities)." He said there is a good parole organization on the island, much of the supervision being done by trained people within the John Howard Society and the Salvation Army.

Mr. Gaw is a graduate of the University of Toronto School of Social Work. A wide background in this field he had experience as a prison guard in two Ontario institutions.

He is 38, married and has five children. He lives in Saanichton where he serves as a school trustee.

SUNSATIONAL!

Hottest Oct. 26 On Record

No-one's complaining.

But October's not as hot as it seems.

Despite clear blue skies and above-average temperatures the past week, the month doesn't make such good reading on paper.

With the exception of Tuesday, which was the hottest Oct. 26 on record—65 degrees as opposed to 63 degrees in 1914—everything's around average.

CAN'T COMPARE

While rainfall is down—1.40 inches as opposed to the average 2.29—it cannot compare with Oct., 1964, which notched up only 1.10 inches during the entire month.

Tuesday's 65 was the highest of the month. On Oct. 7 last year it climbed to 71.7.

NO HOPE

Any hopes of equaling last year seem to be out.

ARCTIC TEAM ENDS TRAINING

Take a Gander at 'Snow Goose'

Twenty-six weeks of training ended today for six young men from Canada's Arctic when they launched the 21-foot open boat they built from the keel up.

The craft was launched from C Jetty at HMC Dockyard. Its 80 h.p. Gray marine engine turned over for the first time and the young builders liked what they saw.

They range in age from 19 to 23.

They came to the naval base in May under the sponsorship of the Northern Affairs Department.

For all of them it was their first contact with civilization.

The start of their course began with boatbuilding theory, blue-print reading and use of hand and power tools. Construction of the craft—similar to those used on northern waterways—began in mid-July.

'SNOW GOOSE'

The boat was constructed in the boatshop of HMCS Naden's Fleet School. It is named Kanguq which is Eskimo for snow goose.

During their stay here, the young men became Pacific Command sailors, living in the Naden barracks block, eating their meals there and wearing naval uniforms while on the job.

Arrangements were being made today to have the craft taken to Inuvik, N.W.T., where it will be used as a work boat.

Thieves Get $264 In Cafe Break-In

Police said entry was gained through the roof by forcing a skylight. The money was stolen from a box hidden in the kitchen.

TORONTO REALTOR NEEDS 19,000 FANS SUNDAY . . .

He Admires Pro Soccer Enough to Gamble $120,000

By IAN MacKENZIE

TORONTO (CP) — Four years ago Joe Peters was introduced to professional soccer. Today he admires the sport enough to gamble $120,000 on a single game.

It involves bringing two of the world's top teams—Independiente of Argentina and Napoli of Italy—to play an exhibition game Sunday in Toronto's Varsity Stadium.

Despite the cost, the wealthy 34-year-old Toronto real estate dealer doesn't regard it as a gamble. To him it's an investment.

"I believe it can be put over," he said. "I don't start out a thing thinking it will be a failure."

To back up his words, he produced eight gold bars worth $120,875.39 at a press conference called to announce details of the game.

Ticket prices are $4.50, $7.50 and $15 and he'll need a turnout of about 19,000 to break even. He says more than $50,000 worth of seats have already been sold, mostly among Toronto's big Italian population.

Peters, stocky with brown, crew-cut hair and a staccato manner of talking, says he wants to educate the public and especially youngsters in the finer points of soccer.

"Making money on this game isn't the primary object. I want to put on a first-rate soccer game for the public; this is an investment in the future."

And as president of Toronto Italia of the Eastern Canadian Professional Soccer League he hopes this investment will pay off in increased support for the team and by encouraging youngsters to take up the sport.

Peters says he saw his first professional game after he bought a season ticket when the ECPSL was founded in 1961.

By the end of the season he was deeply involved in the game and today he owns more than 85 per cent of the shares in Italia.

He is also known as a go-getter in the business world.

A native of Maynooth, Ont., he tried his hand at numerous jobs after leaving school before he entered the real estate business in Toronto "because it offered a challenge and I was my own boss." Fourteen year later he owns one of the largest firms in the city.

He tried his hand at a variety of sports, taking up a new one when he became bored.

He was a competent amateur boxer—he has a share in the World Boxing Association heavyweight title fight between Ernie Terrell of Chicago and George Chuvalo of Toronto Nov. 1—and made a name for himself racing sports cars in Eastern Canada and the United States before turning to soccer, which he regards as an outstanding game for youngsters.

"It's one of the greatest sports for kids. You don't have to be 250 pounds to make the team—in fact it's an advantage to be small and agile. And you can equip a whole team for the cost of equipping one boy to play Canadian football."

A director of the Canadian Soccer Football Association, Peters is also concerned with the game on a country-wide basis. He is chairman of a fund-raising committee designed to give the sport a major boost.

"Canada is going to have soccer teams in the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg in 1967 and at the Olympics in Mexico City in 1968. There's absolutely no reason why we can't compete with the rest of the world.

"But we have to start at the grass-roots level, and that's what we're working for now."

HEY, WHERE'S THE NET?

There's a rule against it of course, but this is way view of goal would be blocked if San Francisco coach Bud Poile sent out all his goalies tonight when Seals tackle Victoria Maple Leafs in Western Hockey League game at Memorial Arena. Poile is loaded with netminders and hasn't decided whether he'll start Jack McCartan (left), John Henderson or 19-year-old rookie Doug Favell (right) against Leafs at 8:15. Hall of Fame Will Honor Famous Athletes of B.C.

Outstanding British Columbia athletes are going to be honored in a provincial Sports Hall of Fame.

The hall will be built as a B.C. Centennial project, Laurie Wallace, general chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee, announced Tuesday.

Scheduled to be open the year-round, the Hall of Fame building will be located at the PNE Exhibition grounds in Vancouver. The PNE has agreed to provide the staff and to maintain and operate the hall.

"The time is long past when we should honor athletes who have brought so much recognition to B.C.," Wallace said. "Uniforms, spikes, skates, even press clippings are hard to locate."

TO GATHER MEMENTOES

A board of trustees representing all parts of B.C. will determine terms of appointment and will move quickly to gather mementos for display.

Named to the board were: Arthur Stott, Richard C. Ellis and J. H. Panton, Victoria; Mayor Pete Maffeo, Nanaimo; Mayor J. Palyga, Trail; Cec Steele, Kitimat; E. W. Mayers, Kamloops; Eric W. Brolin, Chilliwack; W. Spear, Kelowna; R. E. McDonald, New Westminster.

From Vancouver: Nat Bailey, Franck C. Baln, M. Lyle Barr, Allan M. McGavin, Donald M. Mackenzie, Stanley V. Smith, Miss Ruth P. Wilson, Jack Bain, M. E. Ferguson, Frank Read, E. F. Fox, T. F. Orr, R. F. Osborne, H. W. Mulholland, Mrs. Len Collett and Mrs. Jean Bardsley.

SIX-MAN TRADE

Phillies Get Bill White From Cards

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Phillies obtained first baseman Bill White, shortstop Dick Groat and catcher Bob Uecker from St. Louis Cardinals today for pitcher Alex Johnson and fielder Alex Johnson and catcher Pat Corrales.

White and Johnson apparently were the key figures in the six player swap. It was known the Phillies were disenchanted with Dick Stuart and figured to look for help at first base.

The Cardinals recently began a house-cleaning of the team that won the National League pennant in 1964 but slumped to sixth last season with the trade of third baseman Ken Boyer to New York Mets for southpaw Al Jackson and infielder Charles Smith.

'NOTHING TO ANNOUNCE'

One Sentence Covers NHL Tampering Probe

MONTREAL (CP)—Ron Andrews, publicity director of the National Hockey League, issued a terse, one-sentence statement following a 75-minute conference between league president Clarence Campbell and Bernie (Boom-Boom) Geoffrion on Tuesday.

"A meeting with Mr. Geoffrion has taken place and there is nothing to announce at this time except the investigation is continuing."

Geoffrion alleges that Smythe made him an offer to return to hockey as a player. The Leaf offer was said to include a five-year contract at a $35,000-a-year stipend.

Geoffrion, now coach of Quebec Aces of the American League, remains on Montreal Canadiens' voluntary retired list, after he quit as an active player 18 months ago. League rules do not allow negotiations directly with a player without prior consent of the parent club.

FRED HUCUL

San Francisco Seals are packing a lot of firepower and somebody is going to have to spike the 'Frisco guns at Memorial Arena tonight if Victoria Maple Leafs are going to bolster their lead in the Western Hockey League.

Leafs, looking for their third straight victory on home ice and their fifth in six starts, may have just the men to do the job. They have perhaps the best defence in the circuit working in front of Al Millar, currently the hottest goalie in the six-team league.

Strong defence has been the key to Victoria's early-season success and much of that strength has been provided by Fred Hucul, the slick, 34-year-old veteran who could be on the way to another of his big scoring years.

Several times a WHL all-star, Hucul didn't have one of his best campaigns last winter. He left the club for a while in mid-season and finished up with eight goals and 20 assists in 51 games.

He's a happier, better-conditioned athlete this time and his play to date suggests he might be heading for the kind of season that netted him totals of 21, 19 and 18 goals in former seasons with Calgary Stampeders.

One of the best defencemen at controlling a puck in pro hockey, Hucul has collected two goals and five assists in the first five games to share the point lead among Victoria players with Milan Marcetta, who has four goals and three assists.

POILE'S PEARLS

Fred and his Maple Leafs pals along the blueline will also have to concentrate on stopping a pack of high-scoring forwards to come out on top tonight.

They'll be up against guys like Charlie Burns, Wayne Maxner, Forbes Kennedy, Al Nicholson, Wayne Connelly, George Swarbrick and Ray Cyr, who have produced two triumphs in two starts.

Marcetta and Hucul are three points behind Vancouver's Bill McNeill in the race for league scoring honors.

McNeill, the WHL's most valuable player last season, has 10 points from four goals and six assists.

McNeill, Vancouver	4	6	10

Olympic Awareness Launched in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (Reuters)—A crusade to create "Olympic mindedness" among Mexicans has been launched here three years in advance of the 1968 games.

The weapons will be the daily press, radio, television and films, and the high command a group of about 100 public relations experts, including the National Publicity Council. Battle orders will come from Gen. Jose Clark Flories, chairman of the Mexican Olympics Committee.

A big drive will be made in schools and youth organizations to inculcate an interest in the historical background of the Olympics, its rules, its records and its heroes. Apart from publicity, the hope is that it may bring out hitherto unsuspected athletic stars.

SPRINTING POET DIDN'T STOP AT 10.1 SECONDS

That was the picture painted Tuesday by the New China News Agency of Chen Chia-Chuan; 27, reported to have tied the world record of 10 seconds flat last Sunday in the 100-metre dash.

The world mark for 100 metres is shared by Armin Hary of Germany, Hiracio Esteves of Venezuela, Bob Hayes of the United States, and Harry Jerome of Canada.

NCNA said Chen wrote a poem, carried in Chinese newspapers, each line of five characters, which said:

"A man will not stop at 10.1 seconds."

BOXING TRADITION

Handlers Holler —Pugilists Pay

TORONTO (CP)—In accordance with one of the oldest traditions in the business, the fighters took the punishment while the bellicose talk came from their handlers.

That's the way it was Tuesday when Ernie Terrell and George Chuvalo showed up at their pre-fight medical examination, listened to an exchange of unpleasantries between members of their entourage and paid $200 apiece for the privilege.

The $200 levy against both fighters was assessed by Merv McKenzie, Ontario Athletics Commissioner and former president of the World Boxing Association, when Terrell and Chuvalo showed up 20 minutes late for the preliminary checkup for their Nov. 1 fight for the WBA heavyweight title.

"You knew when and where the medical was to be held," McKenzie reproved the fighters. "There was no reason for you to be late."

"Why don't you fine the publicity man, then," Terrell complained. "He didn't tell us."

Chuvalo said he had been held up by traffic on his way from his training camp.

McKenzie, unappeased, threatened to double the fine if the fighters were late again.

Terrell, the six-foot-six WBA champion from Chicago, and his Canadian challenger, were interested spectators for the remainder of the session during a spirited wrangle over the gloves they will wear during the 15-round bout at Maple Leaf Gardens.

'JUST A FLUNKEY'

"Your ego is so big you can't see anyone else," was the unsolicited character assessment of Irv Ungerman, Chuvalo's manager, by Terrell adviser Bernie Glickman.

"I don't even know you," Ungerman replied. "Butt out."

"Cool it, you crumb," McWhorter retorted as McKenzie stepped between the pair.

The argument arose when Ungerman objected that Terrell's gloves were wider, had larger thumbs and were more thinly padded than those of the Toronto fighter. Terrell's camp said the gloves were bigger because their fighter has bigger hands.

McKenzie eventually ruled that the fighters can look at another set of gloves next week and take their pick.

"I'll fight him without gloves," Chuvalo suggested.

"That's OK by me," said Terrell.

Chuvalo and Terrell will start getting their $200 back at 10 p.m. EST Monday before an expected crowd of 13,000. Terrell's share of the purse is expected to be about $110,000 to $88,000 for the Canadian champion.

SALONIKA, Greece (AP) — Aris of Salonika beat F. C. Koln of West Germany, 2-1, in a second-round Inter-Cities Fairs Cup soccer game here Tuesday.

OLD NEMESIS of Victoria soccer, crafty Normie McLeod will be in Burnaby lineup Saturday when mainland club faces United in Pacific Coast League match at Royal Athletic Park.

'NOTHING TO ANNOUNCE'

Gilbert Back With Rangers

By The Canadian Press

Rod Gilbert, star right winger for New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, may be able to rejoin his team tonight when the Rangers meet Montreal Canadiens at the Forum.

And in tonight's other game, Toronto Maple Leafs will be looking for their first goal of the season when they take on the Bruins in Boston.

The 24-year-old Gilbert, who scored 25 goals and 36 assists last season, has been bothered by a back ailment and was originally scheduled to remain in hospital this week.

Gilbert, a native of Montreal who went to the Rangers via Guelph juniors four years ago, played with a steel corset brace during the exhibition season.

LOSE HICKE

The Rangers, who dropped a 4-3 decision to Canadiens at Madison Square Garden Sunday night, have lost the services of forward Bill Hicke, stricken with pneumonia.

Hicke, traded to New York by Montreal for Dick Duff, will be out of action for at least two weeks and probably longer. He entered a New York hospital Sunday.

The Canadiens will try to make it three victories in a row when they take on the Rangers.

The Montrealers also defeated Detroit Red Wings 8-1 Saturday.

He said the Rangers gave Canadiens a hard time for the first 10 minutes and it was only netminder Gump Worsley who kept Montreal in the game then.

GIACOMIN PLAYS

Ed Giacomin, the promising goaltender acquired by the Rangers from Providence Reds of the American League in the off-season, will be making his first appearance in Montreal.

Giacomin, 26, made several big saves against the Canadiens Sunday.

The powerless Leafs were blanked 4-0 by Chicago Black Hawks Saturday in the season opener and Detroit shut them out 3-0 Sunday.

The Bruins were beaten 6-2 in their season opener Sunday against Chicago.

Centre Murray Oliver was forced to retire from practice Monday with a bruised hip and forward Ed Westfall banged his shoulder when he crashed into the boards.

Quebec Lowers Boom On Baltimore Squad

(Times News Services)

The American Hockey League Quebec Aces are learning their lessons well from new head coach, Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, former Montreal Canadien star.

The Aces moved into first place in the AHL's Eastern Division Monday night by scoring a 6-3 victory over the Baltimore Clippers in the circuit's only scheduled contest.

Defeat pushed the Clippers into second place.

Bill Sutherland fired two goals for Quebec and Gord Labossiere had a goal and an assist. Ray Cullen of Baltimore and Quebec's Ed Hoekstra were both credited with one point, leaving them with nine for the season, one behind the league leader in scoring, Ken Schinkel of the Clippers, who was shut out by Quebec goalie Gary Bauman.

Quebec now has a 5-1-1 record for 11 points while Baltimore is 5-2, good for 10 points.

U.S. Equestrians Sparkle at Show

HOSPITALS FILLING UP . . . . . WITH BASEBALLERS

Call It 'The Surgery Season'

NEW YORK (AP) — Their long season finally completed, baseball players are beginning to filter into hospitals across the country.

Wes Parker, first baseman for the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers, joined American League batting champion Tony Oliva of Minnesota Twins and shortstop Tony Kubek of New York Yankees at Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., Tuesday.

Parker will undergo a series of allergy tests and have X-rays taken of his shoulder. He injured his shoulder in a home-plate collision at Cincinnati early in the season.

Oliva, who batted .321 and won his second straight batting crown, will undergo surgery Friday for traumatic periostitis of the middle finger of his right hand.

The injury, which frequently causes Oliva to lose his bat after missing pitches, involves an overgrowth of bone caused by repeated injury to the knuckle. Surgery will return the knuckle to normal size.

Kubek had the worst season in his career last year, batting .218. The veteran infielder was troubled by a sore left shoulder through much of the campaign and will undergo examinations.

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh's slugging Willie Stargell and New York Mets relief pitcher Gordon Richardson were set to undergo knee operations.

Slugging Crown To Mays

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays of San Francisco Giants extended two National League records in winning the circuit's slugging title for the fifth time in 1965, the final averages disclosed Tuesday.

The veteran outfielder hit .645, his highest mark in 10 years, figures compiled by the Associated Press showed. He led in 1964 with .607, 1954 with .667, 1955 with .659 and 1957 with .626.

The past season, Mays collected 360 total bases in 558 times at bat. Among his 177 hits were 21 doubles, three triples and a major league high of 52 home runs. It was the 12th straight season in which the Giants' star compiled at least 300 total bases, extending his own league record. He lifted his career slugging average four points to .593, another National League mark.

Carl Yastrzemski of Boston paced the American League with a .536 average. Runner-up to Minnesota's Tony Oliva in the batting competition, Yastrzemski had 265 total bases, including 45 doubles, three triples and 20 homers.

Hank Aaron of Milwaukee was the runner-up to Mays in the National League. The Braves' outfielder had a .560 average on 319 total bases in 570 at bats. His extra base hits included 40 doubles, tops in the league, one triple and 32 homers.

WILLIAMS WAS THIRD

Billy Williams of Chicago Cubs was third with .552. He had 356 total bases, only four less than Mays.

Slugging averages are computed by adding the total bases accumulated on all hits and dividing the figure by the number of official times at bat.

Tony Conigliaro of Boston, the American League home run king with 32, and Norm Cash of Detroit tied for second in slugging behind Yastrzemski with .512 marks. Then came Leon Wagner, Cleveland, .495 and Oliva with .491.

BOWLER OF THE WEEK

Consistent pin-spilling produced three games close to 300 for Sylvia Martin and earned her women's fivepin award in Times Bowler-of-the-Week contest. Mother of three, Mrs. Martin clicked for 848 total on games of 290, 285 and 273 in Thursday Matinee League at Gibson's Recreations. She is now eligible for Bowler-of-the-Year rolloff in May.

'New Wrinkles' Helped To Smooth Out Stamps

CALGARY (CP) — The 1965 version of Calgary Stampeders is basically the same as the 1964 model but a few new wrinkles have produced a better club, says coach Bud Grant of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Grant's Bombers meet the Stamps in Calgary tonight in a game that could decide who gets first place in the Western Football Conference.

The Stampeders' improved offensive line probably gives Eagle Day better pass protection, Grant told a press conference Tuesday. "Frank Budd at offensive end certainly is good going deep.

PASSING VARIETY

"I don't know if they have any more plays than they did last year but they throw a greater variety of pass patterns. They seem to have the ability to take advantage of defensive lapses or weaknesses.

"They've been the most consistent team in the Canadian Football League all year. They've won more games and have had no losing streaks—we lost four in a row."

The Stamps, leading the WFC with 22 points, could wrap up first place by defeating or tying the Bombers, who with 20 points in second place need a win over the Stamps and a defeat of Calgary by British Columbia Lions in Vancouver Oct. 31 to finish first.

FIRST SINCE 1949

For Jerry Williams' Stampeders, a first-place finish would be their first since 1949. Last year the Stamps finished second behind the Grey Cup champion Lions, who this season dropped to fourth place.

For the Bombers, a first-place finish would be their first since 1962. If they tie the Stampeders in final standings, they will earn first place because they have defeated Calgary in two of three season games between the two clubs.

Tonight's game is the last of the season for the Bombers.

Saskatchewan Roughriders, who have locked up a third-place playoff spot with 15 points, tangle with the Eskimos in Edmonton Oct. 30 in the last season game for both teams. Edmonton has 10 points and last position.

REDLEGS NAME HEFFNER AS NEW FIELD MANAGER

CINCINNATI (AP)—Don Heffner was named manager of Cincinnati Reds Tuesday by the same man who gave him a job as a minor league boss in 1947.

Bill Dewitt, president of the Reds, made the announcement that the 54-year-old Heffner had been picked to succeed Dick Sisler for the next two seasons. Financial terms were not disclosed.

The announcement was no surprise, however. Heffner generally had been tabbed as the new manager ever since Sister was released Oct. 4 after the highly-rated Reds folded in the closing week of the season and wound up fourth.

For the last two seasons, Heffner, a former major league second baseman, had been a coach with New York Mets. For two years before that he managed the Reds' San Diego farm club of the Pacific Coast League.

West's Semifinal One-Game Affair

REGINA (CP) — The Western Football Conference's playoffs will open either Saturday, Nov. 6, at Calgary or Sunday, Nov. 7, at Winnipeg, depending on which team wins the conference title.

Bob Gillies, WFC secretary, Tuesday announced dates for the sudden-death semi-final and the best-of-three final.

Calgary Stampeders lead the league with 22 points, two more than Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

BOMBERS FIRST

But if Winnipeg wins and B.C. beats Calgary in the regular schedule's final game, Winnipeg and Calgary each would have 22 points and Winnipeg would take first place, having defeated Calgary twice in three games.

If the semi-final is between Winnipeg and Saskatchewan Roughriders, it will be played Sunday, Nov. 7, at 2:30 p.m. in Winnipeg.

If the semi-final is between Calgary and Saskatchewan it will be played Saturday, Nov. 6, at 2 p.m. in Calgary.

IF CALGARY

If Calgary finishes first, the finals will open Saturday, Nov. 13, at 2 p.m. in Calgary. The second game would be played Wednesday, Nov. 17, at 8 p.m. in either Winnipeg or Regina. A third game, if necessary, would be played Saturday, Nov. 20 at 2 p.m. in Calgary.

If Winnipeg finishes first, the best-of-three final will open Sunday, Nov. 14, at 2:30 p.m. in Winnipeg with the second game Wednesday, Nov. 17, in either Calgary or Regina.

The semi-final has been changed to a sudden-death game this year from a two-game, total-points series last season.

Stratton Quits St. Louis Club

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Veteran centre Art Stratton of St. Louis Braves of the Central Hockey League was missing from practice Tuesday and may have quit the team.

Stratton, 30, the American League's most valuable player and scoring champion last year, was known to have become disheartened over difficulties in finding a home in St. Louis. His wife and four children are in Winnipeg.

Refs' Strike Hits Okanagan League

Blair Peters, president of the Okanagan Hockey Referees Association, said Tuesday his officials have boycotted league games for the first two weeks of the season in a salary dispute.

He said the association wants $18 a game for a referee and $8 for linesmen but the league has offered only $15 and $7.50.

OMJHL president Dave MacKay said the "door still is open if the referees' association wants to bend a bit" in the dispute.

The league originally offered payments of $12.50 and $6.25 a game, the same as last year, but increased the offer at a meeting one day before the season opened. Vernon, Penticton, Kelowna and Kamloops have entries in the league.

WANTED MORE

Peters said the non-association referees now working the league games are unqualified.

"Poor officiating will cause a decline in the league," he said.

MacKay said officials in the Okanagan are paid more than those working for the Pacific Coast Junior Hockey League. He denied the non-association refereeing has hindered play.

Howard Voted Comeback Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Howard, the former Los Angeles Dodger who became a big man in Washington, has been chosen the American League's Comeback Player of the Year for 1965.

The six-foot-seven outfielder drew 61 votes to edge pitcher Jim Grant of Minnesota Twins, second with 58 votes. Norm Cash, Detroit Tigers' first baseman, was third with 24.

Jazy Not Coming

ORANGE, France (Reuters) —Michel Jazy, France's star middle-distance runner, told reporters this week he has decided not to take part in track meets scheduled for Jan. 22 in Montreal and Jan. 29 in Los Angeles because he wants to concentrate on one aim for next year, preparation to beat the world 1,500-metre record.

ARRIVES AT LAUREL

Distance, Grass Ideal for George

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — George Royal, a four-year-old Canadian colt, arrived at Laurel race course Tuesday as the forerunner of entries for the Nov. 11 Washington D.C. International.

George Royal, who won the Canadian Championship last Saturday, made a 16-hour trip from Toronto by truck with Don Richardson, his trainer, groom and exercise rider.

"He took the trip very well," said Richardson, a Texan. "He's an easy horse to train and he should be perfect for the international. He loves the grass and loves to go a distance."

The international is at 1½ miles on the turf.

Laurel officials were notified Tuesday England's two entries for the $150,000 race, Canvasmore and Super Sam, will come over on separate jet flights, Nov. 5 and 6.

Other entries in the race are Roman Brother and Hail To All for the United States, Russia's Aniline and France's Diatome.

Outclassed Puck Kids — On Way Out?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Province ays a realignment of the Pacific Coast Junior Hockey League will be disclosed shortly with North Kamloops and Coquitlam dropping out.

The morning paper says the reason is that neither is close to junior "A" calibre.

New Westminster Royals bombed Coquitlam 20-2 Saturday and North Kamloops 16-3 Sunday. Vancouver Juniors beat North Kamloops 8-2 on Saturday.

The paper says a junior team from the University of B.C. is expected to join the league.

In all, 100 runners were expected in three events, the open, intermediate and junior.

Cochrane and Co. should get stiff opposition in the open from John Cliff and Norm Pateneaude of Victoria's Spartan Club.

CONSTITUTION

Amending Plan To Be Delayed

QUEBEC (CP) — Indications are that the Fulton - Favreau constitution - amending formula, the subject of heated vocal opposition by Quebec's opposition Union Nationale party, will be shelved at least temporarily.

The formula has been the subject of public controversy in Quebec for several months, and Premier Jean Lesage, who said earlier this year he would promote the formula, said recently he is not yet ready to say "yes or no" to it.

It was developed by three different federal governments over a four-year period with the co-operation of all provincial governments. A year ago, it received the unanimous approval of all Canadian premiers at a special federal-provincial conference in Ottawa.

The formula was first presented to the public in 1960 by Davie Fulton, then Conservative justice minister. Its purpose was to allow Canada to bring the right to amend the Canadian constitution to Ottawa from London.

The first draft of the formula was amended in 1964 by Guy Favreau, then Liberal justice minister, and approved by provincial representatives.

At Charlottetown in 1964, during a constitutional conference held while Prince Edward Island was celebrating its centenary, the prime minister and the premiers unanimously agreed the constitution must be "repatriated."

NEEDS U.K. APPROVAL

The Canadian constitution is made up of several sections of the British North America Act, adopted in 1867 by the Parliament of the United Kingdom, and can only be amended with its approval.

The Fulton-Favreau formula, if passed by the Canadian government and approved by that of the United Kingdom, would eliminate the powers which the Parliament of the United Kingdom has over the Canadian constitution.

Prime Minister Pearson said at a press conference in Charlottetown at the end of August, 1964, that the Canadian constitution was a "humiliaing colonialist holdover" and that it would be "repatriated" before Christmas of that year.

Premier Lesage said he "foresaw no more major difficulties" in connection with the "repatriation." However, it was understood that simultaneous with the passing of the formula it would be necessary to set up machinery to amend the Canadian constitution.

The right to amend the Canadian constitution, after adoption of the formula, would be in the hands of Canada's federal and provincial governments.

The Fulton-Favreau formula has received the approval of all provincial legislatures except that of Quebec.

Premier Lesage said last Friday in the legislature that the holdup is caused by the issue of the method of modification of the constitution and that he is not yet ready to approve the formula.

Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin went even further at an election rally in Trois-Rivieres last week, when he said there is reason to think about "rejecting the Fulton-Favreau formula."

He stressed his legislature's vote on the formula did not mean it had been accepted but merely that it had been approved as a "basis for discussion" of the Canadian constitutional problem.

And, two weeks ago, Mr. Pearson said "one word from Quebec could start a re-evaluation of the Fulton-Favreau formula."

The formula states that any proposed modification of the Canadian constitution would have to receive the approval of the federal and provincial governments.

Premier Lesage had said earlier this gave Quebec a type of veto power. However, many Quebec opponents of the formula say this power is not enough and that Quebec must be granted special status.

Until all the provinces have accepted the formula, it cannot be submitted to Parliament for approval, and indications are that Quebec is not yet ready to decide.

Man Fined $200 After Hit-Run

Gerald Brasseur, 1890 St. David, was fined $150 Monday in central court for hit-and-run driving and $50 for careless driving.

He pleaded guilty.

Evidence was that his vehicle hit a parked car on Crescent Road shortly after 5 Sunday morning. He kept on going but was stopped a few minutes later.

The magistrate suspended Brasseur's licence.

Victorian Honored By Pope

There were more than 100 guests at a luncheon reception, held in the Terra Cotta Room of the Dominion Hotel to honor the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Costello.

Prior to the reception, the couple and their guests attended a special mass and service in St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

Highlight of the anniversary was an honor conferred on Mr. Costello by Pope Paul. He received the medal, Pro Ecclesia, in recognition of his 33 years' service to the cathedral as sacristan and sexton.

The couple was married in Liverpool, England, on Oct. 16, 1915. They came to Canada in 1919, settling first in Winnipeg and Kelowna before coming to Victoria in 1924.

They have two sons, Mr. Frank E. Costello of Victoria, and Dr. J. Bernard Costello of Vancouver. There are 14 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Costello hold the picture taken on their wedding day as the honor couple receive congratulations from the many guests who attended their golden wedding celebrations. (Kandid Kamera.)

McMILLAN-BARR VOWS

Teal Blue Georgette Gown Worn for Vestry Wedding

The vestry of Metropolitan United Church was the setting for a recent quiet ceremony when Rev. A. E. King heard vows uniting Beverley Irene Barr and Philip Young McMillan in marriage.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. David Barr, 4442 Majestic Drive, and Mrs. D. McMillan, 3287 Glasgow Avenue, and the late Mr. McMillan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of teal blue georgette over satin, styled with a bodice featuring full sleeves to the wrist. Her veil misted to shoulder-length from a white floral headpiece and she carried a bouquet of white flowers.

Douglas Ross was best man.

Miniature figures of a bride and groom topped the three-tier wedding cake which centred the bride's table for the reception following in the Club Soho. Soloist Miss Betty Viggers sang "At Dawning." G. Parsons proposed the toast to the bride.

The couple is now making their home at 3287 Glasgow Ave. following a honeymoon trip up-Island. For travelling the bride chose a suit of off-white boucle, accented with apricot accessories and white gardenia corsage.

Out-of-town guests attending the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Barr and Mr. and Mrs. W. McMillan of Vancouver, and Mrs. V. Law and Mr. Wilf Law of Seattle, Wash.

Spook Up Your Party With Ghostly Favors

By Penny Saver

The bewitching hour approaches. "What am I going to do?" cried my neighbor in despair. Planning a Halloween party at the last minute can mean double trouble, so my desperate friend claims. I found the solution brewing in a local shop.

Halloween favors of every kind and description greeted me as I walked in. Candles molded as pumpkins and orange skulls grinned from every corner. Tiny ghosts, witches and black cats popped up everywhere. These novel candles range from $1.69 to 35 cents each, an economical way to set an eerie atmosphere at a party.

Huge cardboard witches and pumpkins with movable limbs sneered from the walls. These ghastly green and orange creations are two feet tall and sell at 69 cents each. I could almost hear a scrawny black cat hissing at a neighboring pumpkin.

Hovering above was a variety of three-dimensional spooks of pressed paper. A gigantic pumpkin with a tall black hat sells at $1.50. An ideal centrepiece for a refreshment table, a gaunt scarecrow leaning against a cornshock, with a pumpkin in the foreground, was 69 cents.

Table setting is no longer a problem with a 54 by 88-inch paper tablecloth, selling at 79 cents, designed with a witch flying across the centre, and a border of pumpkins and cauldrons. Serviettes, paper plates, and cups are available with the same design. "When the hurly-burly's done," (shades of Macbeth), just throw them away.

A novel idea for cake decorations are tiny skeletons selling in this store for 25 cents the package. Hors d'oeuvre picks with pumpkin, witch or skull heads, are 49 cents a package.

Herald your ghostly assembly with these most appropriate invitations—a witch grinning mischievously through a ghoulish green haze. A package of 12 cards sells for 50 cents. Wicked pumpkin place cards, at the same price, would add the perfect finishing touch to your witches' Sabbath.

DEAR ABBY . . .

He's Not For Her!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and recently met a fine young man of 28. We hit it off perfectly. I've never known a young man who had so many of the qualities I admire. He told me he "loved" me, and I told him I loved him, too. Then he said he didn't think we should get "too serious" as he couldn't propose marriage. The reason: His parents were very much prejudiced against people of my religious faith, and he would never marry a girl his parents didn't approve of. He said he realized that a "real" man would probably marry the girl of his choice and disregard his parents' wishes. But material things were his weakness, and if he were to marry me he'd have to change his standard of living, and give up all hope of eventually falling heir to the family business. Should I continue going with him, hoping he will change his mind? Or hope he can get his parents to change theirs? I love him, Abby, and can't give him up just like that.

DISQUALIFIED.

DEAR DISQUALIFIED: If he can't propose marriage, what does he propose? Run fast, in the other direction, unless you are content just to go with him until he meets a girl of whom his parents will approve.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, who is a professor at one of the local colleges, is very well liked by his students. Consequently during the school year we receive many wedding invitations, and we usually accept them all. We are on a very tight budget and must watch our expenditures closely. Is it necessary for us to give the couple a wedding gift if we attend their wedding? Many of our friends who are also teachers (even the single ones) are wondering about this, too. We know the students invite my husband because they want him, and the gift is unimportant.

TIGHT BUDGET.

DEAR TIGHT: If you want to attend the wedding, go, and take a gift. It isn't necessary to strain your budget. Browse around in an antique shop, or a book store. You can find some small, appropriate item for a dollar or slightly more. A second-hand book, or paperback edition of one of the classics, selected with the couple's special interest in mind, could be more meaningful than a more pretentious gift.

DEAR ABBY: How do you get rid of the neighbors' kids? Except for eating and sleeping, those kids spend all their time here. We have no youngsters their age for them to play with. We have only one, and she's still an infant. It gets awfully crowded with three and four children in the house all the time. Two of them are old enough to be "all ears" and there is no privacy at all. Sending them home does no good. They come right back again. We can't understand what kind of parents would let their children impose on the neighbors so much. What should we do?

CROWDED.

DEAR CROWDED: Don't blame the parents. They probably assume you enjoy having their children in your home because they're there so much. When the youngsters invite themselves in, tell them you are busy, and say it like you mean it. They'll get the idea before long. (Most children are smarter than adults.)

ST. MARY'S CHURCH

Guild Realizes $240

A successful bridge and dessert party, held by the Women's Guild of St. Mary's Church in the parish hall, realized $240. Proceeds are reported by treasurer Mrs. E. V. Cowie.

Guests were greeted by honorary president, Mrs. H. Weldon; president, Mrs. Keith Dixon, and general convener, Mrs. D. C. F. MacArthur.

Baskets and urns, filled with fall flowers, were on the stage and colorful arrangements centred the tables, competing with the eye-appeal of the varied desserts.

Serving on Mrs. MacArthur's committee were Mrs. A. H. Bamford, Mrs. J. N. Fraser, Mrs. S. Petley-Jones and Mrs. W. Redford.

BE SMART—

The practical, uncrushable knit is growing more fascinating as its popularity increases. Here's a charmer: a black and white in two parts—the bowed overblouse and slim skirt with off-centre stripings. Very jeune fille, but quite right on the barely mature woman, too.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

How to Use Eye Makeup To Enhance Your Beauty

We all know that a woman's eyes play an important part in her beauty and attractiveness. These and the skin and tissues surrounding them deserve care. Also, cosmetics which frame and enhance the eye can make a terrific difference if they are used with subtlety.

Eyes need a frame to put them "on stage." Beautiful eyes lose their impact if the lashes and brows are dim or scanty, while average eyes can be played up with makeup.

Lowman

Today the majority of women use some kind of eye makeup, at least for dress-up occasions. However, there still are many who have never used any of these cosmetics. If you have not tried them, do so, and see what a great difference they can make in the way you look.

Blondes should use brown mascara and brown pencil. From medium to brunette, black is most effective. However many experts feel that a combination of black and brown is more natural in appearance. The most usual mistake when applying mascara is to have the brush too wet. It should be just barely damp. Otherwise the lashes mat together. Today many women use the roll-on type.

If you use a pencil for your brows, apply it with small light feathery strokes and then blend. Today there is the wonderful brush-on brown makeup which looks so much more like the real thing. Above all, avoid a harsh drawn-on looking line. This is very unflattering.

For lines at the corners of the eyes, massage along the line with a finger, using a rotary motion. Apply cream first. Eye strain and bright sunlight cause these squint lines. Get glasses if you need them and wear colored glasses when out in the sunlight. This goes for winter as well as summer. Pat an eye cream under the eyes at night.

The following exercise will help fill out the hollows. Apply cream. Raise the muscles of the face as though you were sniffing at something. Hold while you count to five. Relax and continue. Do this five times at first and gradually increase to 10 times.

Maybe you would like to lose five pounds in a hurry! If so you may want my Trick and Treat Diet which gives you a loss of about five pounds in seven days. If you would like to have this send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Sharp Backs China

TORONTO (CP)—Trade Minister Sharp says China should be recognized diplomatically and admitted to the United Nations.

But, in replying to questions at a Toronto election rally Tuesday night, Mr. Sharp said it's only his personal opinion and he can't speak for the Canadian government.

If China got into the UN arrangements would have to be made to allow the Nationalist Chinese to stay in too, he said.

Recognition of Red China and its admission to the UN would be "a contribution to the peace of the world," he added.

NDP Pledges Quick Action On Resources

SASKATOON (CP)—Fast action on water conservation and pollution problems facing Canada was promised here Tuesday by NDP Leader T. C. Douglas.

Mr. Douglas, speaking at a rally in a church hall attended by more than 1,600 people, said the NDP advocates an immediate inventory of the country's natural resources in co-operation with the provinces. The inventory would provide "a permanent foundation for a national plan of resource management."

The party is preparing plans for the engineering projects which will be necessary in a few years to divert water from areas of surplus to areas of deficiency.

CRASH PROGRAM

"We plan a crash program to study water pollution, particularly in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence area."

The NDP leader said the Liberal and Conservative parties lack "the slightest understanding of the crucial decisions which must be made in the management of our natural resources." Natural resources are limited and must be conserved.

Mr. Douglas said the signing of the Columbia River treaty proved Canada must have a government at Ottawa that will treat natural resources as a precious heritage and "not as a bargain counter for a few dollars or a few votes."

BENNETT PROMISE TO WIDOWS

WCB Pension Retroactive

Premier W. A. C. Bennett this week made good on an offer used to end a bitter and prolonged battle in the dying moments of last spring's legislative session.

During a question-and-answer period following a political speech Monday in Kimberley, the premier told his audience that the preliminary report of the Tysoe Royal Commission on workmen's compensation has been received.

He said all of the recommendations for overhauling the workmen's compensation board and its rates would be endorsed and specifically promised that the present $90-a-month pension for widows and children would be increased retroactively to the beginning of this year.

Opposition members in the legislature held up the WCB estimates for two days in March, finding some support from government backbenchers, on the grounds that the widows' pensions were flagrantly inadequate for raising a family and discriminatory when compared with treatment given old age pensioners.

The debate finally ended when the government undertook to give serious consideration to making any increases recommended by the royal commission for widows retroactive.

Mr. Bennett's promise in Kimberley, and the indication that all other recommendations will be accepted, undoubtedly will cost the treasury several millions of dollars but the premier would give no clue to the size of the increases.

Approved By Lords

LONDON (UPI) — The House of Lords today gave its final approval to a bill that would abolish capital punishment in Britain. The vote was 169 to 75. The bill now returns to the House of Commons for final passage. It is expected to pass shortly and could become law by the new year.

Gordon Guaranteed A Job

Ottawa Bureau Staff Writer

WALLACEBURG, Ont. — Walter Gordon got a guarantee of job security Tuesday night if the Liberals win the Nov. 8 election.

"He is going to be elected again, and he is going to be the minister of finance working in Ottawa," Pearson said.

There has been speculation that Gordon might be pushed for the finance post if both he and Robert Winters are elected, but Pearson put the damper on that.

The prime minister told the audience that he saw a sign on a store as he drove into Wallaceburg that would be a good slogan for the finance minister — "Gordon's Supersave."

But Pearson stated that with the demands made on him, a "supersaver" would have to be a superman.

"I hope he will be both," he said.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Eric Fiks, age 133, of Winnipeg, Man., for his question:

What was the Ordovician Period like?

There have been almost a score of geological periods in the age-old story of our changeable planet. Each of them lasted through millions of years and ended in global changes somewhat like the dramatic conclusion of a chapter. And each was followed by a period of a different character.

The geological eras are named for their types of plants and animals. There are five such eras, and each lasted hundreds of millions of years. Their names suggest the gradual development of life on our earth. Each era is subdivided into geological periods, and the periods are named for places. The dinosaurs reached their heyday in the Jurasic Period. Its rock formations and fossils were noticed first in the Jura Mountains of Europe.

The Ordovician Period was named for a region in Wales, once inhabited by people called the Ordovices. However, the rocky formations date back millions of years before the arrival of mankind on the earth. This geological period opened some 440 million years ago and closed perhaps 360 million years before the arrival of the human family. It is the second chapter in the immense Paleozoic or ancient life era of the earth's story.

The plants and animals of the remote Ordovician Period were very simple. Our familiar mountains were unborn and even the map of land and sea was different. One phase of geological history is the struggle between the ocean and the continents. Time after time the seas have invaded vast areas of land and finally returned to their basins. The Ordovician Period was a time of triumph for the ocean. More than 60% of the land was under shallow sea water.

Seas Teemed With Algae

The Ordovician plants and animals lived in the ancient seas, for life had not yet ventured upon the dry land. In North America, more than half the present land was under water, and the rains ran down into two immense ditches called geosynclines.

The Ordovician seas teemed with algae and simple animals. There were countless crustaceans and the trilobites were at their peak. Toward the end of the period, the earliest backboned creatures arrived in the sea. Piles of silty deposits on land were becoming heavy enough to cause the rise of massive mountains in the Old World and the New.

The Ordovician Period doused the continents with countless silty streams. Thick layers of shale, sandstone, limestone and other sedimentary rocks were deposited in the shallow seas. They later became dry land. A few igneous rocks were formed from volcanoes, and some of our deposits of oil and gas, salt and marble, zinc and lead were formed in the geological period that closed some 360 million years in the past.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

NEW YORK—I wish someone would pass a law making it illegal for a columnist to see a Broadway show before its official premiere. Then we would all be spared the personality-splitting question: to comment, or not to comment, when they still might be "fixing?" Variety, and other papers, review shows the minute they rear their heads out of town, in any town, so it seems to me the divertissements are fair game when they come into my town and start playing previews to which people pay $50 a ticket for the privilege of sitting in the balcony.

I am referring, specifically, to "Skyscraper," which I saw—saw the first act of, to be completely accurate—at the Lunt-Fontanne Theatre, in homage to a worthy charity, the George Junior Republic, of which I am a patron. The street outside the theatre was jammed with Rolls-Royces and Cadillacs, the playhouse was crammed with attractive and celebrated and polite people, but even the politest could not work up much enthusiasm for this new musical comedy. It contains Julie Harris, quite inexplicably, since she is not a musical comedy performer, Charles Nelson Reilly, who does everything but set fire to his trousers to get laughs where none are written in the libretto, one marvelous construction company ballet in the first act which should open the show, but doesn't, no music to sing of, and a lot of costumes that imitate last year's Courreges.

I will be delighted—but astonished—if this one gets good reviews.

However, in the case of the George Junior Republic Benefit, the show was followed by the traditional glamorous supper party tossed by Lillian and Hubie Boscowitz at the Four Seasons, where the turkey served is fa. more enjoyable than that dished up at the Lunt-Fontanne.

Harry Belafonte and Lena Horne plan a "just singing" TV special for early next year . . . Albert "Dolly" Stark, the famed National League umpire, has returned from Reno with a divorce from Betsy Levy.

Julie Andrews' chances of another Oscar will be considerably enhanced by her next honor. She will be crowned "Star of the Year" at the huge Theatre Owners of America convention in Hollywood . . . The folding of Barbra Streisand's husband's "Drat! the Cat!" was a $400,000 fiasco. It lasted a mere week on Broadway. At the same time, Barbra's "Funny Girl" rang up a record-breaking $86,220 sellout—in its 80th week. Barbra and Elliot must have a lot to talk about at breakfast about the vagaries of show biz.

One former top-flight East Side night spot, which recently reopened with a phoney flurry, is ready to switch to another format—"el blasto." In other words, rock 'n' roll . . . Broadway will see a remarkable play when "Inadmissible Evidence" opens here in November. The London import, story of a disintegrating lawyer, is played brilliantly by Nicol Williamson, who is probably one of the top three actors in the world. But I am here to suggest to the producers that they find another man for the matinees, or some alternate performances, because I saw the show in London and no actor can do what Nicol Williamson does eight times a week. They must treat him as they treated the original cast of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" or they are in for a lot of missed performances and disappointed customers. He is on stage almost every minute from start to finish, and the emotions he is required to display would drain any human being, no matter how professional, as if his own blood were being withdrawn during every showing.

Comox-Alberni Too Busy for Campaign

Boom Drowns Out Election

Times legislative reporter John Mika last week toured the two federal ridings up-Island to see how the campaign was shaping up.

He talked to party officials and local newsmen for an overall impression and then sought specific opinions in random interviews with persons in daily contact with the public. This is the second of two articles.

By JOHN MIKA

With isolated exceptions, residents of the Comox-Alberni riding are simply too busy to become involved in the election campaign.

I saw about two dozen campaign posters along the roadsides — concentrated at Alberni, Parksville and Campbell River — but these were mere drops in the bucket of new subdivision signs.

Along the highway, the large number of new homes and business buildings under construction and the heavy flow of truck traffic confirmed the talk of a major boom under way in Vancouver Island's northernmost riding.

Everywhere I went, people told me that the New Democratic candidate Tom Barnett was expected to win his fifth term in Parliament—but I gained the impression that there was more of a contest here than in the mid-island riding.

Fishermen Angry

Certainly there is more interest in the election, although by only a small margin and for reasons peculiar to the riding.

At Campbell River, election talk is fairly common—the only community where I found this throughout my tour. There appear to be two reasons:

Fishermen have had a disastrous season and are bitterly angered with what they consider to be the federal government's neglect of their industry. They've had meetings demanding more development of spawning grounds and research.

But it is notable that all this resentment redounds to Mr. Barnett's advantage — he is considered their champion—which militates against any change in the riding's representation.

Secondly, 27-year-old Bill Macadam, the Conservative candidate, is the first man from Campbell River to be running for a federal seat in almost three decades and local pride alone has prompted interest in his home town.

Mr. Macadam also has created the only hard news story of the campaign through his offer of free rides on his Trans-Mountain Airline to his opponents when stumping the far-flung logging and fishing camps.

Little Impact

But outside of Campbell River, he has made little public impression.

Similarly, Loran Jordon, the Liberal candidate, has aroused a spark of interest in Port Alberni area because he was mayor for 16 years there. But elsewhere in the riding, he is another unknown.

Jean Gagnon, Social Credit standard-bearer and only bilingual candidate in the running, appears to have suffered a cruel blow from fate. The sprinkling of French-Canadians in the constituency are committed to the Liberals as a result of Prime Minister Pearson's record on unity so Mr. Gagnon's ability to speak French has only served to remind the small anti-Quebec element not to give him a vote.

The Liberals, who polled 9,217 votes to run second to the NDP's 13,499 votes in 1963, are banking heavily on the fact that the only national issue that has captured any general attention is the Canada Pension Plan.

"All the rest—unity, medicare, integrity and so on—have just not made any impression," said Irving Wilson, editor of the West Coast Advocate in Port Alberni.

"But there are a lot of people here nearing the age of retirement and they are pretty enthusiastic about the new plan.

MOORE
. . . "no issues"

"You have to remember, that in this town alone the other day there was a ceremony for the more than 1,200 persons in the MacMillan-Bloedel 25-Up Club—all of them voters and all of them nearing retirement."

Although some businessmen question whether Mr. Barnett, as an opposition member, has been able to bring enough federal projects to the riding, there is no burning longing for any particular facility and no local issues have developed.

Port Alberni service station worker S. G. Maynesfield told me that none of his customers had even mentioned the election so far.

"In a service station you don't normally hear much about elections anyway, but other times we've had a little bit. This time nothing. I think people are fed up with politicians and they're too busy anyway, this place is growing so fast," he told me.

Courtenay municipal clerk Bill Moore, in former times both a CCF and Liberal candidate but now claiming to be non-political, said there was no election conversation in coffee bars as in the 1963 and previous elections.

"There just doesn't seem to be any issue. No one really seems to think that anything would change in Ottawa if the Conservatives got in so why bother?

"The only concern I've heard is that whatever happens, it better not force another early election because we've had enough.

"In that sense, I suppose the only issue is majority government—but not in a partisan way.

"One thing that surprises me is how the nuclear arms thing has died. Two years ago that was a really hot issue here—because of the air force base at Comox—but this time time nobody's talking about it. Even the people against it seem to have forgotten about it and this past summer's demonstrations haven't made any impression."

Mr. Moore said there was an "amazing lack of publicity by the parties so far—there are practically no posters and they have only begun to advertise in papers and on radio in a small way. I guess they don't have the money or else don't have incentive."

'So Negative'

"I really think that any outfit could win this riding—even an entirely new party—if it came in and really did an organizing job with workers pounding on every door.

"People just seem to feel there are too many politicians and too many elections and nobody or any issue that is worth voting FOR. It's all so negative with just things to vote against."

Campbell River community leader and operator of a popular cafe, Skip Macdonald said there was the usual amount of election talk.

"But the voters are all split up and I think Barnett will get back in because of it.

"Both the Liberals and Conservatives who are unhappy with their own parties seem to throw their protest votes to the NDP up here but the NDP people who are disenchanted never seem to give their votes to the old-line parties.

"So this just seems to be an NDP bailiwick regardless of who is the candidate."

History seems to bear that observation out. Since the riding was created in 1914, it has returned independent candidates or Mr. Barnett in all elections except 1958 when Harry McQuillan won it in the Diefenbaker sweep.

Returning officer Wilfred Anderton of Courtenay gave statistics which seemed to support the contention that the riding is too busy with its own growth to care what happens in Ottawa.

"Two years ago we enumerated 39,310 persons in the riding. This time, it looks like the list will total close to 42,000 when all the revisions are completed," he said.

Dobson Seeks Re-Election

DUNCAN — Jack Dobson will seek re-election as mayor in December.

He has been mayor for ten years.

Ald. Barney Cocks said he would be seeking a second two-year term.

Third council member due to seek re-election, Ald. Hamish Mutter, has not made up his mind.

A candidate last year, E. Lyle Reid, said he would not be running because of poor health.

Curling Club To Build Rink

DUNCAN — The Duncan Curling Club will build its own home.

This decision was made by the club after the Cowichan Co-operative Curling Association Tuesday rejected a $45,000 offer from the club for the James Street rink.

Instead it accepted a $46,000 bid from shareholder Karm Singh and Associates.

Tuesday the curling club called a general membership meeting to discuss a new rink.

Karm Singh and Associates are bound to the lease signed between the association and the club for the coming season.

However, Karm Singh said this morning the present rink will be opened for skating throughout the winter if the curlers opt out.

Curling club president Alan Taylor had previously criticized the manner in which the sale of the rink was carried out.

He said the curling club was not given a second chance to increase its offer.

Ex-President Claims Score On Dog Woes

COBBLE HILL — Ex-president William Dunn claimed today he has changed the mind of Cobble Hill Farmers' Institute about the dog problem.

At a Monday night meeting he successfully pressed a motion withdrawing a recent letter which said sheep-worrying and killing is non-existent in the district.

The letter had been sent to Cowichan Agricultural Society which tried to enlist Cobble Hill support for a special sheep protection district.

But institute secretary John Askham said today: "The matter is not altogether settled. It has to be taken up with the directors.

"There's a difference of opinion on the subject."

Mr. Dunn said his motion was properly moved, seconded and passed.

It withdrew the earlier denial of a problem and gives support to Cowichan in asking the government to set up a special protection district.

Mr. Dunn's motion was prompted by the weekend killing of two sheep belonging to William Chornlesky of Mill Bay.

HOMEOWNER GRANT, TOO

Alberta Cities Get Bigger Slice

EDMONTON (CP)—The oil-rich Alberta government Tuesday promised bigger slices of its fiscal pie for education and municipal governments.

Premier E. C. Manning also announced plans for homeowner grants of $50 a year to relieve the burden of municipal taxation on property owners.

He said the government plans to pay larger subsidies to persons with low incomes to help them purchase medical care insurance under the province's voluntary medical care insurance plan.

And the government plans to establish a new ministry of youth.

Mr. Manning said he will announce other proposals shortly—well ahead of the spring legislature session where they will be presented for approval.

The government will scrap its present system of municipal grants and instead give the municipalities, "with no strings attached," one-third of the province's total annual revenue from oil and natural gas royalties.

ROYALTIES INCREASING

These royalties, paid to the province by oil companies after crude oil is marketed, will amount this fiscal year to about $61,500,000 and are increasing each year.

Under the present grant system the municipalities will get about $16,500,000 in the current fiscal year. Next fiscal year the new system they would get about $20,500,000.

Mr. Manning said his government plans to increase its contribution to elementary and secondary education in the province next year to almost $100,000,000 from this year's $77,000,000.

In addition to provincial contributions, education costs in Alberta are largely covered by an equalized province-wide tax assessment which this year will yield about $65,000,000.

The province will also assist cities in building freeway systems.

WELCOME FREEWAY PLAN

The mayors of Edmonton and Calgary welcomed the freeway assistance announcement. Both cities plan massive road programs — Edmonton's to cost $138,000,000.

Mr. Manning said the province will pay 75 per cent of the construction costs of approved expressways and main arterial roads and 100 per cent of the costs of highways through fringe areas within cities.

The premier said the government hopes to offer new medical care insurance packages including drugs, catastrophic medical care and hospital costs and other "para-medical" services under its voluntary medical care plan.

U.S. Official Gets 5 Years In Shooting

SAIGON (UPI)—A South Vietnamese court today sentenced U.S. aid mission official Robert Kimball to five years in prison in the fatal shooting of his boss and an attractive Vietnamese woman.

Chief Justice Nguyen Van Quy handed down the sentence after the panel of three judges had deliberated for about 30 minutes on the evidence presented during the trial which opened this morning.

Kimball had admitted the slayings.

But the court acquitted him in the slaying of Jack Ryan, 44, chief of the public safety division of the U.S. operations mission in Viet Nam.

The five-year sentence was meted out for the slaying of 27-year-old Mrs. Nguyen Thi Hai, a clerk in the mission.

Kimball told the court he shot Ryan and Mrs. Hai while "out of my mind" with jealousy last July 23. He said he tried to kill himself too, but found he had used all his bullets on his victims.

Cuban Exile Pleads Guilty To Plane Hijack Attempt

KEY WEST (AP) — High above the Florida Keys Capt. K. I. Carlile faced a decision aboard National Airlines Flight 209 from Miami to Key West: He could obey the desperate commands of an armed Cuban exile and fly the plane on to Havana, or he could gamble and attempt to overpower him.

Carlile decided to gamble, and with the help of his crew disarmed the would-be hijacker Tuesday. The plane landed at Key West at 2:09 p.m. EDT, only nine minutes late.

The exile, Luis Medina Perez, 20, who said he wanted to see his family in Cuba, was wounded and taken prisoner in the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion. He was one of 60 prisoners returned to the United States April 14, 1962.

Perez pleaded guilty Tuesday to attempted piracy of a plane—a federal offence which could carry the death penalty—and was held here in default of $25,000 bond.

The prop-jet Electra carried a crew of five and 27 passengers including Medina.

It's That Time Again, Swing Your Partner

"Swing your partner and do-si-do" rings out nearly every night of the week when Victoria's 22 square dance clubs meet.

Square dancing, which has become an increasingly popular pastime in recent years, draws couples from all age groups—pre-teen to pensioner.

They band together with imaginative names like the "Broken Spokes" or the "Hix 'n' Chix" for frequent evenings of energetic fun while whirling through new and traditional dance steps.

Local square dance groups encourage newcomers with special beginners' classes, organize teen and pre-teen groups and hold jamborees, round-ups and panel dances for experienced square dance fans.

The Victoria area has a number of top-notch callers, some married couples who call together, who often participate in several dance groups.

In addition, "name" callers from distant parts are usually brought in once or twice during the square dance season, September through mid-May.

★ ★ ★

The Cross Trail News, the monthly magazine sponsored by the local dance groups and 11 up-Island and Gulf Islands associations, features news, tips and encouragement.

It also exchanges hints with other square dance fans in Canada and the U.S. and as far away as Australia and Japan.

Beginners are still being welcomed at weekly sessions organized by callers. At these they can learn the intricacies of an "allemande left and a right left grand." Information on new dancers' classes being held in several districts is available from Ted Sparshatt, 479-3885.

Square dancing this week:

Wednesday—Rocking Squares, Colwood Hall, 8 p.m.

Friday—Broken Spokes, St. Martin's Church Hall, 8:45 p.m.

Saturday, Double D's, Royal Oak Hall, 8:45 p.m.; Hix-n-Chix, Sooke Community Hall, 8:30 p.m.; Western Whirlers, cancelled.

Victim Negligent, Says Jury

A 76-year-old man hit by a car Sept. 2 came to his death because of his own negligence, a coroner's jury ruled Tuesday night.

James Watson, 1569 Pembroke, died Oct. 17 in hospital of pneumonia, diabetes and hardening of the arteries. A pathologist testified he succumbed to the diseases after being weakened by injuries received in the traffic accident.

Mrs. Margaret Botterill, 3356 Oak, gave evidence that Mr. Watson darted out in front of her car as she drove along Pandora. She said she told some spectators not to move the body and then went to her car for a blanket.

"When I got back to him someone had turned him from his side on to his back."

Poet To Speak At College

Canadian poet Irving Layton will pay a brief visit to Victoria Thursday when he will speak at an evening meeting at the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads.

The lecture will be held at 8:30 p.m. in the cadet club opposite the swimming pool, and will be open to the public.

Mr. Layton, known as a realistic poet of the modern school, is considered anti-romantic and anti-sentimental.

His books include "Red Carpet to the Sun" and "Balls for a One-Armed Juggler." He has also edited "Love Where the Nights Are Long," an anthology of Canadian love poetry which contains some of his own verse.

He will arrive in Victoria Thursday afternoon and leave after his lecture later the same evening.

Britt Heads City Kiwanians

Stan Britt was elected president of the Victoria Kiwanis Club in election of officers Tuesday at the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Britt succeeds Wyn Sinclair.

Bill Lyle and Noel Lax were elected vice-presidents. Secretary-treasurer remains Viv Shoemaker. New directors are Gordon Murphy, Jack Price, Dick Stappels and Nels Unicume.

In other business Eric Simmons, Victoria's deputy fire chief, was introduced as a new member.

Film Takes Viewers On Tour

Victoria Natural History Society members and friends will travel "Once Around the Sun" Friday and Saturday.

Swinging through space aboard the spinning planet Earth they will make a journey of 600,000,000 miles in two hours.

The armchair journey will take place via a motion picture film of National Audubon Wildlife film series.

Commentary for the film will be presented by its producer, William Ferguson of Omaha, Nebraska.

The film starts with the stroke of midnight on New Year's Eve. Viewers will move through plains and prairies, up mountains and down coastlines, watching the gradual month-by-month change from long winter shadows to spring freshness, summer heat, autumn crispness and returning to the white cleanness of winter.

Once Around the Sun was filmed in a dozen states and portrays man's close association with the furred and feathered creatures which share his planet.

The program begins at 8 p.m. each evening.

Woman Hurt, Car Wrecked At Cutoff

COBBLE HILL—A sports car and truck collision Tuesday night sent Mrs. June Dorothy Ann Irvine of Cobble Hill to hospital with shock and bruises.

Mrs. Irvine was driving her sports car on the Trans-Canada Highway at the Cobble Hill cutoff when she was in collision with a lumber truck driven by Gary Courtright of Chase River, Nanaimo.

Her car was demolished.

Minor damage was done to the truck and Courtright was unhurt.

The accident happened about 7:30 p.m.

THE SONG OF BERNADETTE
Atlas Theatre

The heavenly voices rise to a crescendo as Bernadette, a simple peasant girl, burrows in the soft earth to discover the magical healing spring of Lourdes—and the dark figures on the screen seem touched with an ethereal glow.

By modern standards, the scene is over-theatrical, but there are moments of deep beauty in this 22-year-old film which more than justify its revival.

Veteran movie-goers will recall that The Song of Bernadette first appeared in the dark days of the war, when our emotions were strained by heroism and tragedy. In the more prosaic light of today, it doesn't have quite the same poignancy.

It is still, nevertheless, a triumph for Jennifer Jones, the Oklahoma aspirant, who won her first Academy Award as Bernadette.

Younger audiences will remember her most intimately as Miss Dove — the American schoolmarm who knew her students so much better than they knew themselves—but she has never been more appealing than in the role of the little French peasant who founded the now famous shrine of Lourdes.

The Encyclopedia Britannica records that in 1858, Bernadette Soubirous saw a vision in a grotto at Lourdes which was later "authenticated" by a commission of inquiry appointed by the Roman Catholic Bishop of Lourdes.

Subsequently, the Pope authorized the order of Our Lady of Lourdes and, ever since, thousands upon thousands of pilgrims from all over the world have visited the shrine.

The film script by George Seaton tells of the political machinations set in force by Bernadette's discovery of the healing spring. Summoned before the church authorities, Bernadette holds firmly to her story, while the attorney-general invokes laws against her.

The Mayor of Lourdes, hoping to turn the spring into a tourist enterprise, orders the grotto closed until it can be properly organized on a commercial basis. But when the ailing son of Emperor Louis Napoleon is cured by the healing waters he commands that it be re-opened to the public.

A dying infant is restored by being immersed in the spring and soon all France is agog with the wonder of a new miracle.

Gerard Teams Up With BB

MONT-LAURIER, Que. (CP)—Brigitte Bardot has demolished any federal election apathy that might have existed in Labelle riding.

Voters in places like L'Annonciation and la Conception have been turning out in droves to see the French star in a full-length color film.

The audience is assured that more will come, then Mr. Vermette speaks for about 30 minutes.

Ten more minutes of Bardot, 10 or 15 of Mr. Vermette, and the last reel is shown.

★ ★ ★

"The formula has been a smashing success," said Lucien Lacroix, Mr. Vermette's organizer, in an interview Tuesday.

The Vermette organization rented the film from a Montreal distributor, rented a camera and screen and hired an operator.

SOUND OF MURDER

Thriller Really a Comedy

By AUDREY-ST.D. JOHNSON

SOUND OF MURDER
By William Fairchild

Charles Norbury	John Drean
Anne Norbury	Vanessa Lax
Miss Forbes	Joy Richards
Peter Marriott	Lawrence Eastick
Inspector Davidson	John Martin
Constable Nash	Bud Bishop

For the best part of the evening, Tuesday, I was kept wondering why Sound of Murder should be described as a "thriller."

However, in the last act the script lived up to the category by providing a couple of electrically-charged moments. Otherwise the play was more comedy-drama with very little suspense element at all.

Probably the author did not intend it but that is how the Bastion Theatre production at McPherson Playhouse this week comes out.

Peter Mannering directs, moving his people about the stage smoothly and certainly, providing the right basic atmosphere for a thriller with good mood lighting and choice of color in the set which he designed.

Where he has failed is in using too little spur and whip to galvanize his actors into a more taut style and tempo.

Pace was so slow that at times it came close to being lethargic and the low level of energy resulted in making almost all the cast difficult to hear at times.

This factor was also responsible for the whittling away of suspense and for the fact that the contrivances of the plot became obvious, like the pattern on a too-slowly revolving top.

An outstanding performance by John Drean, however, as the sneering, gloating, vicious husband who authors Fuzzytail books for children when he isn't torturing his wife, relieved the general flatness.

A rather static performance by Vanessa Lax developed some good moments late in the play. Joy Richards was quite convincing in characterization but under-keyed vocally, and a few additional years would correct most of what was unconvincing about Larry Eastick's performance as the pardonable murderer.

Mechanics of the production were most effectively attended to by Art Hall on sound, with a good storm, realistic rain and other nice atmospheric touches.

Sound of Murder continues throughout the week with curtain at 8:30.

Actor Honored For Cancer Work

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor William Gargan has been given the $10,000 Criss Award by the Mutual of Omaha Insurance Company for work he has done with persons physically handicapped from cancer of the larynx. Gargan, treated for cancer of the larynx in 1960, has since helped more than 10,000 persons learn to speak again—as he himself had to.

'Thieves Anonymous'

ORANGE, Calif. (UPI) — "Thieves Anonymous," a junior high school club which required the stealing of $100 worth of merchandise for initiation, has been uncovered here by police. Officers reported Tuesday that the club had 22 members among students at Yorba Junior High School.

'GET ACQUAINTED' WITH PREY, MAGISTRATE ADVISES HUNTERS

He made the comment in imposing $10 fines on two Victoria men who pleaded guilty to being unlawfully in possession of four grebes.

Glen Hanson and Roy Holmen were checked by RCMP in the Sooke Harbor area. The men had the grebes which look like ducks but are protected.

Both hunters said they did not know grebes are protected.

Wage Settlement Hopes Dashed

Greater Victoria School Board Tuesday night pulled the plug on any hopes of an early settlement on a teacher salary scale.

The board's negotiator Joe Miyazawa rejected a counter-proposal by the teachers in which their demand for a 10 per cent salary increase was shaved by .05 per cent.

He asked that a conciliator be appointed by the education department after three names proposed by the teachers were found not acceptable by the board.

"In examining your proposed salary scale I could possibly jump up and down and tear my hair," Mr. Miyazawa told the teachers in rejecting their counter-offer.

Gerry Guest who is negotiating for the teachers replied that if it were more abundant he too would tear his hair over the board's offer of a less than five per cent salary increase.

There likely will be time for two conciliation meetings before the Nov. 14 deadline, but there was every indication the salary question will go to arbitration.

The teachers expressed "surprise and dismay" at the board's unwillingness to continue discussions in the negotiations stage.

"We felt we could reach some affinity here," said Mr. Guest. "We are dismayed at your premature adjournment of negotiations."

Mr. Miyazawa said because of the widely divergent proposals of the board and the teachers he could see no reason to continue discussions at this stage.

"With all the gloom and black crepe you weave about, what will happen to our pupils if the best teachers are not found—you must be a born pessimist," Mr. Miyazawa told Mr. Guest.

Earlier the teachers suggested that District 61 was not attracting the best teachers because of its salary scale.

"We should be able to choose teachers, not chase them," said Mr. Guest.

A major issue in the discussions in which no agreement can be reached is the amount to be paid to teachers as they graduate in the various professional levels.

The board is seeking to standardize the amount at $500 and the teachers, in what they said was a compromise proposal, said the amounts should range variously between $450 and $550.

'GET GOING' ON BRANCH LIBRARIES

He spoke as Greater Victoria representatives went over a new draft agreement that would reorganize library service in the Victoria district. The agreement now goes to municipal councils for approval.

"If there is no agreement, then Oak Bay will probably go ahead on its own, which council feels would be unfortunate," the reeve said.

The district should "get going" with the proposal to make branches possible; "it has been hanging fire for too many years."

He noted that ultimately library service could come under regional services administration.

A successful "partnership" of Greater Victoria municipalities to run a new library board would hinge on compatibility, Victoria solicitor T. P. O'Grady said.

EQUAL PARTNERS

He outlined terms of a draft agreement suggested for implementation Feb. 1, 1966, making Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt equal partners in provision of library services.

Mr. O'Grady said disagreement by one of the partners with policies of the joint board could result in disintegration of the system.

The instrument of force would be the board's annual budget, from which one area could opt out by refusing to put up its share, the solicitor told intermunicipal representatives.

After a "cooling off period" it might rejoin, but if there were no reconciliation that area would have to provide its own library services in future, Mr. O'Grady said.

The subcommittee chaired by Mayor R. B. Wilson voted to invite Central Saanich membership under the proposed system.

Victoria would have seven members on the board, Saanich would have four, Oak Bay and Esquimalt two each and Central Saanich likely would have one member.

PER CAPITA

Cost-sharing would be on a per capita basis rather than the book usage formula now in effect.

This amount probably would be about $3, Reeve Cox suggested. Under the proposed agreement, a $3.50 per capita ceiling would be put on "membership dues."

Colquitz 'A Pig Sty:' Prisoner

A prisoner re-captured after being several hours away from Colquitz jail Oct. 14 told police who arrested him that the prison "is a pig sty and the warden is a pig."

Michael Connolly made the remark to Detective-Sergeant Robin Stewart, according to Constable Fred Broderson.

Cons. Broderson was testifying at preliminary hearing Tuesday into a charge against Connolly of escaping lawful custody. The hearing was adjourned to Nov. 5.

Cons. Broderson said Connolly talked with Det.-Sgt. Stewart in a Saanich detective car after his re-capture. Saanich police dogmaster, Constable Jim White, said his dog picked up Connolly's scent and flushed him out from where he was hiding in dense bush near Ivor Road.

Evidence was heard that Connolly disappeared from custody while out in the fields working with a party in a potato patch.

St. Ann's May Face Big Tax Bill

Property taxes on St. Ann's Academy would jump next year from nothing to $4,000 if a new exemption formula is applied by Victoria city council finance committee was told Tuesday.

Three other Victoria private schools would also be adversely affected by the proposal now under study by the committee.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said the "crux of the matter" rests with whether resident student dormitories should be exempted from taxation.

Under terms of the new formula's application to private school holdings, dormitories, staff living quarters, garages and outbuildings are taxable.

As with churches, actual school buildings, eating facilities, the land on which they stand and playground or parking areas (based on seating capacity or enrolments) are exempted from taxes.

VEXING PROBLEM

"It is a vexing problem whether the general public should be subsidizing the living quarters in private schools," city manager Dennis Young said.

Mr. Young said it is entirely up to council to decide whether it should grant more exemption to private schools than it would to public schools. He said Mr. O'Grady was likely to confirm this.

"I can appreciate the manager's anxiety at getting this matter through, but we must be sure we do the right thing," Mayor Wilson said.

The necessary bylaw to implement exemptions has to be passed by Nov. 30.

Norfolk House School, Richmond Road, would be charged about $1,276 more than the portion it now pays.

St. Margaret's, Fort Street, would pay about $1,000 more, and St. Patrick's, Trent Street, mostly lying in Saanich, would pay about $600 to the city.

On two other private schools the tax exemption would increase and on two others there would be little change.

Counsel Joseph McKenna, on behalf of St. Ann's, wrote asking for exemption allowances on bike racks, road access, non-teaching staff accommodation, an orchard and an easement for storm and sewer lines through the middle of the property.

HOSPITALS EXEMPT

Hospital lands and improvements almost entirely exempt from taxes, except where some non-hospital use were involved.

At Royal Jubilee Hospital, for example, the committee was told exemption applies to the nurses' residence.

"Dormitories again," Ald. Michael Griffin observed. "We're not being consistent. Mind you, I don't oppose exemption of the nurses' residence."

Another meeting was to be set to reconsider implications of the proposed system.

BIBLE OFFICIAL

Church A Failure, Says Cleric

The Christian church has failed to move with the times, says Rev. Dr. Kenneth McMillan, general secretary of the Canadian Bible Society.

"It is geared to an age which is long past," he told Victoria Gyro Club at a luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel Monday.

Visiting here from Toronto, Dr. McMillan listed facts which, he said, point to the church's failure in the modern world:

- A population equal to that of Greater Victoria is born every morning.
- This is a world in which history may end at any moment. The church offers little comfort to a world confronted with nuclear annihilation.
- In many of the emerging nations, the Christian church is being systematically crushed.

Dr. McMillan said the Canadian Bible Society, with other groups, is now translating the Bible into 500 languages.

"The circulation of the Christian gospel will help revive the weakening influence of the church in many predominantly non-Christian areas of the world," he said.

"This will have a significant effect, even if many people exposed to the Bible do not become Christians."

Langford Youngsters Risk Being Charged

Fire Chief Allan LeQuesne said his men were out twice Monday on firecracker complaints. A tree was set afire on Goldstream and two old cars were set on fire on Knotty Pine Road.

PASSENGER DOES BETTER JOB OF WATCHING ROAD

Arms Waving Wildly, Yacking Driver Menace on Road

Indianapolis veteran Bob Harkey this week is talking traffic safety to city high school students. His visit here is sponsored by the Times and the Champion Spark Plug Co.

By BOB HARKEY
(Third of a series)

What motorist, passenger or driver, hasn't been exposed to the driver who believes in lively conversation while driving.

Harkey

Two-way conversation can be a great help in keeping mentally alert during highway driving, but the person who dominates the conversation and waves his arms wildly to make his point can be the most annoying and distracting driver of all.

The best (actually the worst) place to watch this highway performer go through his act is from the driver's seat of the following car. From this vantage point, you can almost feel the excitement of the one-sided conversation going on in front of you.

Have you ever noticed that the listening passenger in such a situation seems to be doing a much better job of watching the road than the yaking driver? It's a sad circumstance, but it's too often true.

If you have ever been trapped behind such a gabby and gesticulating driver, and I'm sure you have been, you probably find yourself getting more nervous as the arm-waving-pace increases. I know it irritates me no end.

There's no doubt about it, the careless and gabby driver is a threat and an annoyance on the highway. He's distracting to say the last. He's the kind of guy who seems to think the mere flashing of a turn signal is his only responsibility in changing lanes.

He never checks rear view or side view mirrors for a possible overtaking car before changing lanes, thus he wrongfully places all responsibility for avoiding a collision on the following car.

He's also the driver who often travels miles with a turn signal flashing because he's so busy talking that he can't hear the turn signal indicator as it clicks merrily along after the turn he made "way back there" was not sharp enough to actuate the automatic cancelling device.

A driver of this sort has no place on a high-speed highway. I can assure you he would have no place at the Indianapolis "500." Arm signals mean something at the "500," and they are reserved for use accordingly. Furthermore, it takes two hands to steer a fast-moving car properly. If one hand is reserved for waving home a point of conversation, the other hand must do double duty.

No matter how you suffer through it, as a passenger in the same car or as the driver of the following car, the fellow who puts conversation above careful driving is waving goodbye to safety for all concerned.

WALLACEBURG, Ont. — Prime Minister Lester Pearson was cheered all along the way Tuesday as he carried the Liberal banner of prosperity into Southwestern Ontario.

He drew big crowds and good responses in a hectic 16-hour campaign day—one of his busiest of the election—in predominantly Tory country.

Pearson tied his plea for a majority Liberal government to the continuation and expansion of Canada's current prosperity.

He was in good form and clicked at three speaking engagements during the day, particularly at a night rally in Wallaceburg, a largely rural area about 50 miles north of Windsor.

The meeting drew an enthusiastic, Maple Leaf-flag waving capacity crowd of more than 1,400.

Pearson praised the achievements of the Canada-U.S. auto pact—which he said the Tories no longer criticize because of increased production and jobs and lower prices—and fanned speculation of impending major industrial announcements in this part of Ontario.

EXCITING NEWS

The prime minister said some pretty exciting happenings are due in the near future because of the pact.

There are strong rumors that one of the big three manufacturers is planning a $75 million plant near London.

But he also drew rounds of applause as he touched on a wide range of topics—nationalism, unity, agricultural policies, industrial expansion, and the need for more trade.

And he even got a kiss on the cheek from pretty 18-year-old Frances Deshaw, who took the opportunity after giving Mrs. Pearson flowers.

30 RIDINGS

Pearson's reception raised high hopes of Liberal organizers that they can cut into Tory strength n the area. There are 30 ridings in the region west of Toronto bounded by Lake Erie and Lake Huron, and the split in the last election was Conservatives 20, Liberals 10.

The prime minister drew 600 people to a stand-up, lunch-time speech in London, and then visited Sarnia.

Wallaceburg is in Lambton-Kent riding, won by the Tories by a slim 24-vote margin in 1963, and the Liberals are hopeful that Jack Beatty can win it this time.

KEY FACTOR

Pearson was greeted outside Wallaceburg high school by a

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Quebec Bureau Staff Writer

QUEBEC CITY—An enthusiastic crowd of about 1,100 Tuesday night applauded Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker's "appeal to the heart of Quebec" in its ancient capital.

The crowd, larger by about 200 than the one drawn by Prime Minister Pearson when he spoke here two weeks ago, twice gave Mr. Diefenbaker the traditional French-Canadian salute: A chorus of "Il a Gagne ses Epaulettes."

"I have always fought for the constitutional rights of the minority," the Conservative leader said. "I fight now for unity based on equality."

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke in French for 15 minutes from a prepared text and then switched to English for the benefit "of those who are not completely bilingual."

WORKING-CLASS DISTRICT

"They said I didn't dare to come into this province," Mr. Diefenbaker told the audience in Durocher Centre in a working-class district of Quebec. "I was to be welcomed as the pestilence.

"There was none of that."

Mr. Diefenbaker cited, as among the services done French Canada by his government:

- Simultaneous translation in the House of Commons;
- Appointment of the first French-speaking governor-general;
- Appointment of outstanding French-speaking Canadians to senior posts in the public service.

He said that these steps had met opposition but he took them because "they were right."

'DEAD AS A DODO'

The Conservative leader said that thanks to him the Fulton-Favreau formula for amending the constitution was "dead as a dodo."

He said that under the formula the French-speaking citizens of Canada would never have been able to improve their position and increase their

500 UVIC STUDENTS LINING UP FOR MARCH

More than 500 University of Victoria students were forming-up at press time for a march through downtown streets to protest the cost of higher education.

N.S. Demonstrators Ask for More Aid

HALIFAX (CP)—An orderly crowd of more than 1,000 students representing six Nova Scotia universities marched on the legislative buildings today with a seven-page brief asking more government aid to higher education.

They were met on the steps by Finance Minister G. I. Smith and Attorney-General Richard A. Donahoe, representing Premier and Education Minister Stanfield, as well as Liberal Leader Gerald A. Regan and Acting New Democratic Party Leader J. H. Aitchison.

Key recommendations called for increased federal and provincial financial aid, including increased per capita grants to $5 from the current $2, more assistance in the form of scholarships and bursaries and "a corresponding, immediate reduction of fees."

The brief also asked for a federal-provincial conference on higher education immediately after the Nov. 8 federal election "to delineate federal-provincial responsibilities in higher education."

Finance Minister Smith told the students, "We'd be delighted to attend if it can be arranged."

Service Retirements Hit By Dief

FREDERICTON, N.B. (UPI) — Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker said today that if elected his party will discontinue the current forced retirements in the armed forces and give a bonus to servicemen who re-enlist.

Diefenbaker was commenting here on a letter sent to the forces by Lester B. Pearson, in which the prime minister set out Liberal achievements.

Diefenbaker said that instead of boasting, the Liberal government should be doing something to raise the morale of the forces now "at its lowest level in history."

"We intend to do away with the rule of forced retirement," said Diefenbaker. "Those who have retired should be given the opportunity to re-enlist."

Highway Workers Killed In Canyon

BOSTON BAR (CP) — The men were killed and two injured today when a platform on which they were standing while they worked on a highway rock face collapsed.

Police said the platform was being held up by a crane. The crane collapsed and the platform followed it.

Brazil President Grabs New Powers

Decree Abolishes Political Parties

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Balked by Congress, the Brazilian government abolished all political parties today and gave military courts sweeping new powers.

Under a new Institutional Act superseding portions of the constitution, President Humberto Castello Branco has power to declare a state of siege and to rule by decree for up to 180 days and grant military courts jurisdiction over cases heretofore limited to the supreme court.

Castello Branco came out of the army leadership in April, 1964, to take over the government after the military overthrew leftist Joao Goulart as president.

The president is empowered to close Congress during the state of siege and purge public officials elected or appointed at all levels — federal, state and municipal.

Despite the abolition of political parties and their membership registries, the present congress remains open.

SPOKE ON TV

In a brief address on television before the new act was read by an aide, Castello Branco said the step was necessary because "we need tranquillity for the nation's economic development."

Castello Branco said the revolutionary regime in power since Goulart's overthrow faces danger from supporters of the deposed president who "threaten and dare revolutionary action."

"Revolution is alive and does not retreat."

The other measures in the new act include expansion of the supreme court to 16 members from 11 and indirect election of the next president by Congress.

The document said the president would decide the date for the next presidential election, which must be held no later than Oct. 3, 1966.

The announcement followed a week of political tension climaxed by marathon congressional sessions Tuesday night debating government - backed constitutional changes.

SUPPORTED GOULART

Resistance revolved around the Social Democratic party and the Brazilian Labor party, both strong supporters of Goulart.

One provision of the new act says future constitutional amendments proposed by the government will go into effect automatieally if they are not acted upon by congress within 30 days of their submission.

Kubitschek, whose return from self-exile Oct. 4 helped precipitate the crisis, is under medical care, reported suffering from high blood pressure after nearly two weeks of questioning by military inquiry boards. The boards are investigating charges of corruption and Communist infiltration during his regime.

Kubitschek's home coming after the success of his party in state elections the day before caused members of the government and armed forces to demand tighter control over national security.

AFFECTS KUBITSCHEK

One feature of the act abolishes the supreme court as the privileged forum for trials of former presidents. This affects Kubitschek if his case is brought to trial.

The Social Democrats were reported to have offered the government a deal during the weekend to support constitutional amendments if the administration promised to maintain the supreme court as a forum for Kubitschek. The deal was rejected.

The proposal to increase the court's membership was backed by the military. Most judges are holdovers from the Kubitschek and Goulart regimes and are not considered sympathetic to Castello Branco's revolution.

CREW SAFE
Freighter Ripped By Rocks

Injured Seamen Rescued By 'Copter

By JIM HUME

A gale-battered Sudbury II sailed into Adak Harbor late Tuesday night several hours after the freighter she was going to help slammed ashore on the barren coast of Great Sitkin Island.

For 2,500 gale-tossed miles the Sudbury had driven north to take in tow the propellerless Greek ship Ekaterini G.

But early Tuesday morning (7:30 Alaska time, 11:30 a.m. here) the tow cable, which a United States navy tug got aboard the vessel eight days before, snapped in a 70-mile-an-hour gale and rising seas off Great Sitkin.

Before another line could be fired the wind and sea had rammed the Ekaterini G. high on the rocks ripping her hull from bow to midships.

WAVES BATTER SHIP

Half of the 40-man crew was ordered to abandon ship as crashing waves battered the stricken ship and threatened to grind her to pieces on the rocks.

They scrambled ashore taking with them two injured crew members, one with a broken neck and the other with undetermined injuries, to huddle around driftwood fires until aid came.

In an exclusive telephone interview this morning Captain J. W. Bartol, officer commanding the United States navy base at Adak a few miles away, filled in the details for The Times.

INJURED RESCUED

He told the story of two young navy pilots, Lieut.-Commander Joseph Kneily and Lieut. (JG) Robert Hamel, who flew helicopters in the teeth of treacherously gusting 50-mile-an-hour winds and driving rain to pluck the two injured men from the gale-swept barren island.

"It was pretty rough flying weather with driving rain showers and winds steady at 45 but gusting to 50 and more," Capt. Bartol said.

Cong Invade, Blast Two U.S. Bases

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (Thursday) (UPI) — Viet Cong commandos slipped into two major U.S. Marine Corps air bases today in simultaneous midnight attacks 60 miles apart. The infiltrators blasted the bases with hand grenades and mortar fire.

A U.S. military spokesman said the guerrillas destroyed a number of planes at the Chu Lai air strip for jet fighters and a number of helicopters at the Marine air installation just east of Da Nang.

Africans Herded By Dogs

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Police today used snarling and biting dogs to control excited crowds of Negroes who gathered in the centre of Salisbury while British Prime Minister Wilson met an African nationalist leader.

Newspaper men saw a Negro policeman with a vicious-looking black dog give the animal a free leash to jump at groups of persons who refused to move on.

The scenes took place as Wilson, who flew to Salisbury Monday in a last-ditch bid to keep this self-governing white-ruled British colony from seizing independence, met with restricted nationalist leader Joshua Nkomo.

The arrest for incitement of a colored (mixed race) family—a middle-aged man, his wife and teen - age son — nearly sparked a full-scale riot.

PUSHED INTO WAGON

They were pushed into a paddy wagon shouting: "Give us back our country, we kill you all if you don't!"

Reporters saw at least four persons arrested and several others mauled by dogs as police dispersed the crowd of several hundred Africans outside Government House.

Some of the demonstrators held crudely-painted signs with slogans including "Africans must rule now," "We want our country—take away (Prime Minister Ian) Smith now and suspend the constitution" and "Wilson: One man, one vote in Zimbabwe (Rhodesia)."

About half the police handling the crowd were white and half Negroes.

Half an hour later only a few persons remained in the area of Government House and police guarded approach roads over a diameter of about a quarter of a mile to prevent a recurrence of the demonstrations.

Bomb Blasts Home of MP

SMETHWICK (Reuters) — An explosion early today that wrecked the hall in the home of Smethwick's controversial MP, Peter Griffiths, was caused by a time bomb, police said.

Griffiths, 37-year-old Conservative member, took the seat last year by defeating former foreign secretary Patrick Gordon Walker in a campaign marked by racial issues. This industrial town has a large Negro and Asian population.

Love-Struck Charles Sent Into Exile?

PARIS (Reuters) — The weekly newspaper France Dimanche says Prince Charles is being exiled to school in Australia because he has fallen in love with a Scottish farmer's daughter.

The paper, which specializes in sensational stories about persons in high society, says the 17-year-old British prince met the girl, Juliette, in a cafe at Elgin, near his school at Gordonstoun in Northern Scotland.

(In London, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said today: "The prince is going to Australia to study in the normal course of his education and for no other reason.")

It was officially announced earlier this month that Charles would become a pupil for 3½ months at Geelong grammar school, one of Australia's leading academies.

AMERICANS EYEING CHURCHILL MANSION

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill's famous London home, 28 Hyde Park Gate, will be sold at auction here Thursday.

The buyer could be an American. "There have been many inquiries from potential American buyers and we expect them here in force," said an official of the auctions—Knight, Frank and Rutley.

The house—really two houses, because it includes No. 27 Hyde Park Gate next door—is expected to bring between £80,000 and £100,000 ($240,000 to $300,000).

The auctioneers have imposed no condition of sale concerning the use of the house or who buys it. But a move is under way to have it declared an historic building. It then could not be moved or substantially altered without official approval.

MOST AFFLUENT COUNTRY BRITISH SURVEYS SHOW

'World Champion in High Living'—That's Canada

LONDON (CP) — Canada is the Western world's most affluent country and enjoys a moderate cost of living compared with other industrial nations, two British newspaper surveys indicate.

A "table of affluence" published today by The Daily Express rates Canada "the world champion in high living." The rating is based on a system that relates good living to the percentage of households possessing central heating, refrigerators, cars, telephones, washing machines and television.

A Financial Times survey on the cost of living in 23 major world cities, also published today, shows Montreal is a place of moderate costs compared with Tokyo, New York, Paris and London.

The international affluence table in The Express, based on statistics from eight countries, shows Canada top in all six categories—75 per cent of Canadian homes with central heating, 96 per cent with refrigerators, 75 per cent with cars, 89 per cent telephones, 86 per cent washing machines and 93 per cent television.

The United States is second to Canada in all categories but central heating, where Sweden is second. Other countries in the survey are Britain, Italy, France, West Germany and Switzerland.

Britain ranks third in possession of television sets and washing machines, fifth in telephones and seventh in central heatnig, refrigerators and cars.

Italy ranks last of the eight countries in all but the television and washing machines categories, where France is bottom of the league.

The Financial Times table, an annual survey designed as a "rough guide" for British businessmen travelling or posted abroad, compares prices for set commodities and services.

It compares the monthly rent for three-room furnished apartment; the cost of a designated shopping list of groceries; the price of a top-rated hotel room; the bill for an evening of specified activities on the town; the price of a designated man's wardrobe, and the bill for a week's service — a charwoman for 20 hours, the weekly laundry and dry - cleaning one suit.

Of eight directly comparable items, the cost in Montreal is in the lower half of the 23-city table for all but clothing and service.

Only Paris and Brussels price a normal weight lounge suit, good - quality shoes and shirt higher than the $126 listed for Montreal, London and New York. The weekly bill for charwoman and laundry service in Montreal is given as $33, with only New York and Stockholm more expensive.

In the key categories of rent, food and clothing, the most expensive cities are Tokyo, Paris, New York, Mexico City, Stockholm, Rome, Helsinki and London. Comparable figures for Montreal are about one-third of Tokyo's cost rating and two-thirds of London's.

A night on the town for four persons — pre-dinner drinks, orchestra theatre sets, dinner at a fashionable restaurant, champagne at a night club and 15 miles in a taxi—is less expensive in Montreal at $81 than in almost any other major city, the survey indicates.

A similar night out in Tokyo would cost $270, in New York $255, in Paris $215 and in London $150, the survey shows.

Students here are purty orderly. Some places, they hurry t' clashes instead o' classes.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1965—PAGE 13

Arthur Mayse

What the devil are the blue stockings trying to do to this generation of children . . . scare them to death?

The firecracker, executed by Greater Victoria's moguls, was scare cold before in charged the National Safety League from Ottawa with a frontal attack on the Halloween mask.

Dangerous, was the solemn verdict. Masks obscure the child's vision, and should be replaced by makeup.

I have every respect for the safety league spokesmen when they talk sense; but this, I suggest is arrant twaddle. It be based on imagination rather than firm evidence, and deserves no attention beyond a short of derisive laughter.

Why not go whole hog and take the broomsticks away from junior witches for fear they may trip over them? And how about the pirates with the wooden swords?

We have gone a long way toward removing the authentic hazards from Halloween. The community celebrations with their supervised bonfires and fireworks shoots have done much to tame what used to be a busy night for the firemen and the police.

Now, I think it's high time the folk who have forgotten they ever were young quit their whittling at this and at least one other of childhood's festivals.

Except for a few mumblings about the harm done to little teeth by chocolate bunnies and such, I don't recall that they've yet infiltrated Easter.

However, they are working on the kids' summer vacation—much too long—and their big push of the year is only a couple of months distant.

This is aimed at Christmas. It is then that the blue stocking brigade gets in its most vigorous licks.

Toys, they insist, should be educational. If you wish to get them fighting mad, hint that war toys can be a source of harmless fun to the male child.

Once in this corner, I stated that viewpoint, and became the target for a salvo of harsh letters and phone calls. One irate gun-hater, I remember, even suggested that I like to wear a trenchcoat because it reminds me of blood.

There is, I suppose, a use for such earnest, humorless people, if only to serve as skeletons at the feast for those who take life lightly.

But I think they can be more dangerous to the child's well-being than the bogeys they persist in seeing behind every bush.

There are, of course, big black dangers of which the youngster should be reminded over and over again.

Of these, traffic is the worst, and we could guard him from it better than we do. The bicycle safety campaign, a life-saver while it was being pressed, is badly in need of reviving.

We have a wicked crosswalk situation; not at the patrolled crossings but at the more distant ones, where twice each day, kids in two and threes and little groups wait hopefully for the driver in the passing stream who will take pity on them and give them a break.

Protect them we must—but where does protection end and stupid curtailment of freedom begin?

The plain fact is that for every trifling, inconsequential risk we insist on removing from the human path, we are likely to add a worse one. Crackers, for instance, are much less lethal than basement-concocted bombs.

Moreover, an accident looking for a victim has a way of landing on the over-protected. The boy who was never allowed to sample the coves in a rowboat may find himself afloat some later day, with trouble blowing up, and no seamanship to avert it.

But it's time we got back to Halloween, which has been pegged by everyone with any say in the matter for Saturday night, not Sunday.

We don't want it dangerous . . . but I hope for the kids' sake, it remains just the least bit scary!

Service Building Open Soon

The latest completed addition to the University of Victoria scene is a $326,000 campus services building.

The building, to be officially opened a week from Saturday, is located west of Finnerty Road opposite the Student's Union Building.

It will house a bank, a beauty salon, a barbershop, a drugstore, bookstore and clothing shop.

Each of these buildings will cost over $2,000,000 unfurnished.

Underground services to connect the buildings will cost more than $300,000 and a ring road which will circle the centre of the university will cost $160,000.

University developers are now making plans for buildings to accommodate about 10,000 students by 1980. Present population is 3,000 and rising by about 500 each year.

High-Rise Rerun For Cadboro Bay

By ROGER STONEBANKS

An application for a change of zoning to allow for high-rises has been made to Saanich by Sherwood Oaks Estates and Bay Meadows Estates.

The applicants want a change of zoning from residential to "high-rise apartments and cluster-type apartments" on a 13-acre property at the edge of the University of Victoria's Gordon Head campus.

CLOSE VOTE

Two years ago, council defeated in a close vote a similar application for high-rise development on Haro Road.

At that time, the Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association was vocal in its opposition.

The application was also opposed by those who felt the university might want to acquire the land in the future for expansion.

The latest application now is in the hands of the municipal planning department.

From there, it can go either directly to council or—more likely—to the Advisory Planning Commission, which makes recommendations to area councils.

PUBLIC HEARING

Council can then make a decision, or more likely refer it to a public hearing.

Reeve Hugh Curtis said this morning there is "no doubt" any new application "will be in for a very rough ride."

"I have not sensed any change in the attitude on the part of property owners in the university, Cadboro Bay and Ten Mile Point area."

Prairie Man To Head Prosecutors

The move was confirmed today by Mayor R. B. Wilson, who said city council would ratify the appointment Thursday. Other local councils were expected to make similar endorsement.

THREE MEN

Tse new head will be senior to what is planned to be a three-man corps of prosecutors. Other appointments are expected to be made shortly.

"We feel very fortunate in getting a man of his calibre to head up the prosecuting department," Mayor Wilson said.

The mayor said qualifications for the senior job were special.

Long-Time Resident Dies; Funeral Friday

Mrs. Helen Anderson Handasyde, a resident of Victoria for 54 years, died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Tuesday at the age of 70.

Born in Alexandria, Scotland, Mrs. Handasyde was the widow of Thomas Handasyde, formerly of 1234 Dallas Road.

Prior to a lengthy illness, she was secretary to the board of stewards at Fairfield United Church, a member of the Carne Rebekah Lodge No. 45 and the Women's Canadian Club of Victoria.

Mrs. Handasyde is survived by her son, Jack S. Phillion, 10 Phillion Place, Victoria; two sisters, Mrs. B. Acreman, Victoria, and Mrs. George Nuttall, Pittsfield, Mass.; four brothers, Alec and Thomas Stevenson, Victoria; Robert Stevenson, Peoria, Ill.; and David Stevenson, Patterson, New Jersey, and a grandson, John S. Phillion, Victoria.

Rev. H. W. Kerley, D.D., minister of Fairfield United Church, will conduct funeral services in McCall Brothers' main chapel Friday at 3 p.m.

Interment will follow in Royal Oak Burial Park.

'Vindicated' Says Gaglardi As Toll Drops

A dramatic across-the-board decrease in all traffic accident statistics for September was hailed today by Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi as proof of his contention that liquor and not speed is the main cause of road deaths and injuries.

Motor Vehicle Superintendent Ray Hadfield, who issued the monthly count this morning, did not go that far but admitted the reductions "may be more than just a passing co-incidence" with the beer parlor closures that began after the first week of September.

He also said he will investigate the possibility of making a day-by-day analysis of the September-October figures, when they are available next month, to see if there is a firm co-relation between the days the beer parlors were closed by the recently-settled brewery strike and lower accident rates.

334 FEWER

Total number of accidents drop by 334 (10 per cent) to 2,860;

Fatal accidents drop by two (6 per cent) to a total of 30 killing 11 fewer (26 per cent) with a total of 31 deaths;

Injury accidents drop by 66 (7 per cent) to a total of 889 resulting in fewer persons injured (6 per cent) at the new level of 1,364 injured;

Property damage drop by $75,666 (4 per cent) to a total of $1,692,692.

Mr. Gaglardi, who has fought a running feud with the Motor Vehicle Branch for years over the main cause of the mounting highway toll, was contacted in Vancouver.

'PROOF'

"This goes to prove exactly what I have been saying," he claimed.

"We not only had smaller statistics in all categories during the beer strike, but last Saturday when the beer parlors reopened all heck broke loose again with accidents, killings and everything else under the sun increasing again.

"I think it is significant that this accident reduction came while people could still drink (liquor and wine) and were barred only from the beer parlors.

Mr. Gaglardi said the monthly report made it clear "what can be done if the people really want to curb the accident rate.

"These figures go to show that what the others have been saying (about higher speed limits) is not right and that my arguments and statistics against liquor are borne out and I have been vindicated."

Mr. Hadfield said that there had been reductions in some categories of accident statistics over the past few months but it had been a long time since there was a reduction in all categories the same month.

WILL IT CONTINUE?

He said it was still too early to say that the September figures were seriously affected by the beer parlor closure "and the proof is whether it will continue" only over the next month or whether the trend will span a longer period.

He pointed out that there has been a downward trend overall during this year because the number of accidents had increased only 3 per cent between January and September while the number of driver and motor vehicle registrations had increased 1 per cent.

"This is a joyful tread," which may be due to heightened public consciousness of traffic hazards as a result of repeated publicity, said.

Parents Protest Wild Shooting

Stray Shot Wounds Ladysmith Student

By TERRY IZZARD

Ladysmith high school students live in daily fear of being shot.

The youngster, of 565 High Street, was still off school today.

Said his mother, Mrs. Pat Miller: "It could just as easily have been his face.

"It's time something was done to control shooting in the area. Someone's likely to get killed."

MURAY GAW

But Mrs. Miller, mother of three, said shots can be heard in the bushes outside their home most nights.

"There have been cases of shooting during the day as well. It's just lucky no one has been hit before now."

Neighbor Mrs. Jessie Lambertson came close to being shot herself.

NEAR MISS

She said: "I was hanging out the washing in the back yard when this bullet suddenly thunked into the ground right by my foot."

Mrs. Lambertson didn't wait to see who was doing the shooting. She scuttled indoors.

Ladysmith RCMP are investigating the shooting of the Miller boy.

Hunting is not allowed in the area around the school which is only six blocks from the Trans-Canada Highway.

Said mother of five Mrs. Iris Temple of Fourth Avenue: "It isn't safe to let the kiddies out in the bushes."

Her order includes the area behind the house.

"If the children want to play they have to go across to the playground.

"It's the only place I can keep an eye on them," she said.

.22 RIFLES

Mrs. Temple said she has seen youngsters with .22 rifles shooting on the railroad tracks only 300 yards away.

"Young children shouldn't be allowed to have such lethal weapons," she said. "Maybe after this incident parents will take them away."

Her son John, 13, will be attending high school next year.

She said: "I think it's awful. The end of the school playground is right near the bushes. Just one careless shot and a youngster could be killed."

Asked why residents hadn't done anything about the shooting, Mrs. Lambertson said they were afraid.

BEATEN UP

She said there had been cases of children being "beaten up" in the past after parents "squealed" to the police.

"These youngsters have their own code. If you squeal to the police they get their own back."

City Man Appointed As Parole Board Expands Services

An expanding jail population on Vancouver Island has caused an expansion of the federal parole service to Victoria.

The new region has been placed under authority of a man experienced in similar work in the Victoria area, Murray B. Gaw, executive director of the John Howard Society here for the past six years.

Announcement of the expansion of the federal service and Mr. Gaw's appointment was made today at Ottawa by T. G. Street, chairman of the National Parole Board.

Mr. Gaw said in an interview today that his new duties commence Monday in offices in the Belmont Building.

He explained that the National Parole Board maintains 12 regional offices in larger cities across Canada. He said a Vancouver Island office is a natural outgrowth of expansion of federal and provincial prison facilities on the Island in recent years.

These include the provincial jail on Wilkinson Road, the William Head minimum security and two forest camps near Campbell River, Snowdon and Lakeview.

Parole, the completion of a sentence while living in a community rather than in jail, is largely the responsibility of the federal service. Only those prisoners serving the "indefinite" portion of a jail term fall within jurisdiction of the five-man provincial parole board.

ASSESS PROSPECTS

Mr. Gaw's duties will involve interviewing inmates of Vancouver Island to assess their prospects for rehabilitation.

He will arrange community investigations on home conditions and employment prospects and supervise the reporting procedures for parolees. Mr. Gaw will also issue warrants when a parolee violates his parole and must be returned to jail.

"In Canada only 12 per cent of those on parole fall into this category," he said.

He said all inmates become eligible for parole when they have served one-third of their sentence. A person sentenced to life on a non-capital murder charge is eligible after seven years.

OPPOSITION

Mr. Gaw said there is opposition to parole by some police authorities.

"But this opposition will melt away as more confidence is built in intelligent, realistic supervision (by parole authorities)." He said there is a good parole organization on the island, much of the supervision being done by trained people within the John Howard Society and the Salvation Army.

Mr. Gaw is a graduate of the University of Toronto School of Social Work. A wide background in this field he had experience as a prison guard in two Ontario institutions.

He is 38, married and has five children. He lives in Saanichton where he serves as a school trustee.

SUNSATIONAL!

Hottest Oct. 26 On Record

No-one's complaining.

But October's not as hot as it seems.

Despite clear blue skies and above-average temperatures the past week, the month doesn't make such good reading on paper.

With the exception of Tuesday, which was the hottest Oct. 26 on record—65 degrees as opposed to 63 degrees in 1914—everything's around average.

CAN'T COMPARE

While rainfall is down—1.40 inches as opposed to the average 2.29—it cannot compare with Oct., 1964, which notched up only 1.10 inches during the entire month.

Tuesday's 65 was the highest of the month. On Oct. 7 last year it climbed to 71.7.

NO HOPE

Any hopes of equaling last year seem to be out.

ARCTIC TEAM ENDS TRAINING

Take a Gander at 'Snow Goose'

Twenty-six weeks of training ended today for six young men from Canada's Arctic when they launched the 21-foot open boat they built from the keel up.

The craft was launched from C Jetty at HMCS Dockyard. Its 80 h.p. Gray marine engine turned over for the first time and the young builders liked what they saw.

They range in age from 19 to 23.

They came to the naval base in May under the sponsorship of the Northern Affairs Department.

For all of them it was their first contact with civilization.

The start of their course began with boatbuilding theory, blue-print reading and use of hand and power tools. Construction of the craft—similar to those used on northern waterways—began in mid-July.

'SNOW GOOSE'

The boat was constructed in the boatshop of HMCS Naden's Fleet School. It is named Kanguq which is Eskimo for snow goose.

During their stay here, the young men became Pacific Command sailors, living in the Naden barracks block, eating their meals there and wearing naval uniforms while on the job.

Arrangements were being made today to have the craft taken to Inuvik, N.W.T., where it will be used as a work boat.

Vessel Grounds In Aleutians

By JIM HUME

A gale-battered Sudbury II sailed into Adak Harbor late Tuesday night several hours after the freighter she was going to help slammed ashore on the barren coast of Great Sitkin Island.

For 2,500 gale-tossed miles the Sudbury had driven north to take in tow the propellerless Greek ship Ekaterini G.

But early Tuesday morning (7:30 Alaska time, 11:30 a.m. here) the tow cable, which a United States navy tug got aboard the vessel eight days before, snapped in a 70-mile-an-hour gale and rising seas off Great Sitkin.

Before another line could be fired the wind and sea had rammed the Ekaterini G. high on the rocks ripping her hull from bow to midships.

WAVES BATTER SHIP

Half of the 40-man crew was ordered to abandon ship as crashing waves battered the stricken ship and threatened to grind her to pieces on the rocks.

They scrambled ashore taking with them two injured crew members, one with a broken neck and the other with undetermined injuries, to huddle around driftwood fires until aid came.

In an exclusive telephone interview this morning Captain J. W. Bartol, officer commanding the United States navy base at Adak a few miles away, filled in the details for The Times.

INJURED RESCUED

He told the story of two young navy pilots, Lieut.-Commander Joseph Kneily and Lieut. (JG) Robert Hamel, who flew helicopters in the teeth of treacherously gusting 50-mile-an-hour winds and driving rain to pluck the two injured men from the gale-swept barren island.

"It was pretty rough flying weather with driving rain showers and winds steady at 45 but gusting to 50 and more," Capt. Bartol said.

City Man Victim In Mishap

Victoria engineering inspector Herbert Penny and one other man plunged to their deaths in the Fraser Canyon today.

Mr. Penny, 45, of 5 Woodville, was inspecting work on a rock-strengthening site high up on the canyon wall when the platform on which he was standing collapsed.

He and three other men were thrown into the bottom of the canyon near Boston Bar.

Also killed was Dr. S. Vedat Aytaman, of Kingston, Ont., a fellow consulting engineer.

Injured were Paul Visticen, 29, of Hope, B.C., and George Bourbon, 42, of Chilliwack. Mr. Visticen is in critical condition. Mr. Bourbon suffered minor injuries. The men plunged 85 feet.

Mr. Penny, an employee of the provincial highways department in Victoria since July, was on his first day on the job.

A former Edmonton man, he leaves a wife and 19-year-old son. His son is still in Edmonton.

The accident was caused when a crane, hoisting the platform on which the men were standing, collapsed.

Cheers for Leaders

WALLACEBURG, Ont. — Prime Minister Lester Pearson was cheered all along the way Tuesday as he carried the Liberal banner of prosperity into Southwestern Ontario.

He drew big crowds and good responses in a hectic 16-hour campaign day—one of his busiest of the election—in predominantly Tory country.

Pearson tied his plea for a majority Liberal government to the continuation and expansion of Canada's current prosperity.

He was in good form and clicked at three speaking engagements during the day, particularly at a night rally in Wallaceburg, a largely rural area about 50 miles north of Windsor.

The meeting drew an enthusiastic, Maple Leaf-flag waving capacity crowd of more than 1,400.

Pearson praised the achievements of the Canada-U.S. auto pact—which he said the Tories no longer criticize because of increased production and jobs and lower prices—and fanned speculation of impending major industrial announcements in this part of Ontario.

EXCITING NEWS

The prime minister said some pretty exciting happenings are due in the near future because of the pact.

There are strong rumors that one of the big three manufacturers is planning a $75 million plant near London.

But he also drew rounds of applause as he touched on a wide range of topics—nationalism, unity, agricultural policies, industrial expansion, and the need for more trade.

And he even got a kiss on the cheek from pretty 18-year-old Frances Deshaw, who took the opportunity after giving Mrs. Pearson flowers.

30 RIDINGS

Pearson's reception raised high hopes of Liberal organizers that they can cut into Tory strength n the area. There are 30 ridings in the region west of Toronto bounded by Lake Erie and Lake Huron, and the split in the last election was Conservatives 20, Liberals 10.

The prime minister drew 600

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Quebec Bureau Staff Writer

QUEBEC CITY—An enthusiastic crowd of about 1,100 Tuesday night applauded Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker's "appeal to the heart of Quebec" in its ancient capital.

The crowd, larger by about 200 than the one drawn by Prime Minister Pearson when he spoke here two weeks ago, twice gave Mr. Diefenbaker the traditional French-Canadian salute: A chorus of "Il a Gagne ses Epaulettes."

"I have always fought for the constitutional rights of the minority," the Conservative leader said. "I fight now for unity based on equality."

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke in French for 15 minutes from a prepared text and then switched to English for the benefit "of those who are not completely bilingual."

WORKING-CLASS DISTRICT

"They said I didn't dare to come into this province," Mr. Diefenbaker told the audience in Durocher Centre in a working-class district of Quebec. "I was to be welcomed as the pestilence.

"There was none of that."

Mr. Diefenbaker cited, as among the services done French Canada by his government:

- Simultaneous translation in the House of Commons;
- Appointment of the first French-speaking governor-general;
- Appointment of outstanding French-speaking Canadians to senior posts in the public service.

He said that these steps had met opposition but he took them because "they were right."

The Conservative leader said that, thanks to him the Fulton-Favreau formula for amending the constitution was "dead as a dodo."

He said that under the formula the French-speaking citizens of Canada would never have been able to improve their position and increase their

N.S. Demonstrators Ask for More Aid

HALIFAX (CP)—An orderly crowd of more than 1,000 students representing six Nova Scotia universities marched on the legislative buildings today with a seven-page brief asking more government aid to higher education.

They were met on the steps by Finance Minister G. I. Smith and Attorney-General Richard A. Donahoe, representing Premier and Education Minister Stanfield, as well as Liberal Leader Gerald A. Regan and Acting New Democratic Party Leader J. H. Aitchison.

Key recommendations called for increased federal and provincial financial aid, including increased per capita grants to $5 from the current $2, more assistance in the form of scholarships and bursaries and "a corresponding, immediate reduction of fees."

The brief also asked for a federal-provincial conference on higher education immediately after the Nov. 8 federal election "to delineate federal-provincial responsibilities in higher education."

Finance Minister Smith told the students, "We'd be delighted to attend if it can be arranged."

Love-Struck Charles Sent Into Exile?

PARIS (Reuters) — The weekly newspaper France Dimanche says Prince Charles is being exiled to school in Australia because he has fallen in love with a Scottish farmer's daughter.

The paper, which specializes in sensational stories about persons in high society, says the 17-year-old British prince met the girl, Juliette, in a cafe at Elgin, near his school at Gordonstoun in Northern Scotland.

(In London, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said today: "The prince is going to Australia to study in the normal course of his education and for no other reason.")

It was officially announced earlier this month that Charles would become a pupil for 3½ months at Geelong grammar school, one of Australia's leading academies.

Africans Herded By Dogs

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Police today used snarling and biting dogs to control excited crowds of Negroes who gathered in the centre of Salisbury while British Prime Minister Wilson met an African nationalist leader.

Newspaper men saw a Negro policeman with a vicious-looking black dog give the animal a free leash to jump at groups of persons who refused to move on.

The scenes took place as Wilson, who flew to Salisbury Monday in a last-ditch bid to keep this self-governing white-ruled British colony from seizing independence, met with restricted nationalist leader Joshua Nkomo.

The arrest for incitement of a colored (mixed race) family—a middle-aged man, his wife and teen - age son — nearly sparked a full-scale riot.

PUSHED INTO WAGON

They were pushed into a paddy wagon shouting: "Give us back our country, we kill you all if you don't!"

Reporters saw at least four persons arrested and several others mauled by dogs as police dispersed the crowd of several hundred Africans outside Government House.

Some of the demonstrators held crudely-painted signs with slogans including "Africans must rule now," "We want our country—take away (Prime Minister Ian) Smith now and suspend the constitution" and "Wilson: One man, one vote in Zimbabwe (Rhodesia)."

About half the police handling the crowd were white and half Negroes.

BRAZIL CRISIS

Decree Abolishes Political Groups

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Balked by Congress, the Brazilian government abolished all political parties today and gave military courts sweeping new powers.

Under a new Institutional Act superseding portions of the constitution, President Humberto Castello Branco has power to declare a state of siege and to rule by decree for up to 180 days and grant military courts jurisdiction over cases heretofore limited to the supreme court.

Castello Branco came out of the army leadership in April, 1964, to take over the government after the military overthrew leftist Joao Goulart as president.

The president is empowered to close Congress during the state of siege and purge public officials elected or appointed at all levels — federal, state and municipal.

Despite the abolition of political parties and their membership registries, the present congress remains open.

SPOKE ON TV

In a brief address on television before the new act was read by an aide, Castello Branco said the step was necessary because "we need tranquillity for the nation's economic development."

Castello Branco said the revolutionary regime in power since Goulart's overthrow faces danger from supporters of the deposed president who "threaten and dare revolutionary action."

"Revolution is alive and does not retreat."

The other measures in the new act include expansion of the supreme court to 16 members from 11 and indirect election of the next president by Congress.

The document said the president would decide the date for the next presidential election, which must be held no later than Oct. 3, 1966.

The announcement followed a week of political tension climaxed by marathon congressional sessions Tuesday night debating government - backed constitutional changes.

Resistance revolved around the Social Democratic party and the Brazilian Labor party, both strong supporters of Goulart.

One provision of the new act says future constitutional amendments proposed by the government will go into effect automatically if they are not acted upon by congress within 30 days of their submission.

Kubitschek, whose return from self-exile Oct. 4 helped precipitate the crisis, is under medical care, reported suffering from high blood pressure after nearly two weeks of questioning by military inquiry boards. The boards are investigating charges of corruption and Communist infiltration during his regime.

Kubitschek's home coming after the success of his party in state elections the day before caused members of the government and armed forces to demand tighter control over national security.

AFFECTS KUBITSCHEK

One feature of the act abolishes the supreme court as the privileged forum for trials of former presidents. This affects Kubitschek if his case is brought to trial.

The Social Democrats were reported to have offered the government a deal during the weekend to support constitutional amendments if the administration promised to maintain the supreme court as a forum for Kubitschek. The deal was rejected.

The proposal to increase the court's membership was backed by the military. Most judges are holdovers from the Kubitschek and Goulart regimes and are not considered sympathetic to Castello Branco's revolution.

Service Retirements Hit By Dief

FREDERICTON, N.B. (UPI) — Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker said today that if elected his party will discontinue the current forced retirements in the armed forces and give a bonus to servicemen who re-enlist.

Diefenbaker was commenting here on a letter sent to the forces by Lester B. Pearson, in which the prime minister set out Liberal achievements.

Diefenbaker said that instead of boasting, the Liberal government should be doing something to raise the morale of the forces now "at its lowest level in history."

"We intend to do away with the rule of forced retirement," said Diefenbaker. "Those who have retired should be given the opportunity to re-enlist."

Cong Invade, Blast Two U.S. Bases

A U.S. military spokesman said the guerrillas destroyed a number of planes at the Chu Lai air strip for jet fighters and a number of helicopters at the marine air installation just east of Da Nang.

rights because amendment of the constitution would have required unanimous consent of the provinces.

"I took the stand alone," he declared.

"Finally the Conservative party followed me."

His views on the constitution were:

'FOR, BY CANADIANS'

"Let us have a constitution made in Canada for Canadians and by Canadians."

To accomplish this he favored a constitutional conference in the spirit of the first Fathers of Confederation who, despite suspicions and fears, "were able to join together."

Such a conference would have been held if his government had not been defeated by a vote of the House in 1963 and would be held if he were returned to offic.

"Nobody can deny," he said, "that such a conference to gauge the spirit of Canada as a whole would be a success."

Of the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism, Mr. Diefenbaker said that he and his party took the position that "a lot would be said but no action taken."

FORMER MINISTERS

Conservative candidates from the Quebec City district shared the platform with Mr. Diefenbaker. Among them were two former ministers, Raymond O'Hurley, defence production, and Martial Asselin, forestry, both seeking re-election Nov. 8.

Mr. O'Hurley scoffed at charges that Mr. Diefenbaker was a "mange-Canayen" (literally an eater of French-Canadians).

Andre Asselin, 25-year-old law student who is PC candidate in Quebec-Montmorency, accused Lean Balcer, former Quebec leader of the Conservatives, who said there was no place for a French-Canadian in the Diefenbaker party, of having received "thirty pieces of silver from the Liberals."

PARTY PROGRAM

Mr. Diefenbaker devoted much of the French portion of his speech to an outline of his party's program:

- Aid to Eastern Canadian farmers;
- A guaranteed price of $4 a hundred pounds for industrial milk;
- Grants, in agreement with the provinces, of 75 per cent of the cost of schools for retraining those who wished to get into other lines of work;
- Removal of the "unjustifiable" tax of 11 per cent on construction materials;
- Restoration of federal subsidies of 35 per cent on shipbuilding in Canada;
- Increase of old age pension from $75 to $100.
- Establishment of a health program according to the report of the royal commission on health services.

lead helicopter. Lieut. Hamel followed a few minutes later."

CONDITION FAIR

Both injured men are in the U.S. navy base hospital at Adak and are reported in fair condition.

Their names have not yet been released by the shipping company.

"She must have had a terrible trip up here," Capt. Bartol said. "She came in late last night and is tied up here right now with the crew taking it easy."

SEA SUBSIDING

"She's standing by in case the weather deteriorates and the Ekaterini starts to break up," Capt. Bartol said. "There is no immediate danger of that and the sea is subsiding a little. The men still on board are quite safe at present. But she will stay out there with her 80-man crew just in case."

Capt. Bartol said it was impossible to say at this time whether the Ekaterini — bound for Japan to Vancouver in ballast to pick up a grain cargo when disaster overtook her — will be a total loss.

'DOESN'T LOOK GOOD'

"It's difficult to say just how badly damaged she is," Capt. Bartol said. "But it doesn't look good. She has a slash from bows to midship and she's high and dry on the rocks. But we shall have to make a closer examination before any decision can be made."

If the Ekaterini is a total loss her crew will be ferried first to Adak and then to Anchorage before being returned to Vancouver to await shipping company instructions.

The saga of the Ekaterini began nine days ago when heaving seas lifted her stern out of the water and she threw her propeller.

For almost 24 hours she was at the mercy of pounding seas until the Adak-based tug reached her and began the long tow to the Aleutians.

The two vessels fought continuous gales until Tuesday morning when the tug pulled the Ekaterini into the lee of Great Sitkine a few miles from safe water.

LAST PUNCH

And there, with the Sudbury II still pounding towards the rendezvous point, the ocean threw its last punch, the cable snapped and the freighter drove ashore.

This morning Capt. Bartol said the weather was "pretty good for up here. Heavy rain showers, winds still gusting to 50 miles an hour but with the sea subsiding."

When it subsides enough the last chapter of the drama will be enacted. The navy tug will move in and take the cold and wet seamen off the beach and the Sudbury will start its long, tow-less journey home.

Bomb Blasts Home of MP

SMETHWICK (Reuters) — An explosion early today that wrecked the hall in the home of Smethwick's controversial MP, Peter Griffiths, was caused by a time bomb, police said.

Griffiths, 37-year-old Conservative member, took the seat last year by defeating former foreign secretary Patrick Gordon Walker in a campaign marked by racial issues. This industrial town has a large Negro and Asian population.

Colquitz 'A Pig Sty:' Prisoner

A prisoner re-captured after being several hours away from Colquitz jail Oct. 14 told police who arrested him that the prison "is a pig sty and the warden is a pig."

Michael Connolly made the remark to Detective-Sergeant Robin Stewart, according to Constable Fred Broderson.

Cons. Broderson was testifying at preliminary hearing Tuesday into a charge against Connolly of escaping lawful custody. The hearing was adjourned to Nov. 5.

Cons. Broderson said Connolly talked with Det.-Sgt. Stewart in a Saanich detective car after his re-capture. Saanich police dogmaster, Constable Jim White, said his dog picked up Connolly's scent and flushed him out from where he was hiding in dense bush near Ivor Road.

Evidence was heard that Connolly disappeared from custody while out in the fields working with a party in a potato patch.

Wallaceburg is in Lambton-Kent riding, won by the Tories by a slim 24-vote margin in 1963, and the Liberals are hopeful that Jack Beatty can win it this time.

KEY FACTOR

Pearson was greeted outside Wallaceburg high school by a band and led inside by pipers. A responsive crowd gave him a long standing ovation.

The prime minister said things can be done by a minority government and he was proud of the achievements of the last 2½ years—but said a majority is desirable for long-term planning, and to give the central government a strong voice when dealing with the provinces and foreign governments.

Pearson said farm export throughout Canada has increased during the Liberal rule, and he was applauded again when he cited the latest $400 million wheat sale to China.

VIGOROUS DRIVE

But he said there must be a vigorous export drive for other specialized farm products of Canada.

Pearson also said the family farm must produce a living comparable to that provided by the average annual industrial wage, which he said was about $4,200 across Canada.

Pearson also announced that $4 million in support prices will be going out to Canada's sugar-beet farmers for the 1966 season. Lambton-Kent is a beet-producing area.

SHARP REDUCTION

He said that unemployment had come down in the Liberal era to 2.5 per cent, a sharp reduction from the 750,000 unemployed in the John Diefenbaker years.

His remarks on unity drew cheers, applause, and the waving of Maple Leaf flags.

Pearson said the French-speaking people in Canada have guaranteed rights under the constitution that must be respected.

"They must feel they are partners in Canada as well as Canadians in Quebec," Pearson said.

Abolition of Fees Sought In Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — University of Alberta students today asked the provincial government to abolish university tuition fees in Alberta.

A brief to Education Minister R. H. McKinnon said tuition free education "should at least be provided for first year students who suffer most acutely from the financial and social barriers to post-secondary education."

The brief, presented by the students' union on both Edmonton and Calgary campuses, coincided with National Student Day, celebrated by most Canadian universities.

All-Candidate Event Off; Socred Rally Same Night

The meeting was planned some time ago for next Wednesday night, but recently the Social Credit party arranged a public rally with Premier Bennett speaking for the same night at the Royal Theatre.

Ralph Pettie, president of the Political Science Forum at the University of Victoria, said the absence of Social Credit candidates means it no longer would be an all-candidates' meeting.

He said he will will contact candidates to get their thoughts before making a decision to go ahead again with the meeting. The playhouse still is booked for that night.

But a Liberal party spokesman said there has been too much "shilly-shallying" about the meeting before now, and both local candidates have arranged other meetings after being told the all-candidates' meeting is off.

An all-candidates' meeting in Esquimalt-Saanich will be held in Sidney Elementary School Monday at 8 p.m.

The meeting is sponsored by the Sidney Junior Chamber of Commerce, whose president, W. J. Knowles, will be in the chair.

He told a public coffee party meeting Tuesday night most people he speaks to want the present government re-elected.

Nature wouldn't replant this timberland for at least 5 years.

Our foresters already have.

It takes Nature five years or more to reseed many forest areas after they have been logged. But in the timberlands we manage, trained foresters start planting almost on the heels of departing loggers. We have other ways of nudging Nature, too. Careful spacing of new plantings is one example. Selective thinning of trees for a healthier crop is another. As a result of these and other forestry measures, the timber crop will be ready for harvesting about ten years earlier than "natural" forests. And they'll eventually yield as much as 40% more wood per acre. In your great-grandchildren's world, where forest products will be more important than ever – that's going to make a fine legacy.

U.K. SURVEY ON CANADA

'World Champion In High Living'

LONDON (CP) — Canada is the Western world's most affluent country and enjoys a moderate cost of living compared with other industrial nations, two British newspaper surveys indicate.

A "table of affluence" published today by The Daily Express rates Canada "the world champion in high living." The rating is based on a system that relates good living to the percentage of households possessing central heating, refrigerators, cars, telephones, washing machines and television.

A Financial Times survey on the cost of living in 23 major world cities, also published today, shows Montreal is a place of moderate costs compared with Tokyo, New York, Paris and London.

The international affluence table in The Express, based on statistics from eight countries, shows Canada top in all six categories. 75 per cent of Canadian homes with central heating, 96 per cent with refrigerators, 75 per cent with cars, 89 per cent telephones, 86 per cent washing machines and 93 per cent television.

The United States is second to Canada in all categories but central heating, where Sweden is second. Other countries in the survey are Britain, Italy, France, West Germany and Switzerland.

Britain ranks third in possession of television sets and washing machines, fifth in telephones and seventh in central heating, refrigerators and cars.

Italy ranks last of the eight countries in all but the television and washing machines categories, where France is bottom of the league.

The Financial Times table, an annual survey designed as a "rough guide" for British businessmen travelling or posted abroad, compares prices for set commodities and services.

It compares the monthly rent for three-room furnished apartment, the cost of a designated shopping list of groceries; the price of a top-rated hotel room; the bill for an evening of specified activities on the town; the price of a designated man's wardrobe, and the bill for a week's service — a charwoman for 20 hours, the weekly laundry and dry-cleaning one suit.

Of eight directly comparable items, the cost in Montreal is in the lower half of the 23-city table for all but clothing and service.

Only Paris and Brussels price a normal weight lounge suit, good-quality shoes and shirt higher than the $126 listed for Montreal, London and New York. The weekly bill for charwoman and laundry service in Montreal is given as $33, with only New York and Stockholm more expensive.

In the key categories of rent, food and clothing, the most expensive cities are Tokyo, Paris, New York, Mexico City, Stockholm, Rome, Helsinki and London. Comparable figures for Montreal are about one-third of Tokyo's cost rating and two-thirds of London's.

A night on the town for four persons — pre-dinner drinks, orchestra theatre sets, dinner at a fashionable restaurant, champagne at a night club and 15 miles in a taxi—is less expensive in Montreal at $81 than in almost any other major city, the survey indicates.

A similar night out in Tokyo would cost $270, in New York $255, in Paris $215 and in London $150, the survey shows.

IN COURT

Agile Prowler Found Guilty

James Dolan, HMCS Yukon, pleaded guilty and was remanded to Nov. 5 for sentence.

Detective Lyle Somers said Dolan was seen climbing down from balcony to balcony at the Queen Victoria Inn, 601 Douglas, around 12:30 a.m.

He said that Dolan was found by police slumped in a chair in a suite he entered through a sliding glass door. Dolan said he had gone to visit his girl friend and when she did not answer the doorbell he had tried to enter by going up to the roof and climbing down the balconies.

The detective said that although Dolan was almost in a state of intoxication he showed considerable agility in climbing.

Kenneth Mindenhall, HMCS Antigonish, was fined $25 when he pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance.

Constable Bruce Campbell said Mindenhall was using abusive language when he arrived on the scene. Mindenhall had gone to the restaurant with a friend who left without paying.

When employees asked Mindenhall to pay for both meals he refused until he had finished his own meal. But the employees refused to let Mindenhall finish his meal because of the noise he was making.

Magistrate Ostler said Mindenhall was justifiably annoyed at the incident but should not have used bad language after police arrived.

Sonja Hansen, 4649 Cordova Bay Road, was remanded to Nov. 5 for sentence after she pleaded guilty to stealing an $8.88 transistor radio from a city store Friday night.

She admitted the offence when stopped on the parking lot by a detective who was called to the store.

Train Robber's Pal Captured in U.K.

Biggs, one of 12 men convicted for the $7,200,000 "great train robbery" in August, 1963, is still missing, as is Charles Wilson, who escaped earlier from another prison. Both were serving 30-year sentences.

Moscow Orders Death For 5 Nazi Suspects

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A court in Riga today sentenced to death five Latvians — including one living in Canada and another in the United States — for alleged war crimes committed during the German occupation of Latvia in the Second World War.

Three men sentenced to death in absentia were Harold Puntilis of Willowdale, Ont.; Boleslav Maikovskis of Mineola, N.Y., and Albert Eichelis of Karlsruhe, West Germany.

The trial lasted three weeks. Of the six accused, three were present in court. Two of these, Jazep Basankvic and Janis Krasovkis, were sentenced to death, and Peter Valenk was given 15 years in jail, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported.

All six were accused of taking part in the murder of 15,000 people in the Rezekne district of eastern Latvia between 1941 and 1942.

The death sentence always is carried out by shooting in the Soviet Union. Announcing the sentences, Tass did not say whether any of the accused present will appeal.
